—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LLOYD GEORGE, ablest man that Britain or any other democracy has produced in a century, is 70 years old today and vigorous, on his way to 80 and beyond.

He believes, as he well may, that he may find his most important work still ahead of him. He, with Clemenceau, saved Britain, France and the other Allies from defeat by the Germans, with the usual ingratitude for reward.

Our self-satisfied "best minds" will be surprised by Lloyd George's statement:

"There are only two men that have a real grasp of what is going on in the world. One is Mussolini, the other is Stalin."

ONE SENATOR from Oklahoma and various others talk freely about "revolution" as a possibility in the United States.

Such talk, if it were believed, would be like shouting "fire!" in a crowded theater.

Fortunately, there will be no revolution here. Seattle and Miami would not agree the same day, week or month for revolution. San Diego and Portland, Me., would not join hands and say, "Let's revolt." They are too far apart.

ALSO, THE people of the United States can vote, which was not the case in France or Russia, that had real revolutions.

The people of the United States need only find out what is the matter with them and their system and then vote to get rid of it.

If they don't know what's the matter with them and can't find out, how would a revolution help them?

DR. A. K. ROHRBACH, of Berlin, has invented a "revolving-wing airplane," recalling the old "side-wheel steamboats." If it works as expected, it will fly straight up and come straight down at any speed desired, with or without a motor.

With no motor, it will descend more slowly than a parachute. It will stand still in mid-air for an indefinite period, will turn around in mid-air on its vertical axis, or fly backwards, make 125 miles an hour, and it will not crash. Revolving wings supply the power, no propeller.

IF ALL this does not come true now, it will a little later. Today's airplanes are mere imitations of nature. Heavier than air machines imitate the bird, with its wings outspread. Dirigibles imitate nature's method of transporting seeds through the air.

Mere imitation solves no problem permanently. If it did, locomotives would be propelled by moving levers, like the legs of a deer.

ROCCO CASTALANO, with a wife and one baby, born last October, got along somehow for two years with only a few days' work. Then conditions became VERY bad, nothing to eat, and they could not pay the baby's milk bill.

At 2 o'clock yesterday morning, Castalano heard the baby cry, and found it sucking the nipple of an empty bottle. His wife had grown thin from hunger, and he was discouraged. He swallowed a little poison, his wife knocked the bottle out of his hand.

He locked himself into a room and turned on the gas. His wife broke down the door. He left her and the baby, both crying, ran to the Gowanus Canal Bridge, climbed over the railing, Stephen Leonard, policeman, dragged him back.

Castalano fought the policeman for half an hour, although, as the policeman said, he was half starved and weak. Both were cut and bleeding when the policeman had beaten him into submission and locked him up. He told the police lieutenant:

"Yes, I think I must be crazy."

This boring narrative is printed to let you and the government know that big corporations are not alone in their financial troubles.

THE POPE issued a bull, setting aside the twelve months following April 2 as a "holy year of prayer, penance and pilgrimage to Rome and Palestine." Pius XI hopes this will lead to "social, political and international peace."

This "extraordinarily holy year" marks the nineteen hundredth anniversary of the "passion of Jesus Christ, his crucifixion and death for the salvation of men." It is based on the belief that Christ was thirty-three years old the year of the crucifixion, although the Pope carefully states that "the precise year" of the death and crucifixion has not been historically proved.

The bull includes "mercifully in the Lord, a plenary indulgence for punishment of sins" under certain conditions, which include visiting four times each three churches in Rome, in each one praying "according to our intention."

A YOUNG girl in Chippewa Falls, Wis., has been sneezing steadily for a week, except during short periods, when drugs relieved her. Experts from the Mayo Hospital, puzzled, cannot understand what ails the girl's physical machinery.

This reminds you to be grateful for your body, so "fearfully and wonderfully made," ten million times more complicated than any automobile or airplane.

The machine locked up in your skull, made up of billions of cells, and endless trillions and sextrillions of atoms, is in-

FIND BEAVER GIRL'S MATE SHOT DEAD

Widow Daughter of Ex-Woman Cabinet Member

PALMYRA, N. J., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Baffled in their quest for a motive in the mysterious shooting of Bradway Brown, 28-year-old social registerite, police pressed their search today for two men seen leaving the victim's home.

Brown, a witness in the Wilson-Roberts murder and suicide case in 1929 and treasurer of a Philadelphia printing company, was found dead in the toy-littered living room of his home last night.

His wife, Mrs. Ruth McCauley Brown, arrived home today. She had been visiting her mother, Mrs. E. H. A. McCauley, of Beaver, Pa., who was Pennsylvania state secretary of welfare in the cabinet of former Gov. John S. Fisher.

BLOODSTAIN FOUND

Ellis Parker, chief of Burlington County detectives, and other investigators, turned their attention to a bloodstain discovered on a door of Brown's home—the door nearest the garage at the side of the house. Parker said he believed Brown's death was suicide.

When the body was found a .32-caliber pistol, from which four shots had been fired, was at his side. But he had been shot only twice. One bullet pierced his left chest and is believed to have entered the lung. The other went into his right chest near the armpit, and is believed to have been imbedded in his back.

From these facts some investigators deduced Brown was shot

ROB MERCHANT AT BANK DOOR

Stopped by an armed robber as he was about to enter the Swissvale National Bank, a few doors from the Star Market, 2028 Noble street, Swissvale, of which he is manager, Louis Blumenfeld was robbed of $127 at noon today.

The robber fled with a companion in a waiting car.

The robber stopped Blumenfeld with a request for a match. As Blumenfeld replied he had none, the robber forced him to the curb and against the waiting car with the command:

"All right, then, turn over your money."

The robber seized a money bag and leaped into the machine. Blumenfeld obtained the automobile license number, which he turned over to Swissvale police.

Hill 'Baron' Loses Driving License

Greenlee, according to police, figured in a collision in Franks-town avenue New Years day in which several of his passengers were injured.

UPHOLD PACTS —ROOSEVELT

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—An indication that the new administration will uphold the present policy in the Far East of Secretary of State Stimson was seen today in the flat statement of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt that "American foreign policy must uphold the sanctity of international treaties."

The statement of the President-elect followed the reaffirmation of the policy of the United States in not recognizing territory acquired through aggression in advices sent American diplomatic representatives throughout the world by the State Department.

FAR EAST CRISIS

This non-recognition policy was originally put forth in connection with the Far Eastern emergency.

ROME, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Prof. Charles Eydoux, the head of Polytechnic Institute of Paris, who was arrested September 4 with his secretary on a charge of spying, has confessed, police say.

Cockeyed Cat Lie Wins Rubber Medal for Champ

BURLINGTON, Wis., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Champion of all the liars of the United States, Phil McCarthy, of Denver, Col., will soon be decorated by a proxy of the Burlington Liars' Club with a rubber medal symbolic of his title.

Should the truth of his claim to national fame be questioned, club officials said, McCarthy is entitled to a quick means of proving he was the originator of the peg-leg cat story, judged as the best of some 1,200 submitted in an annual contest.

The cat, he said, slew many mice by looking cockeyed at them through a knot hole in its peg-leg.

As the result of considerable correspondence since the judging took place on New Years Eve, officials of the Liars' Club have obtained the consent of a Denver newspaperman, Volney Hoggatt, to act as their agent at the medal-pinning ceremonies.

Club officials admit a sentimental as well as pecuniary interest in the medal prompted them to seek out a reliable and reputable agent. The medal must be returned by next December 1—the reason is no money in the Liars' Club treasury to buy a new one—and as one official said, "Anyone connected with an organization of liars can't trust anybody—much."

However, it was decided that Hoggatt's promise to replevin the medal, if necessary, was sufficient guarantee that it would be returned here in time to be polished up for presentation to the 1934 champion.

AUDIT HELD 'RACKET' BY WOODSIDE

Lays 'Mock Heroics, Sham Virtue' to Commissioners

Controller Robert G. Woodside hurled a three-shot bombardment at the County Commissioners today as a preliminary skirmish before the "battle" at Thursday's public hearing to air his charges that inefficiency and espionage are rampant throughout the county government under control of the board. Today's cannonade embodied the following developments:

1—Woodside asked an independent audit of his office accounts by a voluntary committee named by the Pittsburgh Chapter, Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

2—He termed the Commissioners' audit by Main and Main & Co. a racket.

VIEW OF M'GOVERN

Informed of the Controller's request for an independent audit, Chairman C. C. McGovern said:

"I think it is a very fine thing for an unbiased committee to look over the Controller's books, but I believe both the Controller and the Commissioners should be given equal right in selecting such a committee."

Woodside's letter to William P. Marsh, president of the accountants' association, reads in part:

"I would appreciate it very much if you would appoint an unbiased committee of certified public accountants who will volunteer their services to the County of Allegheny to examine

PHILIPPINES FREEDOM VOTED

Senate Follows House In Overriding Veto To Enact Law

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The Philippine independence bill, giving the 13,000,000 inhabitants of the islands 12 years in which to achieve their liberty, was enacted into law today by Congress over the veto of President Hoover. The vote was 66 to 26.

The final step was taken when the Senate overrode the veto. The House approved the bill last week over the veto by a vote of 274 to 94.

The Filipinos can achieve independence under the bill by drafting and ratifying a constitution, in conformity with terms laid down by the United States. The islands must ratify this constitution within two years or lose their chance for independence.

If the Philippine people ratify the constitution, the islands will win independence at the end of another 10-year period.

The bill was bitterly fought by the administration on the contention it would lead to the economic collapse of the Philippine people. This objection was raised against sections of the bill which impose export taxes on the island's exports to the United States after five years.

President Hoover also declared the bill was harmful both to the Philippines and to the United States.

The Philippine Legislature and all its legislative representatives here approved the measure, however, as did all the Senate and House committees dealing with the question.

DAUGHTER BORN TO MRS. SNIPES

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—A daughter was born today to Mrs. Beatrice Ferguson Snipes, whose death sentence for slaying a York County officer was commuted last week by Gov. Blackwood, to life imprisonment.

After commutation of her sentence, Mrs. Snipes, already mother of a 6-year-old son, was transferred from the state penitentiary to the state hospital here.

Dr. Fred Williams, superintendent of the hospital, said:

"Both mother and daughter are getting along fine."

Mrs. Snipes was convicted of shooting to death Elliott Harris when the rural officer stopped an automobile in which she was riding with her husband, Clyde Snipes, to search it for whisky. Finding none, he attempted to arrest Snipes for reckless driving. An argument ensued and Mrs. Snipes said she shot the officer after he had struck her.

HOUSE GROUP WILL URGE ACTION

Law, Order Committee Organizes, Takes Liberal Stand

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17.—The House Law and Order Committee will favorably report to the House next week Blue Law modification bills and a measure to repeal the Snyder dry enforcement act.

Without a record vote, and through overwhelming sentiment, the committee reached that decision today when it met to organize under the direction of its chairman, Representative Harry Himes, of Armstrong County.

Two bills by Representative Schwartz, Philadelphia, deal with the Blue Laws. One permits outdoor sports during afternoon hours, and the other applies to theaters and places of indoor entertainment. Both bills confer local option in Sunday observance.

STEEDLE BILL FAVORED

A third local option bill, by Representative Joseph G. Steedle, of Allegheny, probably will be reported.

No hearings are to be held by the House committee, according to present plans, and passage of the legislation in the lower branch is considered assured.

In the Senate, however, sentiment is not so clearly defined and the Senate Law and Order Committee is expected to conduct hearings on the entire group of bills.

Representative Philip Sterling, Philadelphia, last night introduced a bill creating a state liquor commission.

LIQUOR CONTROL

The commission would regulate the manufacture, distribution and sale of beer, wine and liquor in the event Congress modifies the Volstead act or repeals the Eighteenth Amendment.

The measure provides for three units—a producing corporation to manufacture and produce liquor under the laws of the Constitution; a distributing corporation to sell liquor, and for the licensing of hotels, restaurants and eating houses to sell beer and wine.

The sale of any other kind of liquor would be prevented in hotels and restaurants.

'Sidewalks of N. Y.' Rosy Again for Song Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—New York, sidewalks and all, which looked pretty harsh just a couple of days ago, was "the same kind old city under a new coat of paint" today as James W. Blake contemplated what had been done for him.

Blake wrote "The Sidewalks of New York," which in 1928 resounded over the land before the banner of Alfred E. Smith.

A year ago he lost his job, his money ran out and Saturday he was found to be destitute with an aged sister and a blind brother on his hands.

Former Gov. Smith reached for a telephone when he read about it. William H. Mathews, director of the family welfare department of the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, assured the former Governor that everything possible would be done.

The needs of the family were provided for the next two weeks, and Blake learned that he and his sister were eligible for old-age pensions of $75 a month each. He hadn't known that. Mathews said:

"If we only could dramatize in like manner the misery, the distress, the anguish of the thousands who are still tramping the sidewalks of New York in a fruitless search for work, then we might get somewhere with a decent and adequate program for relef."

PITTSBURGH CITY MANAGER BILLS BEFORE LEGISLATURE

G. O. P. LEADERS FIGHT CHANGE IN SYSTEM

Coyne Again Voices Opposition to Vote On Mayor's Job

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17.—Two bills to permit Pittsburgh to vote on whether it will adopt the city manager form of government were introduced in the Assembly today.

Senator Frank J. Harris laid before the Senate the bill approved by the Municipal Charter Committee of Pittsburgh, of which F. C. Irish is chairman.

Representative John J. Kane introduced in the House a bill embodying the ideas of the Allegheny County Democratic delegation for revision of the city government.

PROVIDES FOR ELECTION

Machinery to permit the adoption of a city manager for Pittsburgh was contained in a bill introduced today in the House by Representative Leonard P. Kane. The measure provides for submitting the question to the voters of the city at a municipal election.

In the event the city manager plan is adopted, Kane's bill provides that two councilmanic elections must intervene before it could be placed on the ballot.

Members of Council would be selected under a system of proportional representation and the Council would elect the city manager. The Mayor also would be chosen by Council.

Republican organization forces in the Legislature have sharpened their axes for both bills. Senator James J. Coyne today reiterated his opposition to the bills, even though they are only permissive legislation. W. L. Mellon has been approached by backers of the bills, but is understood to have given cold comfort to the plan.

Each of the bills is a permissive measure, conferring on Pittsburgh the right to decide at a special or regular election whether it will adopt the manager plan, with the proportional system of electing city councilmen. The office of Mayor as an elective official is abolished, but Council would choose from its own membership a Mayor, who would act on ceremonial occasions as the representative of the city, but would have no veto on legislation.

PLAN SPRING VOTE

The question of adoption can be placed on the ballot either by resolution of council or a petition signed by 5,000 voters. A special election may be ordered 30 days ahead of a primary, but cannot be held at a primary.

It is the plan of proponents of the bill to have a special election next spring, ahead of the September municipal primary, at which under present law a mayor and five members of Council are to be nominated.

Under the terms of the charter committee's bill, the present council of nine would be ripped from office and a complete new municipal legislative body would be selected at the November election of this year.

Proportional representation is provided for the election of councilmen with the voters expressing first, second, third and continuing choices. Under this method the minority of the electorate is given a voice in municipal legislation.

CITES HUGE COST

Attacking the Commissioners' audit by Main & Co., the letter continued:

"The appropriations for this audit were made in sums of $25,000 from time to time. It soon became so apparent, in fact a joke in our office, that when the amount appropriated was about to be exacted, another startling report would be submitted by Main & Co.

"When the cost of the service for a public audit reached the staggering sum of $141,631.53, an amount far in excess of the salary poll of this office, it seemed to me that it had developed into a racket, and that it was my duty ac Controller to interpose a vigorous objection to the further continuance of this audit.

Referring to his offer to return to the 1909 salary basis of $8,000 a year for county officials, if the Commissioners would "go along" with him, Woodside continued:

"This challenge has been dodged by the Commissioners. Economy, like charity, begins at home; so le tthe Commissioners reduce their own salaries to the 1909 level before they reduce salaries at the expense of the small salary earner on the county payroll.

"Economy in one direction offset by extravagance in the other direction is no economy at all. That i spreciselv the state of affairs that the present Board of County Commissioners has brought about."

Plans for the engagement of a publicity director were made. Each House member is to be assessed $25 for this purpose.

The Mansfield bill was passed in 1929 during attacks on the coal and iron police system following the slaying of John Barkosky, for which members of the coal and iron police of the Pittsburgh Coal Company were tried.

G. O. P. SPLITS OVER HOUSE PATRONAGE

Organization Has Slim Margin to Force Appointments

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17.—An open break over the distribution of patronage developed in the lower branch of the Legislature today, and Republican organization members won only by four votes in defeating an attempt to throw out the report of their slate committee.

The committee's distribution of patronage in naming House employes was approved by a vote of 109 to 73 after a spirited battle in which Representative David K. Bechtel, of Schuylkill, charges interference with legislative authority and duties by "other powers" outside the Legislature.

SCHUYLKILL PROTEST

He said the committee, of which Representative Joseph G. Steedle, Allegheny, is chairman, ignored Schuylkill County legislators and accepted recommendations of the Schuylkill Republican chairman instead. He said Steedle told him the county chairman's recommendations will be final.

James Wettach, of Pittsburgh, was one of two former members of the Legislature to receive House positions. He was named assistant clerk. The Rev. Omer B. Poulson, Huntingdon, who bolted the Republican ranks last November to seek election to Congress as a dry independent, was displaced as chaplain.

The vote on adoption of the slate committee's report showed a split in the Philadelphia delegation's ranks as well as affecting other parts of the state.

ALLEGHENY JOBHOLDERS

The report as adopted included these Allegheny County appointments:

Assistant journal clerk, J. Wallace Ray, 1135 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks; desk clerk, Mayer Sanders, 2220 Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh; clerks to committees, Edward Hough, 4 Elsie street, N. S., Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Elvira Cox, Longean avenue, Pittsburgh; sergeant-at-arms, William Gallagher, 2113 Liberty avenue, Pittsburgh; assistant sergeants-at-arms, Peter Marcinni, Broughton; Michael Walsh, and James Badger, 560-A Middle avenue, Wilmerding; superintendent of folding room, Frank P. McBride, Pittsburgh; night watchman, W. J. Heiser, McKees Rocks.

Miss Compson, the movie beauty, who has reported to police that she has recovered the $41,500 in jewelry she says was taken from her by a robber who bound, gagged her and a guest in Hollywood. What's more, says Miss Compson, she didn't pay a cent.

COMPSON GEMS RECOVERED

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The arrest of a Hollywood "man about town" in the mysterious $41,500 jewel robbery reported by Betty Compson and the equally mysterious return of the jewels to the screen actress, was forecast today by Chief of Detectives Joseph F. Taylor.

Chief Taylor said the suspect is a "contact" man for an organized gang of jewel robbers which has been preying on film notables during the last year. Taylor said the man has arranged for the return of stolen jewels to owners for payment of a "fee."

Taylor said he believed the return of Miss Compson's jewelry without a demand for money was due to fear on the part of the ring responsible for the robbery, as well as of the "contact" man.

Bill Seeks Ban On Alien Miners

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Representative O. J. Powell, Northumberland, today introduced a bill in the House to prevent aliens from obtaining miners' certificates in the anthracite region. The measure does not apply to laborers or miners' apprentices.

Powell said he was prompted to introduce the bill so that aliens "do not get the cream which they have been getting for the last 20 years."

UPHOLD PACTS -ROOSEVELT

pressed approval of the policy of President Hoover in dealing with the Japanese-Chinese situation left the press group to prepare a statement in his upstairs study.

The statement follows:

"Any statement relating to any particular foreign situation must, of course, come from the Secretary of State of the United States.

"I am, however, wholly willing to make it clear that American foreign policy must uphold the sanctity of the international treaty.

"That is a cornerstone on which all relations between nations must rest."

The reaffirmation of the Stimson doctrine, with the apparent approval of Mr. Roosevelt, is regarded as a vtal development n American foreign policy. In effect, it means that the United States will not recognize the ecquisition of territory by any power by forcible means.

JAPS BOMB CHINESE

TOKIO, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Japanese airplanes bombed Chinese troops in the Kailu district in Northeast Jehol province for the second successive day, it was learned here today.

Japanese reports from Tungliao, the Japanese barracks near the Jehol-Manchurian border, told of the air attack.

Japanese military leaders expressed the view that the air bombings, plus 'internal discords" were breaking up the Chinese volunteer concentration at that point. This, they believed, was preventing a contemplated attack on Tungliao by the Chinese.

Japan Calls American Envoy 'Sensitive'

TOKIO, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—A Japanese intimation that Ambassador Joseph C. Grew, of the United States, may be "too sensitive" was flung out today as both American and Japanese officials sought to explain the diplomatic tangle caused by a war office statement that China was getting military supplies from the United States.

Officials of the United States embassy made it clear that Ambassador Grew, in denying an understanding had been reached through which American arms, money and ammunition would be supplied to China, had aimed his denial at Japanese newspaper dispatches from Nanking, one of which held that China's adoption of a strong defensive attitude was based on the alleged understanding with the United States government as well as on another agreement with Soviet Russia.

GAG RULE ASKED TO END SENATE FILIBUSTERS

Glass Seeks Curb on 'Kingfish;' Change In Rules Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, today moved invocation of cloture limiting debate on his banking reform bill immediately after the Senate disposed of the Philippine issue.

The Virginian had the necessary 16 signatures to bring up cloture for several days, but withheld it until he believed he had sufficient support for its adoption.

A two-thirds vote is required to invoke the rule.

The motion must lie over for a full day before it can be voted upon, which means a decision would not be had before Thursday.

Glass' intentions first were made known off the floor after Senator Bingham (Rep.), of Connecticut, had blocked a vote on a resolution by Senator Long (Dem.), of Louisiana, who has filibustered against the bank bill for five days, calling for a senatorial inquiry into an alleged lobby for and against the measure.

Senator Long dropped the bars on his five-day-old filibuster to let the Senate drive through to a vote on overriding President Hoover's veto of Philippine independence.

The Louisiana Democrat favors the independence bill and spoke for more than three hours yesterday, urging that the Senate follow the action of the House in overriding the veto. Off the floor he said he used the Philippines bill to delay the Glass measure that much more.

A change in Senate rules to prevent filibusters was proposed in a resolution introduced by Senator Hastings, Delaware Republican.

Hastings proposed to adopt a rule which would limit speeches by any one Senator to two hours a day, unless granted permission to talk longer.

Hastings offered his rule without comment and it was referred to the Senate Rules Committee. It was the first proposal within the Senate for many years to restrict debate.

A change in Senate rules to this end was proposed by Charles G. Dawes when he became presiding officer as Vice President in 1925 but no action was ever taken.

HOOVER SALES TAX DRIVE SEEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—Advocacy of a manufacturers' sales levy, expressed by Secretary of the Treasury Mills in a radio broadcast, was regarded today as inspired by the White House, and the opening gun in an administration drive for such legislation, in a last ditch effort to balance the federal budget.

The Treasury secretary pointed to the demoralizing spectacle of a government living beyond its means and warned that "such practice runs counter to the fundamental principles that should govern the management of the public business."

Mills' statement was regarded in some circles as the forerunner of a long-awaited presidential message on the sales tax issue, while others regarded it as a substitute for an executive message.

'Dirty Dish' Slayer To Die February 24

MARSHALL, Ill., Jan. 17.—(INS.)—For slaying his wife "because she always left the sink full of dirty dishes," Hubert C. Moor, a school teacher, must die in the electric chair February 24.

Sentence was pronounced today by Judge C. A. Shuey after he denied motion for a new trial.

GERMANY, DEMANDING the right to "equal armament," creeps slowly back to militarism. The Reichswehr is to be replaced with militia, which will mean practically universal military service.

Germany has commercial planes that could visit every great city in Europe on a few hours' notice, and she has chemists that could equip those planes with poison gas that would eliminate the population of the cities. Who is safe? Nobody.

Panhandlers Invade State Legislature

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The bleary-eyed professional panhandler has turned lobbyist.

From his haunts in the business centers and waterfronts of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia he has come to the General Assembly for the handout that will "revive him again."

He seeks no legislation, he wants no conferences, he seeks no political support, but he does want a dime or a quarter and he stands hat-in-hand at the very doors of the House of Representatives and the sedate Senate.

Capitol police have their eyes on the panhandler, however, and insist that his efforts in the interests of "relief" are going to be short-lived.

Never in the history of the Capitol has there been such an invasion of beggars, Capitol authorities assert, as they scrutinize every tattered visitor.

Heretofore, these professional "Weary-Willies" have been content to panhandle in Capitol Park, occasionally venturing to the main steps of the capitol.

But this session, with the legislative halls ringing with pleas for aid of the deserving needy, the panhandler has adopted the great marble corridors and even the legislative conference rooms to whisper his appeal.

Like every other event of its kind, the state farm show has attracted hundreds of down-and-outers to Harrisburg and police were kept busy today clearing the capitol of unwelcome visitors.

Death Takes Injured 'Hospital Bride'

On the hospital bed where she was married Christmas Eve, Mrs. Paul Minal, 28, of Cecil, died today.

The love that was Paul Minal's and Erma Devos' was such they allowed no obstacle to stand in its way. When Erma was injured during a fire in the McDonald Tea Company Building December 17, they took her to Presbyterian Hospital. There, on Christmas Eve, Minal gathered relatives and friends at Erma's bedside and the lovers pledged themselves to love, honor and obey until death.

Death came less than a month after the marriage. Erma died of pneumonia, according to Deputy Coroner Robert D. Newman.

IRISH WIT FAILS TO SAY HE'LL BE CIVIL

Lady Astor Helps Win Promise of Speech In New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—After enough wire-pulling to move a couple of mountains, George Bernard Shaw has consented to address a huge but select audience of the "dear old boobs" about whom, for 30 years or so, he has been careful "never to say a civil word."

In other words, the Irish wit, philosopher, author and what-not will make a speech in America. He will speak April 11 in the Metropolitican Opera House as the guest of the Academy of Political Science.

Shaw had sworn never to visit America and he had promised above all never to talk here. When he let it be known that he would break the first vow (he is now en route around the world on the liner Empress of Britain), the Academy of Political Science cabled an invitation to speak. It was scorned, but Alanson B. Houghton, head of the academy, made a personal appeal, and got Viscountess Astor to help.

At first it was suggested that Shaw speak at a dinner attended by 5,000 persons. He replied he couldn't stand the clatter of so many knives and forks. Finally he agreed to speak in the "Met."

Another bit of Shavian news cropped out yesterday. A collection of Shaw books, letters, postcards and pamphlets, belonging to Prof. Archibald Henderson, brought $7,887 at auction.

BESIEGED, KILLS 2, ENDS LIFE

GARY, Ind., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—A Coroner's physician decided today that Mike Lantare, 67-year-old farmer, committed suicide in his barricaded home after he had killed two men and stood off scores of police and deputies for hours.

The physician, Dr. J. R. Doty, said a medical examination showed the crazed farmer had held the muzzle of a .38 caliber pistol against the roof of his mouth and sent a bullet through his brain.

There were seven other wounds, apparently from machine gun bullets fired by the deputies, Dr. Doty said, but the pistol bullet was the one that caused death. He said the other wounds probably would have proved fatal eventually.

'PRINCE MIKE' PLEADS GUILTY

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Harry F. Gerguson, the bogus "Prince Michael Romanoff" of countless pranks and petty crimes, pleaded guilty today to federal indictments bearing a possible maximum sentence of 55 years.

When Judge John C. Knox declined to impose the suspended sentence the "prince" had apparently expected, the former orphan asylum boy who hid his humble past under a false mantle of royalty, tried to withdraw his plea but this was not allowed.

Judge Knox order Gerguson to appear before him on Monday for sentence on charges of illegally entering the country, eluding immigration inspectors and swearing falsely at hearings into his case at Ellis Island.

Capitalist Ends Life Bearing Wife's Ashes

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The body of a man identified by police as R. P. Shea, 70, retired Los Angeles capitalist, was washed up in the surf at Venice yesterday.

Tied around the neck, police said, was a container holding the ashes of his wife, Jane, who died last October. In a pocket was a note telling of a plan to end his life because of grief over her death and financial troubles. Shea built the granite "Shea's Castle" in the Mojave Desert.

DRIVER STRUCK ON CROSSING

Caught between the safety gates at the Fifteenth and Canal streets crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad, Sharpsburg, early today, Norrie Frendenrich, 22, of 1828 Middle street, is in the Allegheny General Hospital suffering internal injuries and shock, after his machine was struck and dragged for 10 feet by an engine.

Frendenrich, a mill worker, according to Sharpsburg police, had already reached the crossing when the safety gate in front of him dropped. Before he was able to leap to safety the engine struck the car and hurled him 20 feet through the air. The machine was demolished.

Sayre today on the death of his wife, Mrs. Jessie Wilson Sayre, daughter of President Woodrow Wilson. Among those who sent telegrams were President-elect and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and former Gov. and Mrs. Alfred E. Smith.

SLAYER CHEATS SCOTLAND YARD WITH SUICIDE

Poison Death Tightens Cloak of Mystery On Murder Drama

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Samuel James Furnace, who was in custody on a charge of murdering his friend, Walter Spatchett, died early today in St. Pancras Hospital from the effects of a self-administered poison.

Ever since Furnace was found suffering from the poison in a London police station cell early yesterday, the doctors and staff of the hospital worked desperately to save his life, but without avail.

Thus ended another phase of one of the most amazing dramas to grip England in many years and the climax of one of the most dramatic murder hunts in the history of Scotland Yard.

Spatchett was the victim of what was described as an all but "perfect murder." A burned body, found January 3 in the charred ruins of Furnace's workshop and office, where he carried on construction work, was at first identified as his own. The unexpected discovery of bullet wounds at a routine inquest led to identification of the body as Spatchett's.

Furnace was finally found in a South End boarding house Sunday, where he had remained almost continuously in his bed, complaining of illness, spending the time reading a stack of detective stories.

His charming wife, who acclaimed him the ideal husband and father, and Furnace's brother visited him in the hospital while three Scotland Yard operatives listened in hope they might hear a word of confession. The motive for the slaying of Spatchett, a bill collector, was not established.

BORIS SPEEDED HEIR'S BAPTISM

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—The hasty baptism of Princess Marie Luisa in the Greek orthodox faith, which has drawn the censure of Vatican officials, was a complete surprise to all Bulgarian authorities, a cabinet minister told International News Service today.

He revealed that Queen Joanna would have preferred the baptism at a later date, but consented willingly to King Boris' wish for a speedy ceremony.

Lady Mary Bailey Still Unreported

ALGIERS, Algeria, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—All points along the route of Lady Mary Bailey's attempted flight to Cape Town were without news of the flier today.

She has been unreported since she took off from Oran, Algeria, more than 30 hours ago, carrying fuel for only 17 hours of flight. Officials expressed concern for her safety.

Rescuers at Work After Morgantown Mine Blast

RESCUERS COMING OUT OF THE SHRIVER MINE TO REST . . . THEY WORKED HOURS TO RECOVER BODIES OF TWO KILLED

One of the rescue squads at the Shriver mine, Shriver Coal Company, about six miles from Morgantown, W. Va. Two men were killed, their bodies recovered about eight hours later, by an explosion, apparently due to gas in the workings.

GIRLS RESCUED FROM JUNGLE

NAIROBI, Africa, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—After 48 hours of terror in the African jungle, Joan Page and Audrey Sale-Barker, English society girls, were rescued today in the desolate Kenya bush 50 miles south of here.

The girls attempting a flight from Cape Town to England, crashed Saturday night when attempting to reach Nairobi.

Miss Page is the daughter of Sir Arthur Page, chief justice of Burma, and her companion is a noted skier. Highly excited, they told their rescuers of their terrifying experiences in the jungle, where lions, elephants and other big animals prowled near them.

The girls, who were making the flight as a vacation trip, were located last night by rescue planes. Today, at great risk, another plane landed in the bush and the rescuers found the two girls beside their wrecked machine.

Miss Page suffered a broken leg while Miss Sale-Barker received cuts on the head. She said they had come within sight of Nairobi when they lost their way in a sudden fog.

'Judge' Captures, Prosecutes Wife's Annoyer

Magistrate Charles Papale appeared on both sides of the bench in East Liberty Police Station today—as magistrate and as prosecutor.

Completing his hearings, he relinquished his seat to Traffic Magistrate J. Scott Morgan and appeared against James Kapsis, 39, of 5428 Howe street.

Papale said Kapsis had accosted Mrs. Papale on the street yesterday and annoyed her until she was forced to flee into a store. Later Mrs. Papale accompanied the magistrate on a tour of East End streets, until she saw Kapsis, when the magistrate arrested him. Kapsis was fined $50 or 30 days in jail.

Insulin Proves Cure For 'Skinny' People

Improves Health, Dispositions, Test Shows

By LEIGH MATTESON
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Eddie Cantor's lady, who was so thin that "when she drank tomato juice and wore a white dress, she looked like a thermometer," may be able to overcome this discomforting transparency by taking simple injections of insulin, now used chiefly in the treatment of diabetes.

Elaborate experiments proving that many healthy, but thin, persons can be brought to their proper weights by use of insulin, are reported in the current issue of the journal of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Harry Blotner, of Boston, reported the experiments. Out of 19 persons treated with moderate weekly doses of insulin over a period of two weeks to three months, all gained weight rapidly and retained these weights without further insulin treatment for periods of three to six months.

Insulin is the hormone of the pancreas gland. This chemical substance is essential in the blood stream for proper assimilation of carbohydrates (starches and sugars), the chief fattening foods. Dr. Blotner said:

"After insulin injections were begun each person began to gain weight at once, and several continued to gain weight with astonishing rapidity.

"Shortly after the insulin injections were started there was a marked improvement in the sense of well being. Some of the patients remarked how wonderfully well they felt, while others said insulin made new individuals of them.

"Their appetites increased and occasionally became voracious. Most of the group said they would gladly have taken insulin to feel so well even though there was no gain in weight. They bacame less nervous and more cheerful and said they felt stronger, so that they became more efficient and could do more work.

"Thus the use of insulin clinically appeared to have a notable tonic effect. It was interesting to watch wrinkles disappear as weight was gained and to see the skin develop a healthy appearance."

HOLY SHROUD MAY BE SHOWN

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The holy shroud in which the body of Christ is said to have been wrapped after the crucifixion probably will be exposed to public view in connection with the Holy Year celebration, it was said in semi-official circles today.

The shroud, which has been the property of the Italian ruling house in the last five centuries, is kept in a marble jewel-studded case in a cathedral in Turin.

King Victor Emanuel is understood to have given his consent to plans for showing the shroud publicly. Msgr. Maurilio Fossati, archibshop of Turin, came to Vatican City to confer with Pope Pius, whose consent to the proposal is considered likely.

The shroud was last exposed in 1931 after being kept from the public view for 32 years.

W. VA. MINE GAS BLAST KILLS 2

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Killed in an explosion a mile and a half underground, the bodies of two men, Boyd Ware, 27, and Herbert Pixler, 40, were removed from the Scott Run coal mine today.

Rescue workers, led by State Mine Inspector William D. Lee, said the victims lost their lives instantly.

Deadly gas spread through the dark chamber where the victims were found, but did not escape to other parts of the workings. Ware, a foreman, and Pixler, a fire boss, were the only employes in the mine—owned by the Shriver Coal Company—when the explosion occurred.

MILLER HEARD IN MIX SUIT

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—As court opened today in the retrial of Col. Zack T. Miller's $342,000 damage suit against Tom Mix, cowboy of the films, counsel predicted the trial would be concluded tomorrow or Thursday.

Miller, owner of the 101 Ranch, won a verdict of $90,000 in the first trial, held here two years ago. The verdict was set aside, following an appeal, and a new trial ordered.

Miller was the chief witness as the retrial got under way yesterday. He testified Mix wired him he would join his shows after May 21, 1929, and added in a later wire that he would meet the circus at Harrisburg, Pa., on May 24, 1929. He asserted Mix agreed to join the show at $10,000 a week.

Miller then stated that Mix wired him later from Chicago, "hold everything."

SNEEZING GIRL IMPROVING

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Nature was outwitting medical science today in the case of Daisy Jost, 15, orphan, who was slowly recovering at St. Joseph's Hospital from a strange sneezing malady.

Physicians, who vainly sought a cure for the affliction, admitted her unusual recuperative power was performing the task for them. As the number of sneezes a minute diminishes, the chances of determining the cause also becomes less.

When Daisy entered the hospital last Tuesday she was sneezing one to four times a minute. During waking moments of yesterday and last night the sneezes occurred only at intervals of 15 to 20 minutes.

CHICKEN HEART ALIVE IN TUBE 21 YEARS

Tissue Keeps Growing And Healthy in Culture

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The most curious living thing on earth became of legal age today.

On January 17, 1912—exactly 21 years ago—Dr. Alexis Carrel, of Rockefeller Institute, snipped a piece out of the living muscle of an embryo chick's heart and placed it in a tube containing a new sort of fluid he had mixed.

In this fluid culture the bit of chick heart muscle found nourishment just as it would had it remained a part of the living organ from which it was detached.

TISSUE GROWS

It flourished and grew in the culture, which was renewed every day or so. In about a week it had developed until it outgrew the test tube. Larger and larger tubes were required, until at last Dr. Carrel had to resort to trimming the muscle.

Its first birthday was an event, but the tissue kept on growing. When it reached the age of five years, when normally many chickens die of old age, it was as healthily young as ever.

Today, in its tube, it was examined carefully again by a properly awed group of scientists. It is still healthy, still young, pulsing ever so lightly as heart tissue, in health, is meant to pulse.

BAR TO IMMORTALITY

Dr. Carrel has deduced from his study of cells from this tissue that immortality is denied to men and animals only because they have brain cells. These cannot multiply and replace themselves, as can the chick's heart tissue and all other tissues of the body.

A curious comment on Dr. Carrel's feat in being the first to grow living tissue outside the body was made by a mathematician, who figured out that if Dr. Carrel had been able to supply culture to the growing heart tissue, and had not trimmed it down to fit his test tube, it now would have a mass several times larger than the earth.

Ma Ferguson Inducted As Governor 2nd Time

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson was inaugurated governor of Texas today for the second time after a lapse of six years.

When Mrs. Ferguson served in 1925-26 she was one of two women chief executives in the United States, Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, of Wyoming, being the other. Now she is the nation's only feminine head of a state.

In a brief inauguration address, after she took the ancient constitutional oath, affirming that she never had "fought a duel with deadly weapons," she asked the hearty co-operation of the Legislature.

She warned that "the burdens of government are falling heavily on the masses," declaring "reduction of taxes must come and come quickly or the government will fall and fall quickly."

By "Ma's" side stood her beaming husband, former Gov. James E. (Pa) Ferguson, barred by a Senate impeachment court from ever again holding a state office of trust, after his removal from the Governorship in 1917. For the second time, however, he had been able to beat his political opponentts by his wife's candidacy.

Lion Hunter's Safari Leads to River 'Veldt'

SIKESTON, Mo., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Denver M. Wright was back in the Mississippi River "veldt" today on his second lion hunting expedition, following the failure of his first attempt when someone else shot his lions before he could.

Wright trucked his two lions to the river 17 miles from East Prairie, Mo., and then ferried the animals to a 190-acre island off the Missouri shore.

Until he is ready to hunt and kill them, Wright and his party, including his 14-year-old son, Charles, some friends, newspapermen and photographers, will camp in tents in a barbed wire stockade on the island.

There they will stay, living, as Wright imagines, in "true African jungle hunt fashion," until he is satisfied that the animals have accustomed themselves to liberty. Then he and his fellow hunters, about 18 white men and four Negroes whom he has employed to act as beaters, will seek to track the animals down.

Wright has reserved for himself and his son the privilege of shooting the lions. The others will act as gun bearers.

Wright said he would release the lions on the island some time today.

You should know the Truth about the cigarettes you smoke

A great deal of confusion has been caused by certain representations made in cigarette advertising. A clamor of competitive claims has bewildered the public. We have received hundreds of letters asking us the truth about the conflicting claims of various brands. Because Camel first popularized cigarette smoking, because Camel has sold more billions of cigarettes than any other brand, we were the natural people to write to. And we are the natural people to tell the facts about cigarettes. We have always offered an honest cigarette, honestly advertised.

1. Question: What is the mildest cigarette?

Answer: The fact that a cigarette is insipid and tasteless does not mean that it is mild. The fact that it has been artificially flavored or scented does not mean it is mild. Mildness means that a cigarette is so made that it is gentle and non-irritating without sacrifice of flavor. This is almost entirely a question of the quality of the tobaccos and the skill in their blending. Practically all of today's popular cigarettes are manufactured and rolled in much the same way. The difference comes in the tobaccos that are used. While the irritating effects of cheap, raw tobaccos can be removed to some extent by intensive treatment, nothing can take the place of the more expensive, naturally fine tobaccos. The mildest cigarette is the cigarette that is made of the best tobaccos. It's the tobacco that counts.

2. Question: What cigarette has the best flavor?

Answer: There are just three factors that control the flavor of a cigarette. The addition of artificial flavoring. The blending of various tobaccos. And the quality of the tobaccos themselves. Quality is by far the most important. Cheap, raw tobacco can be disguised in part by artificial flavoring. But it can never equal the goodness of mild, ripe, costly tobaccos. Adding a number of poor things together will not make a good thing. And when you consider that domestic cigarette tobaccos vary in price from 5¢ a pound up to 40¢ a pound, and imported tobaccos from 50¢ to $1.15, the difference in cigarette flavors is readily apparent. Tobacco men long ago learned to choose, for flavor, the cigarette blended from the costlier tobaccos. It's the tobacco that counts.

Answer: The easiest cigarette on your throat is the cigarette that is made from the choicest ripe tobaccos. Cheap grades of tobacco are, as you would naturally expect, harsh in their effects upon the throat. And there is a peppery dust occurring to some extent in all tobaccos. Finding its way into many cigarettes, this dust has a decidedly irritating effect. A special vacuum cleaning process has been developed that removes all trace of dust. The absolute rejection of inferior tobaccos and elimination of this dust represent the highest standards ever attained in cigarette manufacture. The cigarette that is blended from the most expensive tobaccos under these modern conditions is as non-irritating as any smoke can possibly be. It's the tobacco that counts.

4. Question: What about heat treating?

Answer: This is one of the real superstitions of the tobacco business. All cigarette manufacturers use the heat-treating process. But harsh, raw, inferior tobaccos require considerably more intensive treatment than choice ripe tobaccos. High temperatures conceal, to some extent, the harsh effects of low-cost tobacco, although this parching process may produce a rather flat and lifeless flavor. But neither the heat treatment nor any other treatment can take the place of good tobacco. Heat can never make cheap, inferior tobaccos good. It's the tobacco that counts.

5. Question: What cigarette is coolest?

Answer: Many myths have been woven around "coolness." The facts are simple: Coolness is determined by the speed of burning. Fresh cigarettes, containing as they do 12% moisture, burn more slowly than parched, dry cigarettes. That is why they smoke cooler. This makes the method of wrapping very important. Improperly wrapped cigarettes begin to dry out as soon as packed. They smoke hot and dry. The Humidor Pack, although more expensive, gives protection ordinary cellophane cannot equal. It is made of 3-ply, MOISTURE-PROOF cellophane, tailored snugly to the package, and WELDED into a seamless envelope. Air cannot get in. Freshness cannot get out. The cigarettes are always in prime condition. An illusion of coolness can be achieved by adding certain chemicals to tobacco. But even chemicals cannot do more than mask the heat of quick-burning, dry tobaccos. The coolest cigarette is the freshest cigarette—the least irritating, the one that has the costliest tobacco. A cigarette blended from expensive tobaccos tastes cooler than one that is harsh and acrid. It's the tobacco that counts.

6. Question: What is the purest cigarette?

Answer: All popular cigarettes are made under sanitary conditions unsurpassed even in the packing of foods. All cigarettes are made with practically identical modern machinery. Uniformly fine cigarette paper is used. If any single manufacturer should claim superior purity it could only be interpreted as a confession of weakness unless he pinned his claim exclusively on the tobacco he used. Purity in a cigarette lies in the tobacco used. Choice grades of tobacco, from which even the fine dust of the tobacco itself has been removed, are less irritating, therefore "purer" than inferior tobaccos. It's the tobacco that counts.

7. Question: What about blending?

Answer: Even if other manufacturers should in the future use the finer, more expensive tobaccos which go into Camels, they would still be unable to duplicate Camel's matchless blending. Tobaccos are blended to give a cigarette its own distinctive individuality. The characteristic delicacy and flavor of the Camel blend have won not only the esteem of the American public, but the sincere admiration of other cigarette manufacturers, who have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars and years of effort trying to discover how the costly tobaccos in Camels are blended. But in vain. Camel's matchless blend is a priceless asset. Yet its fine full flavor is made possible because Camels use more expensive tobacco. It's the tobacco that counts.

It is a Fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. We actually pay MILLIONS MORE every year to insure your enjoyment.

BUILDERS' HEAD BOOSTS HOME PRODUCTS

Robert K. Cochrane, Jr., secretary of the Pittsburgh Builders' Exchange, yesterday declared "Buy American," in his opinion, is a splendid movement, and one that will actively create orders for American factories and jobs for American unemployed.

With him, expressing favor for the plan and predicting it could bring only good, was Joseph N. Mackrell, Register of Wills and former potentate of Syria Temple.

FRATERNITY FORMS

And from Houston, Pa., word came of the information of a new fraternity called "America Boosters" No. 1, designed to propagate, by press, radio and individually, the principle of buying American-made goods.

Mr. Cochrane, who, besides handling the affairs of the builders' organization, is county commander of the American Legion, declared:

"Buy American is a splendid movement. I'm certain every builder believes in it, and practices it. The plan is a very practical method of unifying the American people and making them aware that we must help ourselves first of all."

Mr. Mackrell said:

"Every day the talk among the people is becoming stronger for the purchase of goods, of all kinds, that are American-made.

"With hundreds of thousands of our unemployed men and women walking the streets of America today, it seems plain on its face, that if Americans bought American-made goods and merchandise of all kinds, that thousands of these same men and women would be called back to their work to help manufacture and sell all sorts of commodities, because the increased demand for them would empty the shelves and storerooms handling the goods.

"The big brother attitude is fine and the United States has done that to its own detriment, as far as Europe is concerned, and so it might be well to remember that, from the national standpoint for some time to come, at least, 'charity begins at home'."

MOVEMENT BACKED

The America Boosters, according to Gus Blanock, of Houston, secretary, has been sanctioned by the organized labor boosters and the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, Canonsburg Lodge, No. 79. He says:

"I feel that you should be enlightened a little on the fact that there is an association organized in Canonsburg to promote patronizing of home products. We have made arrangements to broadcast over Station WNBO, and our local paper, during the week of February 12, will contain a 'Buy American' section."

Caution

Because of the tremendous public popularity of the "Buy American" campaign, certain persons are offering for sale to the public cards, stickers and various articles for a profit.

The Sun-Telegraph herewith informs the public that it is not engaged in any particular in the sale of anything in this connection, and that association of its name with such activities is unauthorized.

HOME PRODUCTS BILL PUSHED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—The Senate today took up proposals to require government departments to buy American-made goods.

The House placed its stamp of approval on the suggestion to encourage American industries by passing the Wilson bill by an overwhelming vote yesterday.

Three separate proposals were before the Senate, with indications that at least one of them would be enacted.

They are:

Plan of Senator Byrnes (Dem.), of South Carolina, to add a "rider" to each of the 10 annual supply bills, requiring purchase of American-made goods.

Proposal of Senator Johnson (Rep.), of California, to add a "general rider" to the first bill available.

Separate measure by Senator Steiwer (Rep.), of Oregon, making the requirement to buy domestic goods a permanent legislative policy.

Under the House bill, every government agency would be brought within its scope. To guard the government against price gouging the measure carries a provision allowing purchase of foreign goods if unfair prices are demanded by domestic producers.

More Trade Groups Urge U. S. Buying

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17.—(Universal.)—In harmony with the action of the board of directors of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, the Harbor District Chamber of Commerce had strongly indorsed the "Buy American" campaign of the Hearst newspapers.

The organization includes the chambers of commerce of San Pedro, Wilmington, Long Beach, Torrance, Redondo Beach, Hawthorne, Compton, Gardena and other cities and towns adjacent to the harbors.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 17.—(Universal.)—By unanimous vote the California Legislature yesterday indorsed the "Buy American" movement and recommended that it be followed in all governmental purchases.

'Buy American' Plan In State Senate

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17.—A resolution, indorsing the "Buy American" plan of the Hearst newspapers, was introduced in the Pennsylvania Senate last night by Senator James J. Coyne. Under the rule the resolution was referred to the Judiciary General Committee, but Senator Lawrence J. Buckman, of Bucks County, who suggested the resolution be sent to the committee, said today he approved it heartily.

The text of the resolution reads:

"Whereas, many of the nations of Europe are conducting campaigns, for the purpose of inducing their citizens to confine their purchases to products grown or produced within such nations; and

"Whereas, their campaigns are having a depressing effect on the export trade of the United States and tend to reduce the consumption of American products abroad; and

"Whereas, it is particularly appropriate in this period of depression and under-consumption that the American market be intensely cultivated and preserved for the benefit of American manufacturers and producers; and

"Whereas, Hearst newspapers have inaugurated a campaign designed to impress upon American citizens the advantage of limiting their purchase to products grown or manufactured in the United States; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved by the Senate of the General Assembly, the House concurring herein, that it is the sense of the General Assembly that this campaign should meet with general public approval and response."

Coal Imports Make Many Idle in State

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(Universal.)—Although Congress fixed a tariff of $2 a ton on coal, depreciated currencies abroad have overcome the barrier and hard coal is again being dumped on the American market, the Anthracite Institute announces in a review of 1932.

As a result, the review says, 6,400 miners are idle in Pennsylvania and American coal production registered another decline.

Firearms Expert Killed Cleaning Gun

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Accidentally discharging a gun, John A. Schaulis, 47, prominent resident of Washington, shot himself through the heart and was instantly killed.

Friends said Schaulis, with whom firearms were a hobby, was cleaning the weapon at the time.

Driver Arrested After Hitting Pole

Colliding with a pole in Saw Mill Run boulevard early today, Thomas Williams, 34, of 72 Carnival way, was under arrest in South Side Hospital, charged with violating the automobile laws. Williams, police said, had no owner's card. He suffered a fractured nose.

ROXIE CLEARED, REARRESTED

Freed of a disorderly conduct charge, Roxie Long fell into the hands of the law again today with these words of Police Magistrate J. J. Sweeney ringing in his ears:

"The only thing he never got away with in his life was when I worked at No. 1 and he stole an ice wagon. The ice melted before he could dispose of it."

Long, whose real name is Rocco DiPippa, and who recently confessed to being involved in a liquor conspiracy which resulted in the conviction of 21 others, was arraigned before Sweeney in Mt. Washington Police Court as a result of a clash with J. C. Rooney, of 582 East End avenue, over seizure of an automobile by a finance company.

After Sweeney had discharged the case, Constable Carl W. Steigerwald rearrested Long on a charge of larceny by bailee. A similar charge has been lodged against Mrs. DiPippa. They were alleged to have purchased furniture and failed to complete payments on it. The informations were made before Alderman Ray E. Schneider, of the North Side.

LOSS IN CHURCH FIRE $15,000

The congregation of the Dormont Presbyterian Church was temporarily without a meeting place today, following a fire which damaged the imposing edifice at Potomac and Espy avenues to the extent of $15,000 yesterday.

The fire, believed to have started from crossed wires in the pipe organ, swept through the chancel. Dormont volunteer firemen fought the blaze more than an hour, hampered by the smoke, which filled the building and poured in dense clouds through the windows and doors.

Miss Louise Schade, secretary to the pastor, the Rev. Dr. U. F. Smiley, discovered the fire. After smelling smoke, she investigated and found the entire interior of the church filled with smoke.

Dr. Smiley said today he was making plans for services elsewhere this Sunday. The church, a stone structure, was built nine years ago at a cost of $250,000. The organ, electrically operated, cost $7,500.

FAMILIES JOIN SPANISH EXILES

LISBON, Portugal, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The families of several of the 29 Spanish monarchist refugees who landed at a small fishing village near here Saturday night after escaping New Years Eve from the Spanish penal colony at Villa Cisneros in West Africa, have arrived here.

Prince Don Alfonso, a cousin of former King Alfonso of Spain, who registered at a hotel here as Marquis De Squilache, expects his wife to arrive tomorrow.

The refugees are spending their time at the hotels receiving Spanish and Portuguese friends.

Three women, all in formal attire, were with Gallagher and police found them hysterical. They were released after being questioned.

OPERA STARS -:- Mystery Thriller, U. S. Police Drama -:- ON THE AIR

Sigrid Onegin, Alice Mock In Recitals

Sigrid Onegin, hailed by critics as the greatest operatic contralto of the present day, presents a half-hour recital with Josef Bonime's Symphony Orchestra as the Five Star Theater guest over WJAS tonight at 10 o'clock.

Mme. Onegin scored her first European triumph about 10 years ago, achieving immediate success on both the concert and operatic stages of America a year later. She became one of the principal contraltos of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and has appeared in leading operatic roles in Berlin and Vienna. Her selections tonight include the aria, "O Don Fatale," from Massenet's "Don Carlos"; "Ehre Gottes aus der Natur," by Beethoven, and "Zu Lauterbach," a German folk song.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough
Saves $2. So Easy! No Cooking!

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It's no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your sugar syrup. The pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is the most effective remedy that money can buy. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and clears the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, famous as a healing agent for throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Wynn Drops 'Love Themes' For Circus

Despite his stage sobriquet, Ed Wynn is no fool and therefore occasionally takes advice.

From time to time he's been advised by radio observers to whip his comic "operas" back into some semblance of the early ones which helped attain his phenomenal success, so tonight over WCAE you'll hear him abandon the "love theme" for a more hilarious operatic adventure. The plot involves a circus with an India rubber man, midgets, Siamese twins and other freaks in a conglomeration of silly situations. The show goes on the air from Kansas City.

Henry Auslander, engaged in the same profession, was discovered puffing one of those expensive smokestacks . . . Not because business merits it, but on a bet. He explained in 10 dumbfounded minutes a bridge hand that had been puzzling experts for weeks . . . Dr. M. R. Goldman, also bridge-minded, forestalls any criticism of his bid or play by feigning deep thought and, then with faint sarcasm says, "Quiet, please."

TELL IT TO ELSIE

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Should Wives Be Educated Or Devoted and Dumb?

Does education harm a female?

Do men dislike intellectual wives?

And do brains mix badly with biscuits and babies?

Are these serious questions? They are. Yes, I know; this is 1933. And it is now generally admitted that Women Are People. Yet there are gentlemen who still answer all three of those questions in the affirmative.

And, stranger still, there are girls who agree with them.

Renee did. Renee was 18, headed for college. Her folks wanted her to get her teacher's diploma before she married; said a "modern wife needed all the education she could get." But Renee said love was enough education for any wife, and why wait when the heart was ready?

We told her why. But T. Benson says we're wrong. Listen!

Dear Elsie:

Renee's right. She'll be a better wife if she forgets about being "educated" and learns how to run a house. If she wants to be a good wife, she doesn't need a college diploma.

Men don't care for "learning" in their wives. I wouldn't marry a girl who went in for "higher education." I don't want someone around who knows it all and tries to put on airs and show how smart she is. I want a wife, not a walking encyclopedia to correct me every time I make some silly mistake.

A good understanding of the practical side of marriage is what a wife needs. That's a whole lot more important than all the school learning, and men realize that if they have any sense. Look at statistics. Why do so many "college women" stay unmarried? Because men don't like them.

DISAPPROVES EDUCATION

They're so "intellectual" that they're way over the heads of ordinary people, and they don't hesitate to let you know it. They contradict your opinions and they argue. A man doesn't want to come home to someone like that after a hard day's work. He wants to come home to someone who will make home a "little bit of heaven"—some one who appreciates him, and pets him, and keeps his house comfortable, and has his meals on time, instead of someone who will try to tell him how to run his business and the world. He wants soothing companionship and rest.

So my advice to that little girl is to get married now and forget this education business. Education harms a female. It creates conceit and indifference to the finer emotions. The best thing any girl can do is to learn to be a good housewife, so she can give her husband some comfort and not so much highty-tighty talk.

T. BENSON.

HOW ABOUT IT?

Well, well; what a treat you're going to be to some Family Circle, T. B.! But I haven't the slightest doubt that some little dumbunny will gladly take on the job, and drudge 14 hours a day to give you "comfort"—even though Lincoln died to free the slaves. For girls are like that!

Yet I wonder just how many are? So I'm going to take a straw ballot.

How about it, Rose, Alice, Flora, Sue and Isabel?

Also, what's your opinion, Jim, Harry, Don, Fred and John?

Do you, or don't you, believe that wives need brains? Should they know at least a little of what life-is-all about?

Or should wives be devoted and dumb?

Fay King Counsels Youngsters Not to Envy the "Big Shots"

By FAY KING

Youngsters, landlocked in small detour towns, grow desperate imagining that their environment defeats their ambition for fame and fortune.

They read glowing accounts of big shots and exaggerated press puffs about stars, and do not realize how vast can be the difference between this rosy reading and the grim gray facts of reality.

For one glittering personality they envy, there are hundreds in the same environment who are never heard of. Despair and disappointment must be 10 times as acute when one is among those present but overlooked completely.

Even big shots and stars are not always sitting as pretty as they would have it seem. Big shots have been down to three dimes, and stars have struggled desperately to retain fleeting fame.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Suspicion Against Brixton Is Deepened

That old cliche, "a silence that can be cut with a knife," has come to my eyes—and ears—many times since I first learned to read; but never was its patness so forcibly impressed upon me as when Wynne handed my father the slip of paper bearing the long-distance number which he said Samuel Brixton had called.

"The number is that of Owen's hotel," my father said at last, and then turned to his operative.

"Anything about it?" he asked crisply.

"The girl thought he didn't get a chance to speak to the person he asked for," Wynne explained, painstakingly. "She thought he had a message that upset him, but she couldn't be sure, because she had several long-distance messages at the same time, and she was kept pretty busy. She knows, of course, that he talked to the hotel—that was the number he asked for—but about the rest of it she is hazy. That wouldn't be up to her, anyway, unless he had put in a particular person call, which he didn't."

"Too foxy for that," Dicky commented, and my father nodded.

"Hush ought to be back any minute now," he said. "Lee Chow is watching the hotel where Owen is registered. Perhaps he will have told Hugh something of interest."

But when Hugh Grantland came into the room a few minutes later, he permitted his poise to slip when he was assured that no person outside those in our plans was present.

CHINESE RETICENT

"There are times," he confessed, "when I get a bit fed up with this 'Oriental calm' thing.

"I'm sure he is on the track of something surprising — and vital—in this Owen matter, but he will only say one word—'Wait!' Tonight, when I told him of Brixton's call and his actions, he added three more words — 'Perhaps tomorrow night!'"

"Wait!" Lillian struck in with unexpected vehemence. "That's all anybody says, and while we wait, who knows——"

Her voice shuddered away, and she buried her face in her shaking hands.

"Please forget this," she said crisply, "and forgive me for hindering you. But, Chief, you will tell me if you formulate any plan, won't you?"

"My dear girl!" My father's voice was infinitely tender. "You already know everything of which I even have thought. We now must make plans based upon the information contained in that code letter from Marion. Richard and Hugh agree with me that if you are willing, an attempt at rescuing the girls should be made as soon as possible after Richard succeeds in locating the place Marion has described. But we must have your sanction, because——"

He hesitated, and Lillian finished the sentence for him through white, stiff lips.

"Because there is a possibility that the plan may fail! Yes, I know that, but I am leaning on your judgment, Chief. I—I know that if—if Marion does not come back, it will be no fault of yours."

LILLIAN SCOLDED

"'If! If! If!' I'm ashamed of you Lil. Just cut out that kind of talk. You'll only take the courage out of us. There's no 'if' about this business. It's 'when,' not 'if.'"

It was Dicky who thus lashed savagely at her, and there was something in the lift of her head and in the stiffening of her muscles that told me his spur had reached her spirit.

"I stand corrected," she said, the pitiful wraith of a smile upon her lips. "'When' it is. But—suppose Dicky finds the place tomorrow, when will you plan to lay your ambush?"

"As soon after dark tomorrow night as possible, provided Dicky discovers the place in time to follow Marion's instructions as to flight over the house which the girls will interpret as signals. We mustn't run any risk of misleading them; but speed is vital if Owen is concerned in this. We must run no risk of Brixton knowing our plans."

Without conscious volition I found myself voicing the thought that had been beating upon my brain since my interview with Lucy.

"Have you thought of the possibility that we may be on the wrong track, and that the Chinese who terrorized us at the farm are responsible for this kidnaping?"

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wedding Plans

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Will you please advise me as to the proper dress for my matron of honor? I am wearing a traveling suit (dark blue) and we are to be married in an out-of-town church, with only the matron of honor and best man present. She is my cousin and the only relative I have in the city.

2—Is it proper for her or his people to give the reception?

3—Would it be permissible for the guests to arrive at the appointed hour prior to our arrival, and then we will remain only a few minutes before departing on our trip? B.

1—Your matron of honor should wear a costume of the same general type as yours. She too might wear a suit, or a day dress and coat.

2—The bride's parents give the reception. It is in very poor form for the groom's parents to give the wedding reception. This should always be avoided.

3—Yes.

The Way of a Man

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

One evening, while out riding with a casual friend, he suggested that we have something to eat, but I had just finished eating my dinner when he called, so I thanked him and told him that I would like some chocolates. He drove along until we came to a very elaborate confectionary store, and he stopped the machine and insisted that I go into the store with him. I told him that it wasn't at all necessary for me to go in the store, and then he told me that if I didn't, I wouldn't get the chocolates, so, of course, at that remark I positively wouldn't get out of the car and, therefore, I didn't get the chocolates. To me it seemed rather funny. Do you think he acted the part of a gentleman? E.

I do think, dear girl, that you made too important this casual request of this friend. I can well understand that he wanted to make a special point of getting you just the kind of chocolates you wanted. You know it's proverbial that men need . . . anyway want . . . help in buying even such a detail as this. And this need is generously founded, usually, on wishing to get just what the girl wants. So it would have been a simple thing for you, and a friendly and cooperative one, to have gone with him while he fulfilled this request of yours for candy. If you had gone with him to "have a bite to eat" you would have gotten out of the car and made your own selection of foods. So you see he just transferred the invitation for food to the invitation for chocolates.

Household Hints

Iron rust stains may be removed from muslins and linens by covering the spots with a paste of salt and lemon juice. Leave on for half an hour, rinse, and hang in the sun.

To clean an oriental rug, first beat it thoroughly, then brush to remove all dirt. Rub with stiff brush dipped in warm soapsuds, to which a little ammonia has been added, and rub dry with a soft rag.

Contract Bridge -:-

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Sacrificing a Winner to Make a Slam

Optimistic bidding by the player who eventually becomes the Dummy, plus thoughtless play by the Declarer on the Opening lead, is not a combination which ordinarily assures the success of a contract, particularly if that contract is one to make a Small Slam. However, in the hand below, the Declarer, by carefully solving his later problem of play, was enabled to fulfill his contract by dropping a perfectly good King from the Dummy under an adversely held Ace.

North—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| | ♠ K 4♡ A K Q 3◇ Q 2♣ A K Q J 10 | |
| ♠ A 8 2♡ 10 7 6 5 2◇ 5♣ 7 5 4 2 | NorthWest EastSouth | ♠ 10 7 5 3♡ 9 8◇ K J 10 7 6♣ 8 6 |
| | ♠ Q J 9 6♡ J 4◇ A 9 8 4 3♣ 9 3 | |

The bidding:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2 ♣ (1) | Pass | 2 ◇ (2) | Pass |
| 2 ♡ (3) | Pass | 3 N T (4) | Pass |
| 6 N T (5) | Pass | Pass | Pass |

1—North's bid of two clubs on this hand is over-optimistic. The hand contains 5 honor-tricks and a wealth of playing-tricks, but is not quite strong enough for a bid of two.

3—North realizes that his hand is not a perfect Opening Forcing bid and correctly shows his four-card heart suit before rebidding his rebiddable clubs.

4—South reasons that his hand contains 1½ honor-tricks, and thus he could have bid three notrump at once rather than show his diamonds. He therefore decides to make that bid now.

5—Entirely too optimistic, but still neither player has been inclined to undervalue his holding.

West's Opening lead was the heart 5, and South, not taking the trouble to make a careful plan of the play of the hand, played the 3 from Dummy, and won the trick with the Knave. The Declarer was quick to realize that he had made a mistake in not retaining his second entry in the hand until the spade Ace had been driven out. South now led the spade 6, and West obligingly played the Ace. South realized that West's next lead would certainly be a diamond, despite the fact that he had bid them, and so he wisely played the King under West's Ace in order not to block the play of the spade Queen and Knave, and thus be able to discard the losing diamonds in Dummy. As expected, West switched to the singleton diamond, but the Declarer's good play, which redeemed his former careless play, enabled him to make the doubtful Slam.

TODAY'S QUESTION

West deals and bids one club. North bids one notrump. What should East do, holding the following hand:

♠ — ♡ Q 9 8 6 5 2 ◇ J 8 ♣ J 9 8 7 4

Answer: East should bid two hearts, despite the lack of honor strength. This bid is justified by the strong club support and freakish distribution of the holding. Furthermore, any successful game contract would probably depend upon whether West holds some heart strength or not.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Some women say they can't relax when it is time to go to sleep. Too true! They can't relax muscles unless they relax the mind. There's a sympathetic bond between body and mentality. The trained brain can banish the imps of worry by establishing a guard of pleasant thoughts. Delightful memories of pleasure trips or other joyous occasions. Nothing to it once you know how.

Exercise isn't popular with the sisterhood. That's just too bad. Limber resilient muscles form the graceful silhouette, and you don't get limber muscles by doing a huddle in the big arm chair. The radio offers inspiration for calisthenics, phonograph records are pretty good. If the whole family lines up, it's fun. Even the laziest girl can place her hands on her hips, lift her chest, stand on tiptoes, breathe deeply, come down again. All of which stimulates blood streams, puts roses on the cheeks.

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

INSULL APPLIES TO GREECE FOR CITIZENSHIP

ATHENS, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Samuel Insull, whose American passport recently was annulled by the United States government, has applied for Greek citizenship.

This process, however, usually requires three years residence to complete. Insull has been here since October 9, when he fled from France and Italy just before attempts to arrest him in those countries at the request of the United States. A Greek court refused on December 28 to order his extradition to face larceny and embezzlement charges in Chicago in connection with the failure of his huge utility interests.

It was rumored here that a new accusation will be presented in an American effort to obtain his extradition, but neither Insull nor his Greek counsel have heard of any such move.

A report that they were planning to expel Insull was called to the attention of the Athens chief of police, who said he knew nothing of any such move.

Insull Officers Facing $60,000,000 Suit

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—Investors in the $250,000,000 Insull Utility Investments, Inc., now bankrupt, were informed today that officers and directors of the corporation will be sued for $60,000,000 for "conspiracy to swindle the public," following the rejection of Calvin Fentress as trustee.

In a stormy five and a half hour session before Garfield Charles, referee in bankruptcy, last night during which 200 once-trusting investors cheered and jeered alternately as charges were hurled, Referee Charles ruled that Fentress was disqualified as trustee.

Samuel A. Ettelson, champion of the hundreds who lost their life savings in the Insull debacle, opposed Fentress' election. He reiterated charges that Fentress had been "hand picked" for receiver by New York and Chicago bankers and that Samuel Insull himself, now a fugitive in Athens, "framed" the receiverships of his vast utility companies.

Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson, in defending Fentress' appointment as receiver, declared that Fentress from an audit of the corporation learned that several New York and Chicago banks had "grabbed" $3,000,000 in cash balances and the best of the corporation's stocks last April.

Jacobson said he had written to President Hoover and Senators Norbeck and Lewis to assist in the investigation.

TEACHER UNION PREDICTED

The prediction that teachers will form a union if the minimum salary provisions of the school code are changed was voiced today by Prof. Glenn U. Cleton, chief of Carnegie Tech's Industrial Education Department.

Cleton defended the teacher as a self-sacrificing contributor to education and charity in a speech before the weekly meeting of the South Hills Kiwanis Club in the Mt. Lebanon United Lutheran Church.

In many places, Cleton said, teachers' salaries are unpaid or the amount called for in their contracts has not been paid in full, due to low tax collections. He declared that:

"The chief fault of the teachers is that they haven't the courage to fight their own battle. They should form a union and I predict that they will if the minimum salary law is repealed.

"An active effort to set aside constructive legislation already on the books covering teachers' salaries is under way. The public not realizing the importance of the statutes, the politicians are likely to have their way."

Mother Poisons Two Children, Ends Life

ATLANTA, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—A mother and her young daughter were found dead and her son unconscious in their bedroom today and a coroner's jury returned a verdict that Mrs. Virgina Fraser Pratt poisoned her children and committed suicide while temporarily deranged.

The body of the mother was found slumped on the floor between two beds. In one bed was the body of the 10-year-old daughter, Virginia, while on the other lay the 12-year-old son, Nathaniel, unconscious from poison.

WELL-FED RATS DON'T TRAVEL

If you want to keep your rats calm, complacent rodents that stay at home and don't go scuttling through the walls, keep 'em well fed.

At least this would seem to be the conclusion to be drawn from studies of a group of psychology students at the University of Pittsburgh. Rats that see their lean days are more interested in going places than fat fellows with plenty of corn in the basement.

The students learned this by putting hungry rats and well-fed rats into a box-like structure with a maze of compartments and keeping a check on how far each traveled. Each rat was allowed two minutes a day in the maze and the test was carried on for a week. Dr. Norman L. Munn, professor of psychology, said:

"The same principle also applies to infants. The child that is hungry is more active than the well-fed one. He will kick and squirm about."

COX TO RETURN TO HOSPITAL

Father Cox returns to Mercy Hospital today for the verdict of Dr. Gilbert Meyers, on the examination he underwent last week. He will be there several days, depending on whether the decision means an operation or a course of treatment. Dr. Meyers again will put the ban on telephone or personal calls for the time being.

Following the donation of 20 sewing machines through the Sun-Telegraph appeal, Father Cox yesterday called a meeting for 7:30 o'clock tonight at Old St. Patrick's for all women who will donate services in mending old or making new clothes for the needy. This work will be under the direction of Mrs. George Mason, Sr., an aunt of the "father of the jobless."

Father Cox was the recipient of another substantial check Saturday from the Sun-Telegraph for commissions on subscriptions that came in on the blank on this page. For every subscription thus received he gets a liberal amount for his unemployment relief fund.

Cipher No. 43 is an original submitted by Oscar Peterson, of Holidays Cove, W. Va. It will keep you guessing for some time. What a cipher.

"Bogie" accomplished it in four hours. Many fans may have to wait for a tip tomorrow, it's that hard.

Did you solve Cipher No. 42? It was easy, wasn't it? The letter code printed today will show you how it was done. It was a substitution cipher and should have been easy for most of the fans.

Letters explaining how they worked Cipher No. 40, came from Lester Crunkleton, of 2348 Walton avenue; L. M. Aspinwall, of 6411 Kentucky avenue, and O. J. Williams, way up in Orchard Park, N. Y.

Williams writes:

"I bought your paper at 5 o'clock in the afternoon on Wednesday and had completed the cipher in less than a half hour. In fact, before dinner was served."

DRIPPING WATER FOILS THEFT

Drops of water foiled an attempt to steal a water heater, detectives testified in Central Police Court, where Roland James, 29, Negro, of 1816 Wylie avenue, was held for court charged with larceny.

The water dripped into the second-hand store of Louis Arfield, 1142 Penn avenue, last night. Arfield, from his chair, heard footsteps on the second floor, which was not leased. Telephoning detectives, Arfield barricaded all exits. Detectives Joseph Jackson and Sol Fromme encountered James as he walked down the steps with the water heater, they said.

James admitted he disconnected the water heater, saying he was going to sell it to Arfield, according to the detectives.

BEAVER GIRL'S HUSBAND SLAIN

The stain, about a foot above and slightly to the left of the keyhole, apparently was made by the heel of a man's hand.

SEES SUICIDE

Parker, before the blood print was found, said:

"From what I know of the background of the case, it has every appearance of suicide.

"However, it will not be possible to determine fully until we hold an autopsy. Much will depend on finger prints taken from the pistol. Brown's automobile around the house."

Friends of Mrs. Brown said there was no reason for the young husband to take his life, as there were no business worries or other troubles to annoy him.

Dr. Dean Lefavor, Palmyra physician who examined the body, said, however:

PUZZLING ANGLES

The identity of the two strangers sought was not the least of the puzzling angles presented by the case. A neighbor, Mrs. Harold West, said she heard two shots, apparently from the Brown garage, and said she saw two men run from the place.

Police expressed the opinion that Brown might have been slain outside and carried into the living room, for footprints found outside indicated, they said, a struggle had occurred. Brown's car, with the lights on and its motor still warm, was in the garage.

Another baffling aspect was a mysterious telephone call which first apprised authorities of the slaying. A quavery voice told Police Chief Morris Beck to "go tot Brad Brown's home on Park avenue; there's been an accident." When the chief got there, he found the body lying amid a litter of children's toys.

On June 2, 1929, a friend of Brown's, Ruth M. Wilson, daughter of John O. Wilson, wealthy Camden financier, was found slain in a bedroom of the Wilson home. Horace Roberts, her suitor, was found dead in the same room.

Brown testified at the inquest that "Roberts had been acting queerly." He also testified that he had heard Roberts say:

"If I can't have Ruth, nobody else will."

The verdict of the inquest was "murder and suicide."

WIFE LEAVES

As soon as she was notified of the tragedy by a relative, Mrs. Brown left Beaver for her home. Mrs. McCauley was quoted as saying she was convinced her son-in-law had been slain. As to a motive she said:

"I have my ideas about what it might have been, but I had better not discuss this awful case too much."

Brown was treasurer of a Philadelphia printing company, of which his wealthy father, the late Charles T. Brown, had been president for years. The latter ended his life in his Moorestown home in September, 1931. He had been ill some time.

Mrs. McCauley said her daughter met her husband while they were students at Swarthmore. Brown graduated in 1926 and Mrs. Brown the year following. Their campus romance culminated in marriage in January, 1929.

News of the tragedy reached Beaver shortly after 8:30 p. m., 13 hours after the arrival of Mrs. Brown at the home of her parents. Mrs. McCauley said her daughter was on the way downstairs after putting her child, Barbara, aged 2, to bed when news of the murder was received. Thirty minutes later she was en route East.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Contaminated Food Is a Cause of Many Ailments

I want to tell you about a disease caused by eating contaminated food. Of course there are many constitutional troubles which can be traced to poorly balanced diets, physical defects and infections by bacteria. But this particular ailment is due to tapeworm.

Dr. Copeland

There are different kinds of tapeworm. For example, "Taenia saginata" is the big name given a tapeworm that reaches humans through the eating of infected beef. "Taenia solium," or the "measly pork" tapeworm, is traced to contaminated pork.

I am glad to say that infection by tapeworm is far less common than it used to be. This improved state of affairs is due to the energetic measures taken by county, state and federal officials in enforcing the pure food laws. Butchers and meat dealers have co-operated.

Other parts of the world are not so fortunate. In Abyssinia, for example, tapeworm infection is very common and a person without a tapeworm is considered as a good deal of a freak.

Yet I receive many letters concerning tapeworm infection. The writers think they have tapeworm, but I am confident that in many instances the persons who inquire about tapeworm are really sufferers from something else. The symptoms of this affliction are vague and closely resemble other disorders.

As a rule, the sufferer from tapeworm infestation has an abnormal appetite, but does not gain in weight. The sufferer is restless at night and has difficulty in falling asleep.

These patients complain of numerous nervous symptoms during the day. Dizziness, "sinking sensation," faintness, sensation of weight in the stomach, attacks of abdominal cramps, nausea and vomiting, are other signs that must not be overlooked.

In no instance should a diagnosis of tapeworm be made unless evidence of the worm is found. If Johnny has a fitful appetite but does not gain in weight, it does not necessarily follow that he has a tapeworm. However, if worms are found, proper medication should be given.

A "vermifuge," that is, a medicine that destroys tapeworms, should be given only under the supervision of a physician. It is rather a simple matter to get rid of the parasite. It is wise, however, to have your own doctor direct the treatment.

Perhaps there is no better evidence of the progress of the human family, than the increasing purity and safety of our foods. We have become "food conscious" and it is becoming more and more difficult to sell under-standard products. The commercial world is doing its full duty in assisting the public officials in the maintenance of high standards.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair
Patricia Pitt

Though not as many diverting activities present bright and shining faces this month as last, there are still enough planned to keep the social set busy. Thursday morning will find a great number of them at the second of the Pittsburgh morning lecture series in the Urban Room at the William Penn, when Ruth Bryan Owen will lecture. Mrs. John W. Lawrence, by the way, will introduce the speaker.

And then the Association of Junior Leagues of America is holding a Children's Theater conference in Cleveland, January 31, February 1, 2 and 3, to which two of the Pittsburgh Junior League members, Eliza Boyd and Mrs. A. Verner Wasson, will go.

Movie on Program

The program schedules a movie for children showing three one-reel educational films on the first day, and former Gov. Carl E. Milliken, of Maine, will be the speaker. The following morning there will be meetings on organization, finances and publicity. That afternoon there will be a performance by the Tatterman Marionettes, meetings to discuss marionettes, puppets and national production. Speakers that day will be Edward Mabley and Paul McPharlin. That same evening there will be a production by the Cleveland League of "Dick Whittington and His Cat," followed by "Valentine and the Gargoyle."

Thursday morning will be an analysis of the Cleveland play, conducted by Mrs. Hallie Flanagan, and that afternoon a speaker on stage production, Howard Wicks; three group meetings conducted by Mrs. Flahagan on acting and directing, Mr. Wicks, on scenery and costumes, and Mrs. Dean Holden on lighting.

That night will be a one-act play tournament and "The Capture of Mr. Static" will be performed by large, medium sized and small leagues.

The morning of the final day there will be discussion of certain controversial subjects and dramatics in settlement houses. And there will be a playlet given by a group of Negro children.

Andre Morize Discusses Changing Literature at 20th Century Club

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The spontaneous applause that greeted Andre Morize yesterday at the Twentieth Century Club and that did not wait for his introduction by Mrs. David Wilson Kuhn attests to the favor in which this lecturer is held. From the post-war tendencies that showed anarchy, incoherence and lack of discipline, French literature has changed to a new order, Mr. Morize told his audience.

To understand what is happening one must go back to the end of the Great Tragedy, this Harvard professor said, explaining that the young writers of that time found themselves face to face with a new and extremely complex world. They thought it necessary to destroy in the hope of building something new. They had no leaders and no sympathy with those who had been leaders in the previous generation.

There followed, to use Mr. Morize's words, "a real debauch of self-expression." The writers lacked the maturity of mind and human experience that helps in the solution of problems or shows that there is no solution.

About six years ago the new order began to appear. Today writers seem to feel that something is over—that the post-war period is at an end; that something else is beginning, and that a new order must be built, and that the salvation and future of French literature is in a new conception of man, in building a modern idea of man—towards a new humanism.

Mr. Morize, author of "Bermuda Bound—Alone," which was given as a noncompetitive play at the eighth amateur players' contest of the Pittsburgh Drama League, is author of "Bermuda Bound—Alone," which was given as a noncompetitive play at the end of the contest.

Artists from 12 foreign countries will be represented in the show. The selection of prints was made by Dr. Frederick M. Clapp, head of the Department of Fine Arts. He is at present in New York collecting additional material for the University Fine Arts Library. Authorities have recently termed the Pitt library one of the four leading American school art libraries.

Seventeen women's social fraternities of the University of Pittsburgh competed last evening in a song contest sponsored by the presidents' council of the Panhellenic Association.

She has "IT"

but not what you think . . .

After one dance they pass her up. They forget that rose-petal skin, those dreamy eyes, her agreeable manner, her grace on the dance floor . . . She has "IT," all right —but not what you think!

WHAT A SHAME that she ruins her great charm by this undesirable "it"—perspiration odor . . . the stale hint that comes when lingerie isn't quite fresh.

Why doesn't she protect her daintiness—and her popularity—Lux underthings after each wearing? All healthy people perspire, frequently over a quart a day, though many never even feel sticky. Underthings absorb this perspiration, but Lux removes it, takes away odor completely. Saves color and fabric. And it takes only 4 minutes, or less!

AVOID OFFENDING

Underthings absorb perspiration odor—
Protect daintiness this easy 4-minute way

Wash after each wearing. One tablespoon of Lux does one day's undies . . . stockings, too! Use lukewarm water—Lux dissolves instantly in it. Squeeze suds through fabric, rinse twice.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which weakens threads, fades color. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water alone is safe in Lux.

THE NEW GUIMPE-DRESS FOR EVENING WEAR PROVES POPULAR

TWO DRESSES have always been better than one, but now the single dress that is really two is preferred. Transformable clothes — originally an experiment to test out the possibility of thrifty fashions —have become the big successes of the dressmaking world.

THE FINE feature of the transformable clothes that are being made this year is the fact that there is hardly an evidence of their double-duty background. Time was when a transformation dress showed its taking-apart qualities at first glance; nowadays hardly a dress goes by in any fashion parade that doesn't look as if it might be taken apart and transformed — hence the dress which has this as its purpose is not set apart from others in any way.

WITNESS, FOR example, the guimpe-dress, for dinner wear, sketched today. So many guimpe frocks have come and gone, in the style program, that they have ceased to stand out from other fashions any more than any other classic dress. Yet take off its guimpe and this dress becomes a perfectly satisfactory evening gown of the shoulderless variety.

NOTE THAT it is built on lines which accentuate the curves of the figure; it has no belt. Both dress and guimpe, in black and white, are fashioned of a new crepe silk called "cabassol."

Nero Fiddles, Rome Burns, As 'The Sign of the Cross' Is Shown In Nixon

By GEORGE SEIBEL

It was a Roman holiday in the Nixon Theater, with lions and orgies, gladiators and martyrs, Poppaea taking her bath in decently opaque milk and Nero reciting free verse to a very refractory lyre. "The Sign of the Cross," that grand old religious melodrama of Wilson Barrett, has been DeMilled into a gorgeous spectacle—and it was some spectacle, with Rome burning and legions thundering down the Appian Way. In the midst of all the gory glory was Fredric March as Marcus Superbus, loving the Christian maiden Mercia, spurning the vile Poppaea, and becoming a Christian at last because she will not become a pagan. It was all very magnificent—and sometimes a strain for weak nerves—and always an inspiring and reverent display.

George Seibel

It would have been easy to cheapen this drama by crude methods. But it has actually been heightened in transferring it to the screen. The purely theatrical qualities have been subdued so that almost all of the melodrama has been overcome. And all the players, from Fredric March to Poppaea's panther, have learned the important lesson of restraint. Even Charles Laughton, who plays Nero, never overdoes his part—he makes the Nero of tradition and Wilson Barrett seem almost credible, a weakling who is to be laughed at rather than hated.

DRAMA OF MARTYRDOM

The drama is based on the persecution of the Christians after the burning of Rome. Nero hates the Christians and is only too glad to blame the fire on them. When Titus comes from Galilee with an epistle of the Apostle Paul, trouble begins. A secret meeting in a grove is raided and those that are not shot to death by the archers are dragged to the arena where they are thrown to the hungry lions.

Among these Christians is the lovely Mercia, played pathetically by Elissa Landi, and Marcus Superbus has fallen in love with her. He tries to save her, but the Empress Poppaea is jealous and decrees Mercia's death. So Marcus and Mercia die together.

Poppaea is done in very flapperish style by Claudette Colbert, but not overdone. That is the beauty about this picture—nothing in it is overdone. It is as artistic a spectacle as has ever come out of Hollywood.

ARTHUR HOHL'S WORK

One of the outstanding features of the film is the work done by a Pittsburgher, Arthur Hohl, who acts Titus, the missionary, with wonderful reverence and preaches a sermon with Pauline conviction. His make-up also is a masterpiece, for he looks as if he had stepped out of an old Italian painting.

Ferdinand Gottschalk as an old Roman roue is another of the high points in the cast. Ian Keith is effectively villainous as Tigellinus and Vivian Tobin looks very picturesque as Dacia. Then there is a decidedly modern Dog and two charmingly Persian Cats lapping Poppaea's bath.

The picture is a revelation of what Hollywood can do and what Hollywood has learned. While an archaeologist could no doubt pick many flaws in the production from the historical viewpoint, for the average spectator Rome becomes real. Especially the combats of the gladiators—the retiarii with their nets and tridents, should impress the layman. And there are enough Bible texts sprinkled throughout the picture to make it as good as several sermons. As for the orgies—they were respectable enough for any night club, so no one will be offended except perhaps the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Lions.

England Out For Movie Prestige

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 17.—Within the last two months, the British motion picture industry has taken the bit between its teeth, and is out to make good pictures if it has to take half of Hollywood across the ocean to turn the trick.

One boxoffice smash did it.

So says Edward Everett Horton, the comedian, who has just returned from a chore with the British Gaumont Film Company and whom I found yesterday sitting in a sunlit patio trying to bake the London flu out of his bones.

Eddie names the epoch-making picture as "Jack's the Boy," a laugh-getter featuring Jack Hulbert, husband of the English comedienne, Cecily Courtneidge, and a performer whom Eddie describes as a cross between Harold Lloyd and the late Raymond Hitchcock.

So successful is "Jack's the Boy"—it's coining thousands of pounds—that the English producer has gained an entirely new confidence. He sees that real money can be made by a hit in England. He's out to get more and he is willing to spend increased money to do it.

British studios, says Horton, are generally behind their Hollywood rivals in lighting—particularly trick lighting. They never, for instance, light two players' faces differently for a closeup. And, while they use the new American film they haven't yet discovered the tan makeup that goes with it.

To correct these matters they are coming to Hollywood, and Eddie says they are willing to pay handsomely.

Funniest of all the cracks about Hollywood's famous Chinese Theater was made by Will Rogers at the opening of "Cavalcade."

With a sweeping glance at the Oriental decorations, the comedian drawled:

"The way this depression is going on, this is going to be one of the greatest chop-suey restaurants in the world."

Cheers to the Fox company for starting the opening night performance of "Cavalcade" about three-quarters of an hour earlier than usual. Amazing the amount of care taken with this production. There is a sailor who appears for a flash in a musical comedy scene. The studio brought an actor all the way from London for the part. You should have heard a blase premiere audience gasp at the famous scene where the honeymooners step away from the rail of the steamer and disclose a life-preserver marked "Titanic." And what a beautiful line when the funeral cortege of Queen Victoria is passing and small Joey says to his mother: "She must have been a very little lady." Hollywood turns out few pictures like "Cavalcade."

The Hays office okay was not forthcoming on "The Story of Temple Drake" ("Sanctuary"). Paramount now has switched George Raft into "Pickup," which was to have had Gary Cooper . . . Grace Poggi, the dancer from Agua Caliente, is going about these evenings with Joseph M. Schenck . . . A lot of the stars are planning to be present for the benefit performance Mrs. Joe E. Brown is sponsoring at the Club New Yorker next Sunday evening . . . Ken Maynard will pilot his own plane on a three weeks' visit to the Mayan ruins in Yucatan . . . Would you ever suspect that Helen Hayes is a pun-addict? . . . Merian Cooper, who is giving Dorothy Jordan such a rush these days, is expecting a visit from John Hay Whitney, son of Harry Payne Whitney.

To get even for those remarks about the Mayfair parties, M. C. Levee put Elsa Maxwell on the spot. He asked her to a party and then invited nobody else but stags. Those who received bids were Leslie Howard, Frank Borzage, Maurice Chevalier, Jimmy Durante, Frederic March, Gdoucho Marx, Jean Malin, Jesse Lasky and Edgar Allan Woolf.

Later in the evening, the wives, who dined with Mrs. Borzage, showed up.

Buster Keaton has no official proof he was ever born. A cyclone blew away the town of Pickway, Kan., his birthplace, and all the official records were destroyed.

Wonderful Climate

NANCY CARROLL, FOUND IN A TREE, ANOTHER PROOF OF CALIFORNIA'S FINE PEACH CROP

Movie Stars Friendly

"Picture stars are supposed to be friendly, the way Mary Pickford has always been," says Bette Davis, who plays a leading role in "20,000 Years in Sing Sing," coming to the Stanley screen Friday. "I don't think motion picture players will ever grow away from that—or even want to."

Bette doesn't want to. In her short year in Hollywood, beginning with a part opposite George Arliss, in "The Man Who Played God," and now in "20,000 Years in Sing Sing," opposite Spencer Tracy, she has had more than her share of success.

In her present picture she plays the part of a gun man's moll, but she's on the level herself. In fact, she sticks to "her man" to the end. There's something fine in the girl she represents, just as there is in the man who goes to the electric chair for her.

The story is a real one, written by a man who knows the people he writes about—Lewis E. Lawes, warden of Sing Sing prison. It was adapted by Courtenay Terrett and Robert Lord.

Romance Seen On Variety Screen

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Evenings For Sale," pleasant little romantic comedy that heads the screen attractions in the photoplay and vaudeville program in the Variety, presents Mary Boland in a characteristic role, one of the gushy feminine types that make you smile. In this film she is a widow from Merryville, Iowa, on vacation in Vienna. She is looking for Maxim's, the romance of "The Merry Widow," and perhaps a Prince Danilo. She finds him, but he's not for her, yet she succeeds in furthering his real affair of heart, and that is enough satisfaction for her.

He really isn't a prince, but a count, and is so reduced in circumstances because of the war that he is employed in a night club to dance with unattached ladies—in short, a gigolo. Herbert Marshall, English actor, plays the part nicely, and the lady he likes a lot is Sari Maritza, also from abroad. This, our first glimpse of Sari on the screen, proved satisfactory, visually and otherwise.

Charles Ruggles also has a prominent role, former orderly to the count, also an employe in the cabaret. Charlie has had funnier roles, but this isn't farce, and he shows, anyway, that he has a good heart.

The stage acts have the Jubilee Singers as the featured offering. The audience at the first show liked John Quigg and his accordeon. Moss, with a ? after his name on the program easel, whistles real well, imitates birds and sounds, and even tries comedy. Milo? needn't be jealous yet. Nat Nazarro, Jr., deserves a cheer—he didn't pull any off-color gags. And he did show a variety of steps that the girls of the ensemble repeated. But they couldn't duplicate his difficult diving handsprings. Walsh and Graff, gymnasts; Andy Clyde, juggler, and Phyllis Merle, in song and dance, completed the stage offerings.

The bill as a whole is clean and diverting.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Night life in Pittsburgh will take on an atmosphere of hot-cha-cha, hi-de-hi-hi, and all that, in the Show Boat tonight, when Skipper Joe Hiller will present a floor show called "Hot From Harlem," the performers in which were recruited from the Cotton Club, Connie's and other Harlem jazz kitchens. Fletcher Henderson's Orchestra will be the source of rhythm, and George Dewey Washington will be featured among entertainers. They will include the Four Blazers, Alice Harris, Washboard Serenaders and the Ten Creoles. The doors will be open at 10 o'clock.

Eddie Cantor's show, booked for Syria Mosque for the afternoon and evening of February 2, is to be a vaudeville presentation, in which Eddie's chief assistant will be George Jessel. The program will include the usual variety of an entertainment of this nature, with Cantor in the capacity of performing star and generalissimo.

* * *

Harry Bannister, once stock actor here, is the producer of "Late One Evening," comedy that opened last week in New York, with Urusula Jeans in the featured role. New York had previously become acquainted with her through "Cavalcade," a current screen hit in the big town. Bannister does not appear in "Late One Evening," but he gave it a lavish mounting.

Orchestra, With Stock, In Mosque Tonight

The Chicago Symphony Orchestra, with Frederick Stock conducting, will give their only concert in Pittsburgh this season in Syria Mosque tonight. The program will open with a short symphony, to be heard for the first time in Pittsburgh. It is Mozart's Symphony in D Major (Kochel 504). This will be followed by the major work, the Sibelius Symphony No. 1, in E Minor, not heard here since 1917. The second part of the program will have Brahm's Variations on a theme by Joseph Haydn; Dance of Nymphs and Satyrs, by George Schumann, and selections from Act III, "Siegfried," by Wagner, arranged for concert performance by Mr. Stock.

'Brothers Karamazov' Back In Cinema

"The Brothers Karamazov," a very fine realistic film based on the novel of the famous Russian Dostoevsky, is back at the Avenue Cinema this week—and is worth seeing a second time. While the principal roles are portrayed by Fritz Kortner and Anna Sten in impressive sincerity, the work of Max Pohl as old Karamazov is outstanding. Much Russian music and dancing and scenery are interpolated, and heighten the tragic mood of a truly artistic picture drama.

Harlem

George Dewey Washington, recently here in "Forward March," will be featured in "Hot From Harlem," all-Negro floor show opening tonight on the Show Boat.

Young Writing Play About Hollywood

Roland Young and his cousin, Maj. Henry Allen, are writing a play about Hollywood. Young has confessed at Paramount's studio, where he is being featured in "A Lady's Profession" opposite Alison Skipworth, Maj. Allen is the author of a London stage hit recently purchased by Fox. He came to Hollywood to supervise filming of the picture and is a house guest of Young, who also is an author of note.

Broadways of the World

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

HOTEL GEORGE THE FIFTH, PARIS, FRANCE.—It all started when I picked up my copy of the Paris edition of the Chicago Tribune and read that Mr. Thil, the middleweight champion of the world outside of New York state, was going to fight Mr. Ara, a practically unknown boxer, who claimed to be the champion of Spain. The distance was to be 10 rounds, and the encounter was to take place in the largest arena in Paris.

The boxing experts didn't seem to think very much of Mr. Ara's chances. They had never seen Mr. Ara in the ring and they had no idea of his ability—but, being true experts, that made little or no difference. They knew that Mr. Thil had never been knocked off his feet and that none of the present crop of boxers was likely to turn the trick. So they predicted quite freely that Mr. Ara would be sleeping peacefully long before the tenth round came to pass.

Now the one thing in the world that I should never do is to bet on any sort of encounter. By some miracle or other, I have but to place a wager on one individual — and before anyone knows what has happened his opponent always romps home. Then, too, I am forever betting on the long shot in any game.

But somehow or other, I am never quite strong enough to resist temptation when the odds are long enough. And in this particular case not only would the odds be long, but I also had the distinct advantage of knowing that Mr. Ara was by no means a bum in the ring.

I had seen him fight twice in New York and, while I cannot recall his opponents at the moment, I remember being highly impressed with his work. And I also remember that he had a terrific punch that, if it landed, would have knocked any middleweight in the world unconscious.

So I put down my paper and told myself that I was going to make a bet. You'd be surprised how nicely I can talk to myself now. It's a habit I've acquired since I left New York.

Later in the day, as I sat in my favorite Paris barroom and drank my customary glass of milk, I remembered the fact that I wanted to make a bet. So I summoned the proprietor, with whom I had become quite friendly.

"What's the best way to get a bet down around here?" I inquired. "I've got a hunch on that fight tomorrow night and I want to lose a little money. I want to bet that Ara knocks out Thil."

The proprietor's eyes almost popped from his head.

"Are you insane?" he asked, just as though he didn't know. "Don't be a fool, will you? Don't you know that the game here is as crooked as it can be, especially when a Frenchman is fighting a foreigner? Why, it's worse than it is in America!"

I shrugged my shoulders.

"Be that as it may," I replied casually, "I still have my hunch. I'm not betting heavily. A thousand francs are enough. Let's see; that makes $40. Yes, that's plenty. But listen—I must have odds of at least 8-to-1. The odds should be 80-to-1. I know, because I'm betting against practically a sure thing. But I'll take eight."

The proprietor arose.

"I'll see what I can do," he promised. "But you're just tossing your money away."

He went from table to table and I noticed that, as he talked, people began to look in my direction. I felt slightly uncomfortable and decided to leave. As I struggled into my coat, the coatroom girl wagged a finger at me.

"Monsieur is a foolish man," she stated. "Everything is fix' for Thil to win tomorrow night. Why you bet 10,000 francs so foolish?"

"I'm not betting 10,000.. I returned somewhat peevishly. "I'm betting 1,000."

She smiled.

"Monsieur is modest," she murmured, "but he cannot fool me."

As if I wanted to! . . .

By some mysterious means that I will never be able to explain, the word spread like wildfire. Before I was fully awake the following morning two of my friends had phoned me. One of them had heard that I was betting 20,000 francs on the fight; the other was positive that I had already placed 30,000 francs and was looking for more. And both of them begged me not to be so crazy, because everything was very crooked. I tried to explain the true situation, but they wouldn't listen. They knew better. So I gave it up.

The payoff arrived when the waiter marched in to serve breakfast. He spilled half the orange juice in my lap and apologized by stating that it was because he was nervous for me. I asked him what the devil he was talking about.

"The fight tonight," he returned. "Monsieur will pardon my boldness, but I must tell him that everything is not—how you say?—on the up and up in the box over here. Thil must win. And monsieur should not bet such large sums against him." . .

I leaned back.

"Will you kindly tell me," I asked, "how much I am betting?"

"I have heard," he returned promptly, "that it is 50,000 francs."

I yawned.

"You're wrong," I muttered. "The sum is 100,000 francs. Please stop making a piker out of me." . . .

Well, after my phone rang all day and betting folks raced in and out of my room for hours, I finally got my bet down just two minutes before the fight began. The biggest odds I could get were 4 to 1. So I bet my thousand francs, against 4,000 that Mr. Ara would knock out Mr. Thil.

I had to put up my $40 in advance, and I never saw the gentleman with whom I was betting. And all this, you must remember, finally happened after a day of great excitement during which—although I was accused of wagering fantastic amounts—it seemed as if there were not one in all Paris who was willing to cover my poor $40.

Mr. Thil, of course, won the fight. Mr. Ara has lost what punch he once had, and, after the third round, Mr. Thil won as he pleased. Thil, incidentally, is far and away the best man in his class and will unquestionably beat anybody we might send over at the present time.

Once again Hellinger had blown a bet. I was quite content because it was nothing more than I had expected. My big kick arrived the following morning when I found an article referring to me in the column of Mr. Herol Egan, the best sporting writer on this side of the big pond. I haven't the column before me now, and I trust Mr. Egan will excuse me for quoting the following excerpts from memory:

"The champion optimist at the ringside last night was a well known American journalist who wagered 1,000 francs that Ara would knock out Thil . . . He wanted to bet 4,000 francs and, surprisingly enough, he was unable to get it down . . . I was glad to hear it, though, because the absence of big betting over here is what keeps our ring game as clean as it is" . . .

Unlucky

Another for Miss Landi

Elissa Landi has been engaged by Jesse L. Lasky, independent producer for Fox, to play the leading feminine role in "Warrior's Husband." Miss Landi's new part was that originally played on the New York stage by Katherine Hepburn. Ernest Truex was announced previously for the male lead in the Julian Thompson play, which Walter Lang will direct. "Warrior's Husband" is Miss Landi's second announced production for the coming season, having been cast in Alfred Savoir's comedy, "The Dressmaker from Luneville."

El Brendel's Garden Grows Surprises

El Brendel, the Fox comedian, who is being featured in "Hot Pepper" with Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen, has a mysterious way of gardening. He goes into a gardening store and tells the man that he wants to buy some flowering plants, but that he shouldn't be told what kind they are. Then he takes them home and plants them. Last time he did he was surprised because the plants didn't flower.

Helen Twelvetrees Gets New Contract

Helen Twelvetrees was placed under long term contract by Paramount and given as her first assignment the lead opposite Maurice Chevalier in the latter's next picture, "A Bedtime Story." "A Bedtime Story," written for the screen by Waldemar Young and Nunnally Johnson, is a human-interest drama of a playboy and a waif whom he takes to raise. Norman Taurog, whose direction of "Skippy" won him the directorial award of 1931, will handle the megaphone on this production.

Fat Men

Mr. Clarence A. Case of Monteres Park, Calif., writes: "I've fought a tendency toward obesity since 33 yrs. old (now 48) and have found Kruschen Salts the only satisfactory remedy. When the old belt begins to tighten I get back on Kruschen for a bottle or so and take off from 12 to 18 pounds easily and quickly." (July 18, 1932).

To lose fat surely and SAFELY, take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning.

But be sure to get Kruschen—your health comes first—a bottle that will last you 4 weeks costs but a few cents at any drugstore in the world—if not satisfied—money back.

Lukas, Carroll Team In New Film

Choosing Paul Lukas and Nancy Carroll for two of the three featured leading characters, Director James Whale has completed the cast for "A Kiss Before the Mirror," the Viennese stage hit which William Anthony McGuire has adapted as a forthcoming Universal screen play. Frank Morgan, a star in the legitimate theater, has the other featured assignment and Jean Dixon, Broadway stage actress, is to assume an important role. Although he has held a Universal contract, for almost a year Lukas is playing his first role at his "home studio" since "Strictly Dishonorable."

Zasu and Slim to Have Taylor As Guide

Universal's next Slim Summerville-Zasu Pitts co-starring screen play tentatively titled "The Five Year Plan," will be directed by the veteran Sam Taylor, who directed Harold Lloyd for several years, and who made Mary Pickford's screen version of "Coquette," will begin work on the feature comedy just as soon as Miss Pitts recovers from her recent illness. The comedienne and Summerville had completed "They Just Had to Get Married" just before Miss Pitts was stricken.

Norman Foster Edits His Own Film

Norman Foster will become a film editor now that he has completed his role in Fox Film's "State Fair"—but only for a short time. Foster is editing the 10,000 feet of film he shot while on a cruise with his wife, Claudette Colbert, a little more than a year ago. He now has the travelogue footage down to six reels.

JERSEY PASSES TRUCK LAW

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 17.—(INS.)—With the help of the Legislature, the state of New Jersey today strengthened its lines for another truck war as Pennsylvania state troopers again began enforcing the new license requirements passed at the Keystone State's last special legislative session.

Without a dissenting vote, the New Jersey Senate last night passed the Barbour bill giving the commissioner of motor vehicles added power to enforce similar requirements against drivers of Pennsylvania trucks entering New Jersey.

Pennsylvania state police in the Philadelphia district began stopping trucks from other states which did not bear Pennsylvania license plates Sunday at midnight when the 15-day grace period expired.

Urges Secession Of 39 States From Union

BISMARCK, N. D., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—W. E. Martin, State Senator, introduced a resolution yesterday advocating secession of 39 states from the Union, leaving a group of nine eastern states to form a separate country. Senator Martin said:

"This resolution is presented for the education of the people to let them know the East is getting rich at our expense."

The resolution said Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Jersey "have so manipulated Congress and congressional legislation that said states have become rich at the expense of the rest of the Union." It proposes the remaining states secede from the Union "carrying with us the Star-Spangled Banner, and leaving them the stripes which they richly deserve."

6 YEARS GIVEN EMBEZZLER

Leo Dineen, 34, of 337 Sunnyland avenue, Carrick, former teller of the Iron and Glass Dollar Savings Bank at Birmingham, Twelfth and Carson streets, and employe of two building and loan associations, was sentenced three to six years in jail on embezzlement charges in Criminal Court today.

Dineen pleaded guilty last week to embezzlement of $6,500 of the bank's funds over a period of about four years. Judge Frank P. Patterson postponed sentence until charges were entered against Dineen by the Reliance Building and Loan Association, which alleged embezzlement of $2,434, and the Carrick Building and Loan Association claiming embezzlement of $290.

Judge Patterson sentenced him on all three charges. Dineen said he took the money for household expenses. He has been in jail for two months in default of $10,000 bond.

Mansfield Favors School Visitors

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17. — A drive to have the school visitor system returned to Pittsburgh by an act of the State Legislature has reached the stage that several prominent independents from Allegheny County have entered the legislative field and are predicting victory.

Mr. Shields

Electors of each ward were allowed to choose their representatives who visited the schools and made comments to the school teachers as well as to the school board itself.

The act under which the school visitors operated was repealed in 1931 and contrary to the general public belief was not sponsored by State Senator William D. Mansfield, who was chairman of the Senate Education Committee in that session.

The fact is that Mansfield instead of being opposed to the measure will likely be in favor of its return.

Secretary Fee Led To Political Juggles

The visitors watched the work of the teachers in the various subjects, studied the system in use in the cafeterias and kept close tab on the various play activities.

In politically-organized wards, the school visitors were not always held in high esteem by those who controlled their votes.

Having no power to make anything other than recommendations, the controlled district leaders instead of trying to aid in the schools, in many cases tried to elect visitors who would pay no attention to the wants of the schools, but who would, in most instances, be very careful to organize so that the political follower who was "right" would receive the $25 as secretary.

Each ward was allowed seven school visitors and from the seven were chosen a president and a secretary. The secretary was the only one to receive compensation and the Pittsburgh Board of Education always insisted that the president sign the order on which the money was drawn.

There is a record which stands in Pittsburgh that in one particular ward the school visitors never held a meeting, no president or secretary was ever named and as a result the school board saved $25.

Secretary Usually Was Most Active

In wards where the interest in schools was the uppermost thought in the minds of those elected, the secretary was generally the most active of the group. It was generally an interested woman and she would, from her $25 buy and mail, each week, a postal card mforming the members of the meetings, investigations, complaints, etc., in which the seven were interested.

The secretary also conducted the correspondence with the school board and arranged for conferences with them and also with the superintendent of schools. She would record the complaints and the action taken by the school board or the superintendent.

In requesting the return of the school visitors' system its backers frankly admit that their system does not operate very well in highly controlled districts, but they insist that a majority of the wards of Pittsburgh have people who are really interested in the schools and school system.

The ppproposal is to re-enact the school visitor legislation along the lines it operated before its repeal with the exception that the secretary of the group in each ward would receive $15 instead of $25.

State Senator James J. Coyne is said to favor the return of the system with Mansfield and others reported as being friendly.

The law was on the statutes for some time, but was repealed during the 1931 session.

Boulevard Plunge Fatal for Woman

Pneumonia developing from injuries suffered January 8 when she fell or leaped from a wall in the Boulevard of the Allies onto the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks caused the death last night in Mercy Hospital of Anna Orlowsky, 40, of 3110 Niagara street, the Coroner's office reported.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 17.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

California is happy today, it's raining. It's raining, that might mean just another mud hole to some places, but brother, when you havent seen a drop of water that hasn't come through a faucet in ten months, why rain looks like a miracle from the Democrats. May it keep up as long as Huey Long. Long live the Democrats. Give California two months of rain in the year, and nothing can stop us but lack of adjectives. So look out, Florida. California is "all wet," and when she is "all wet" she is hard to compete with.

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

Coolidge's Earliest Law Knowledge Was Gained From His Dad

CHAPTER III.

Careful provision was made for the administration of justice through local authorities. Those charged with petty crimes and misdemeanors were brought before one of the five Justices of the Peace, who had power to try and sentence with or without calling a jury. He also had a like jurisdiction in civil matters of a small amount.

The more important cases, criminal and civil, went to the County Court which sat in the neighboring town of Woodstock in May and December. My father was nearly all his life a constable or a deputy sheriff, and sometimes both, with power to serve civil and criminal process, so that he arrested those charged with crime and brought them before the Justice for trial.

Unless it would keep me out of school, he would take me with him when attending before the local justices or when he went to the opening session of the County Court. Before him my grandfather had held the same positions, so that together they were the peace officers most of the time in our town for nearly 75 years.

In addition to this they often settled the estates of deceased persons and acted as guardian of minors. This business was transacted in the Probate Court, where I often went.

Learned From Father

My father was at times a Justice of the Peace and always had a commission as notary public. This enabled him to take the acknowledgment of deeds, which he knew how to draw, and administer oaths necessary to pension papers which he filled out for old soldiers usually without charge, or to take affidavits required on any other instruments.

In my youth he was also always engaged in the transaction of all kinds of town business, being constantly elected for that purpose. He was painstaking, precise and very accurate, and had such wide experience that the lawyers of the region knew they could rely on him to serve papers in difficult cases and make returns that would be upheld by the courts.

This work gave him such a broad knowledge of the practical side of the law that people of the neighborhood were constantly seeking his advice, to which I always listened with great interest. He always counseled them to resist injustice and avoid unfair dealing, but to keep their agreements, meet their obligations and observe strict obedience to the law.

By reason of what I saw and heard in my early life, I came

'FURCOAT' AGAIN BEHIND BARS

"Fur Coat Herman," as police say he is widely known, is behind the bars again today, they say, for "pulling a fast one."

Herman, whose real name is Herman Nelns, 36, Negro, yesterday told Edward J. Lhota, a milk truck driver of 1 Millroy street, he would sell him a fur coat for $7, showing him a baggage claim check for a trunk purported to be filled with such coats. Lhota testified before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today. After taking the $7, it was alleged, Herman neglected to produce the coat.

Police declare their records show Herman has been sentenced by every police magistrate in Pittsburgh since 1923. He admitted he "pulled a fast one" and was sent to jail for 90 days.

SIX-OUNCE DOG WORTH $600

A six-ounce ball of white fur with a tuft of hair for a tail, and a bark that would do justice to a St. Bernard, has lifted her $600 aristocratic dog's head to look about her home in Pittsburgh and remind us that she is "the toy of ancient royalty."

Unlike some human socialites who would give a good round sum for a pedigree, Lady Mona, as the pup has been named by its mistress, Mrs. James Gardiner Rossman, of Library road, earns money because she can trace her lineage way way back to the time of Publius, the Roman governor of Malta.

SIX OUNCES FOR $600!

LADY MONA OF ARR . . . SHE WEIGHS JUST SIX OUNCES

ROAD PROGRAM HELD TOOL OF POLITICS

Commissioners Grab Power, but Neglect Jobless, Child

The County Commissioners' road building program was under fire today as providing political benefits to the Commissioners at the expense of jobless men, while contracts are being awarded to others than the low bidders.

The program gains headway with large sums being paid political followers of the commission members, instead of going to hire men who are unemployed, it was charged.

Less than two months ago the relief work program of the Commissioners became known. More than a half million dollars was set aside for projects in all parts of the county. To bring the work more directly under the Commissioners, the county was divided into three zones, each commissioner taking one.

Jobs on these road projects are given out only by the Commissioners. The work is done under the direction of W. W. Gill, a county engineer, instead of under the road department.

HIGH BIDDER WINS

On the Renzie road project, in the zone directed by Commissioner W. D. Mansfield, Joseph Gaudy, a political follower of Mansfield, holds a contract to furnish a power shovel at $4.40 an hour. Although two other bidders offered the same machinery to do the work at a lower cost, Gaudy was given the job. To date the county has paid him $1,256.21.

Records at the Controller's office also revealed that Gaudy, in addition to holding the contract, draws 75 cents an hour from the county as an assistant road foreman.

Alfred Hirsch, head of the Contractor's Machinery and Supply Company, said his company had bid $4 an hour on the job and was ignored. Gill, in a letter to Controller Robert G. Woodside, is said to have declared the bid of Hirsch's company was withdrawn. This alleged statement was denied by Hirsch.

Henry Butch, contractor, said he bid $3.10 an hour on the Renzie road job, but withdrew his bid when county officials told him they could make him move his shovel at will and limit the working hours to cut down the chance of profit.

HASLEY FIRM PROFITS

The new director of the county public works department, Thomas O. Hasley, is also said to have benefited by a contract recently awarded for road work. The W. J. Hasley Company, of which Director Hasley is a partner, received a contract for road work in Moon, Kennedy and Collier Townships, although Hirsch's company bid lower on the work. Two other companies also submitted bids lower than that of the Hasley concern, it was said.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern last night said he understood that Hasley resigned from his company when he assumed his directorship.

SHOVEL HIRED

The Hasley company also paid $182.50 rental for a power shovel in Aleppo, Marshall, McCandless and Sewickley townships at $5 an hour, although two other companies were lower in their bids.

Hirsch said Gill tried to persuade him to withdraw his bid, but he refused. Hirsch said his $4 an hour bid was still low for the work and still stands.

Contractors have pointed out that low bidders can be virtually forced out of the running by the foreman on the road job who assigns the work for the power shovel. If the foreman directs that the shovel be moved frequently and limited as to working time, even the highest bidder would lose money.

FIRE SWEEPS DANCE HALL

Penn Township residents were aroused from their beds early today by a spectacular blaze that swept the Friday Gardens, a dance hall and barbecue located on the Frankstown road.

The blaze, of mysterious origin, swept rapidly throughout the one-story rambling frame structure and attracted hundreds of spectators from nearby communities.

Volunteer fire companies from North Bessemer, Unity, Rosedale, Lincoln Park and the Thad Stevens company were forced to stand idly by because of lack of water.

The building, leased by Walter and Anthony Friday, and vacant for some time, police said, was valued at $15,000.

City Worker Would Drop County Pension

Miss Mary J. Black, chief clerk of the City Home and Hospital at Mayview, and a pensioned county employe, today told the County Commissioners she was willing to turn back to the county treasury the $71.50 she received each month from the county pension fund.

She said she was willing to relinquish her pension money as long as she was employed by the city. The Commissioners referred her to the County Solicitor.

Bandits Get Cash At 'Pep' Meeting

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—The sales manager was delivering a "pep talk" to 31 agents in a branch office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company here today when three bandits entered with drawn guns. Holding employes and several customers at bay, the robbers obtained $2,054 cash and escaped.

Prepares to Exhibit Works in Store Downtown

A long, long time ago when the wolf at the door bothered the struggling young artist too much, he opened the door and painted the wolf's picture which he sold for the kind of money which keeps the wolf away from doors.

Nowadays not even a picture of the wolf can bring that kind of money unless, like some of the modern artists are doing, the picture is cut up into funny little pieces that are hard to put together and lo—he has created a new kind of jig saw puzzle.

And that is just what Marion Louise Leigh, a newcomer into Pittsburgh's world of art, has discovered. At the moment this 21-year-old Dormont artist is busy day and night getting ready to exhibit some of her finest works at the B. K. Elliott Company, Sixth street. She is also planning to submit something to this year's Associated Artists' Exhibit, but if there is no buyer for her paintings she will cut them into jigsaw puzzles.

A graduate of Bellevue High School, Miss Leigh displayed marked talent before the easel and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Leigh, urged her to continue her studies at the Carnegie Institute of Technology and the Pittsburgh Art Institute. She attended Saturday morning classes at Tech for nearly three years and at the Pittsburgh Art Institute for a year and a half after graduating from Bellevue High School, but the depression came along and she was forced to leave school.

At home, however, she has continued her work and lately has attracted the attention of several of Pittsburgh's foremost art critics who have urged her to exhibit some of her paintings.

BELLEVUE BANK TRIAL REOPENS

A shortage of approximately $100,000 existed when the Citizens Trust Company of Bellevue closed, it was testified by Paul Yeager, of the State Banking Department, today when the embezzlement trial of A. D. Smith, former secretary-treasurer, was resumed.

Yeager testified he found a canceled check for $50,000 hidden in Smith's desk, which was not entered on the bank's books. The check was drawn on the Diamond National Bank, withdrawing funds of the Citizens Trust Company, he said. The Citizens Trust Company books showed a balance of $51,395 in the Diamond, he testified, whereas the Citizens bank owed the Diamond $604.74. He testified to an additional shortage of $50,000 from bonds carried as an asset, he charged, when actually pledged to the school board as surety on a school deposit.

PROPOSAL NOT TO BE FORCED ON COUNTIES

Plan to Widen Cash Grants Also Will Be Studied

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17.—Proposal to widen the application of money grants to unemployed in Pennsylvania will come before the State Emergency Relief Board at a meeting in the Capital tomorrow.

The House, meanwhile, moved forward today in its attack on unemployment, adopting the Blumberg resolution for a committee of seven to study all bills relating to relief.

The Malina resolution, asking abandonment of the commissary or community relief system, was referred to the unemployment committee yet to be named. Similar action was taken on the Cohen resolution which also asks abandonment of the commissary plan.

CONSIDER PROTESTS

The Emergency Relief Board also will deal with the widespread protests against enforcement of the commissary plan of providing food for the unemployed. Within the board there is said to be a determination to stand by the commissary proposals of Maj. John H. Leavell, of Oklahoma, whereby from central food stations the needy can be fed a balanced ration at a cost of 6 cents a day.

SOME TO GIVE IT TRIAL

At the same time board members do not feel that the plan should be mandatory at present in counties which oppose it, among which is Allegheny. In counties which accept the commissary it will be given a trial, and an effort will be made to convince reluctant areas that the system is sound. The number of protests being received by board members and members of the Legislature indicate that the commissary will be unobstructed in few counties.

The money grant system is being pushed by those communities opposed to the commissary plan, as well as by those who believe the present system of food orders is adequate.

Huey Couldn't Pass Up Great Chance to Talk

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

We don't know a thing about the Philippines. So we will tell you all about it.

The islanders want something they can't get. The Senate aims to give 'em something they don't want. The presidential veto will fix it so they get neither.

All of which gives Huey Long a chance to become an authority on the subject. Huey is up on his Philippines. We suspect that he must have got a map of the world for Christmas.

The talking and the tumult may die. But Huey will never be a pallbearer.

He's there to keep the welkin ringing. Ask Huey what he thinks of the North and he will tell you the acoustics are fine.

And we would just as soon listen to Huey as anyone. He knows just enough of technocracy to realize that orators will always do the talking and hens will always lay the eggs.

TWO LINKED IN MANCHESTER BANK ROBBERY SEIZED IN N. Y.

INDICTED HERE, BUT NEVER RETURNED

The $52,000 Manchester Bank robbery of two years ago again engaged the attention of Pittsburgh police today with the arrest by New York federal authorities of two of the five men indicted for the robbery.

Samuel Rubin, 36 of Brooklyn, and Bernard Niefield, 37, of Manhattan, according to an Associated Press dispatch, were arrested by United States deputy marshals yesterday after they appeared in court to answer a question concerning the $37,500 bail under which each of them had been at liberty following their arrest for the holdup of the Seward National Bank, of New York, May 15, 1931.

The latest charge against the two men is the theft of $10,000 from the Washington Mechanics Saving Bank, of Washington, June 10, last.

Rubin and Niefield are scheduled to go on trial tomorrow for the Seward holdup, in which they are alleged to have escaped with $31,000. Since their arrest in 1931, police said, the two have been linked with seven bank stickups, including the Manchester job.

They were indicted by an Allegheny County grand jury May 14, 1931, together with Joseph Flynn, James Foley and Robert Naples. In spite of several attempts to have them extradited to Pittsburgh, the five men were released on bail.

City Detective Walter Monoghan at the time complained that the "mouthpiece" of the suspects was giving police the "run around." Only two days ago he said:

HOLD BARBECUE DEATH SUSPECT

Louis Dallo, alias Scratow, wanted here for the murder of a McKeesport barbecue proprietor and a series of holdups almost three years ago, was being held today by Los Angeles police, according to word received by city detectives.

Dallo is said to be wanted for the murder in March, 1930, of Charles Weddles, owner of a barbecue in McKeesport road. Weddles was shot to death by two bandits and his brother-in-law was beaten, according to City Detective Walter Monoghan, who traced the suspect to the Pacific Coast.

Dallo, police said, was identified by state police [illegible] in the county jail at Greensburg, but escaped. The [illegible] he was captured in a Fifth avenue resort by Detectives Monoghan and Thomas Morgan, [illegible] and convicted of the [illegible].

Dr. McFarland Now Is Supervisor in Child Bureau

Dr. William W. McFarland, appointed by Mayor Charles H. Kline yesterday to the directorship of the Department of Public Health, is awaiting the confirmation of City Council before taking up his new duties.

HOUSE UPHOLDS TOLL BRIDGE PLAN HERE

The County Commissioners have the permission of the national House of Representatives to make the proposed high level bridge from Homestead to Pittsburgh a toll span. The House yesterday approved a bill submitted by Congressman Guy Campbell, of Crafton. Senator David A. Reed is to present a similar measure in the Senate.

This is in keeping of the plan of the Commissioners to build the Homestead Bridge and the Highland Park span across the Allegheny River on money borrowed from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. By building toll spans the Commissioners would be able to borrow money under the self-liquidating project agreement.

The Commissioners have long debated the question of building the two spans on borrowed money. Some county officials have suggested that all bridges on which there is still an indebtedness, be made toll spans to pay off the bonds. The amount the Commissioners would like to borrow from the corporation is $4,000,000.

Gov. Pinchot's stand on the blue laws and prohibition was indorsed. The Rev. Dr. R. H. Martin, of Beaver Falls, was re-elected president.

BOARD TO HEAR COMMISSARY PROTESTS

Council received a letter from the Pittsburgh Association of Manufacturers' Representatives calling the commissary "un-American, uneconomic, unjust, unfair, impractical, destructive, degrading to public morals."

The eight-page communication was signed by C. A. Kolb, chairman of the group. He said his association is unalterably opposed to the commissary system as a discredited procedure.

The Kolb letter threatened the system will demoralize and pull the props from under the present channels of distribution, bankrupt thousands of dealers, undermine morale, lessen the needy's self-respect, make public exhibition of the unfortunate, create breadlines, delay restoration of confidence, swell relief lists, destroy initiative and creat a food racket.

It added that:

Pinchot Silent In War On Commissary Aid Plan

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot declined to comment today on legislative attacks on the community market plan of distributing food to unemployed persons. He said he had not read the details of these attacks and did not know on what they were based. This plan recently was adopted by the State Emergency Relief Board as a substitute for food orders in urban areas.

The Governor announced the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had advised the state board checks drawn on Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds for relief are not subject to the two-cent federal stamp tax.

It was indicated the state may defer action on its 1933 relief program until after Congress has acted on its relief program so the state may know how much federal aid it may expect.

League to Petition For Protest Permit

The United Students' and Workers' League, a newly-formed organization, will petition Council tomorrow for a permit to hold a public demonstration in protest of the alleged brutal treatment of Jews in Poland, according to Attorney A. # Stop a COLD the First Day!

Taken Promptly, this Four-Way Remedy Will Usually Stop a Cold the First Day and Save You Much Suffering as Well as the Danger of Serious Complications!

The time to stop a cold is before it gets started. Once a cold fastens itself on you, it becomes twice as hard to remove. And a cold lodged in the system may lead to something worse.

Don't hope to kill a cold with merely local or external applications. A cold is a germ attack, an internal infection and, as such, calls for internal treatment.

Don't hope to kill a cold, either, with anything except a COLD remedy. A cure-all is self deception. Many preparations which people commonly take for a cold actually make the relief of a cold more difficult because these preparations are constipating and also make the system acid.

The Required Effects

The thing to take for a cold or case of grippe is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine because it does the four things necessary, in the way that is necessary.

First of all, it opens the bowels, gently but thoroughly—the first step in knocking a cold. Secondly, it kills the cold germs in the system, expels the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Thirdly, it relieves the headache and that grippy feeling. Fourthly, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

Harmless, but Effective!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine may be safely taken by young and old and whether you stay indoors or go out. There is no penalty attached to its use. For more than forty years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Always ask for it by the full name and look for the letters L B Q stamped on every tablet. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine now comes in two sizes—30c and 60c. Ask for it by full name and resent a substitute as an attempt to exploit you.

NOTE: During Epidemics a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine every morning and night will do much to fortify your system against infection.

AD MEN HEAR STEEL EXPERT ON RECOVERY

Inadequacy of our exchange system which must be overcome in the recovery of business strengthens the "Buy American" movement inasmuch as concentrated buying is the resultant effect, George O. Hays, business manager of the trade publication Steel, Cleveland, said here today.

Hays spoke before the Pittsburgh Advertising Club luncheon in the William Penn Hotel. Asked for an expression of the Buy American drive, he said:

"The growing intensity of reciprocity is a sign of our new tendency. There has come a revival in some sections of the old barter system. Suggestion of the use of scrip has been made. Even this would get along locally in such cities as Pittsburgh and Cleveland. Scrip would make us more self-sustained such as can result from the Buy American movement."

The need of a new exchange system was stressed by Hays before the luncheon group. Speaking on advertising objectives, he said definite sales promotion plans must be defined before the objective can be set. The manufacturer must comprehend his selling job before even the advertising appropriation can be set. It was cited as waste advertising to attempt to sell steel to a music teacher.

Technocracy was likened to the new era economics of 1929, which "blew up like a balloon." The steel industry will go only as other industries do, he said, but predicted that the greatest leap forward in production will be seen once a definite exchange system is found.

Greater improvements in machinery will be seen once the problem of mass distribution has been given as much study as mass production.

STARS ATTEND PICKFORD RITES

GLENDALE, Cal., Jan. 16.—(AP.)—The body of Jack Pickford, who died recently in Paris, rests today in the Pickford family vault here. Private funeral services were held yesterday in a dreary rain.

Mary Pickford and her husband, Douglas Fairbanks; Lottie Pickford, numerous other relatives and several other motion picture notables who were associated with Jack Pickford when his career was full of promise, sat on benches in the small chapel of a cemetery, but there was no large throng of curiosity seekers.

The ritual was read by Father Michael Mullins, of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Beverly Hills. The casket, covered by a gigantic floral blanket, was placed in a crypt beside Pickford's mother, Mrs. Charlotte Smith, who died in 1928.

She testified her husband began drinking immediately after their marriage and refused to prepare meals when she worked and he was idle.

"NOT CONSTIPATED FOR SEVEN WEEKS"

Writes Mrs. Johnson After Using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Sufferers from constipation will be interested in this unsolicited letter:

"Your ALL-BRAN surely relieves constipation. I am so glad over the good it has done me that I feel I must write and tell you of it.

"For lunch I take a banana, a large one. Six tablespoons of ALL-BRAN in a sauce dish, and dip banana at each bite until all is consumed. I haven't been constipated now for seven weeks."—Mrs. Louise Johnson, 1433 Forest Street, Denver, Colorado.

Constipation often causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. This condition is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further promote regular habits. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the wastes.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

POLICE QUELL CHURCH ROW

A demonstration in the Holy Ghost Greek Catholic Church, Superior avenue, North Side, by dissenting members of the congregation, was quelled last night by a squad of patrolmen after a riot call had been sent to North Side police.

The trouble began when the Rev. Stephen A. Patrick, the pastor, adjourned the annual meeting for the election of officers because of the lack of a quorum, police said. The pastor told police, they said, the church by-laws provide that 50 paid-up members of the church constitute a quorum.

When the pastor announced postponement of the election because of the lack of a quorum, a disturbance was created by dissenting members of the congregation and non-members, according to police. The Rev. Patrick telephoned police when they refused to leave the church.

Among those in the dissenting faction in his church are sympathizers of the Rev. Mulchaney, pastor of St. John's Greek Catholic Church, Homestead, who refused to leave his parish for another at the order of Bishop Takach, of Homestead, according to the Rev. Patrick.

YOUNG PITCHER MAY YET MAKE GRADE

THE ACTION OF the Pittsburgh club in purchasing another left-hand pitcher from the minors in the person of Ralph Birkhofer, who, in addition to his high-class work for Tulsa last year, hurled three double-A games for Kansas City, in which he allowed only five runs and 14 hits, is not to be taken as indicating that the Pirate management has given up hope that Charley Wood will be able to make a comeback. There is a strong chance that the little southpaw will yet sparkle in fast company.

Charley Wood

Wood was out of stride for a time last year after undergoing an operation for appendicitis, but it is believed the trouble was mental rather than physical, that the youngster feared to exert himself. The farther away he got from the operation, however, the better he pitched, and that he had just about rid himself of his fears at the close of the season is shown by the fact that in his final three games he yielded only two, three and four hits. Wood is far from being an exploded prospect, and he may find himself during the spring trip. About all that he needs, with a return of self-confidence, is to develop control of his fine curve ball.

IT IS A strange fact that though New York is one of the recognized football centers only five "big name" coaches have been signed there since the war. Jimmy Crowley, going to Fordham, is the fifth. The others were Maj. Frank Cavanaugh at Fordham, Percy Haughton and Lou Little at Columbia and Chick Meehan at New York U.

Football men agree that while changing Fordham's style of play to the Notre Dame system will present difficulties that may not be surmounted the first year, Crowley can hardly fail to get results eventually with the Rams' fine material. Sleepy Jim showed at Michigan State that he has the stuff. In four years there his teams won 22 games, tied three and lost eight, and in the last two seasons they were defeated only twice.

---

FORDHAM IS BREAKING into the baseball news, too, with the Brooklyn club signing a graduate of that school in the person of Outfielder Charley Sheerin. He joined the Hartford club in the Eastern League last spring, but a broken leg kept him out all season.

Sheerin is said to be the fastest baseball player produced at Fordham since Frankie Frisch attended that institution. Nap Rucker rates the new Dodger as one of the best prospects he ever saw.

---

THE FACT THAT the club finishing in sixth place in the regular race may win the pennant in two short series at the close isn't the only weak spot seen by baseball men in the International League's play-off system. Even if the play-offs are confined to first-division clubs, a team finishing second is just as well off as a team landing in first place. And a club finishing third or fourth will be as well off as the pace setters. Two or three clubs possibly will be assured of positions by August 15, and that would take away the importance of the games in late August and through September and lead to a certain amount of stalling. The clubs would have nothing to gain by hustling and could move along easily, intent only on having their players in good shape for the play-offs. It would reduce interest and hurt attendance.

Sam Breadon

ROGERS HORNSBY still is one of baseball's sharpest business men. He may not be a very hot one after he has the money, but he's a bear at getting it. Now it develops that he even has Sam Breadon, the Cardinal boss, paying him for his winter training work.

Those who wondered at the enthusiasm with which Hornsby buckled down to gymnasium routine as early as December 1 to get in shape for his 1933 comeback may find the explanation in the fact that he is receiving $100 a week from the St. Louis club. He may have other duties, but they are very light, and his principal task is to get in condition.

THE PAY WILL keep up until the season opens and Hornsby's regular baseball salary starts, so that the Rajah will pocket about two grand before he plays a game. Breadon explains that he was eager to keep Hornsby from going to the American League.

If the same club had shown the same caution in the case of the late Miller Huggins, and if the Chicago Cub bosses and others in the National had exercised similar care in the case of Joe McCarthy, the senior loop would have helped itself by retaining two men for whom there was a far greater demand than there ever was for Hornsby, and who did much to add to the prestige of the rival circuit.

---

THE NEW OFFICIATING system in the National Hockey League, whereby the referee calls all penalties and the judge of play calls all offsides and supervises face-offs, is voted a failure by the officials. They say it promotes rule infractions, minimizes the possibility of penalties and frequently helps offside plays to escape the whistle. "If a player hits an opponent over the head with his stick right in front of me, I can't penalize him," complains a judge of play. "I can't even tell the referee. If he asks me, that's different, but probably he won't unless somebody is incapacitated.

"DURING THE TIME that I have been a judge of play I have seen plenty of holding, the butt ends of sticks used often, and one attempted skull-cracking. But I couldn't call the referee's attention to any of those offenses. My business is calling offsides.

"And I can't even get all of them. For instance, I face off the puck near the net. Two quick passes, and the disk is two blue lines away. How can I skate fast enough to keep up with the puck under the circumstances and judge on an offside? It just can't be done."

THOUGH ADMITTING THE greatness of Michigan's gridiron machines of 1901, 1902, 1909, 1913, 1923, 1925 and 1930, George Trevor and other football men insist that the team of 1932 must be given a place in the group. And some of them contend that the team of 1925 was the best of the lot, despite a defeat at Northwestern's hands in a game played in a gale on a sleety field.

Tiny Thornhill

Fielding Yost himself leans to that combination piloted by the brainy Benny Friedman. The latter had such backfield support as Molenda, Gilbert and Gregory, and there have been few lines to compare with the one made up of Oosterbaan, Flora, Hawkins, Edwards, Brown, Baer and Lovette.

---

IN TAKING CHARGE at Stanford, Tiny Thornhill, one of Pitt's all-time tackles, recalls that his closest approach to being a head coach in college football was when he assembled the Centre College team and coached it for the first four games in two seasons, until Charley Moran could get away from his other duties as a baseball umpire in the National League. Thornhill then coached and played on a Cleveland professional team for one season and could have stayed there, but preferred going back to the college game. "I'm trying to fill a big and nifty pair of shoes in following Pop Warner," says Tiny, "but nearly all the freshman and varsity players have come to me individually and expressed their confidence in me, and I feel that I could tackle anything after that."

FOUR UNBEATEN TEAMS IN CITY LEAGUE GAMES

By JULIUS LEVIN

First place in both sections of the City League will be at stake today when the four undefeated contenders for the local scholastic basketball championship swing into action against capable opponents.

Today's contests are more or less a prelude to the feature contests listed for Friday afternoon when the leaders in both sections oppose each other on the floor.

Schenley High and South High, deadlocked for first place in Section I, both will see action this afternoon, Schenley entertaining a powerful Allderdice quintet at Schenley, while South is host to Peabody at the South Side Market House.

CLASH FRIDAY

If Schenley and South emerge with victories they will remain deadlocked for their important tussle at Schenley Friday afternoon, each showing three league triumphs in as many starts.

Over in Section II a similar situation exists with Perry and Allegheny running neck-and-neck for the sectional crown. Perry at present holds a slight advantage over the Springer-coached team, having won all three of its league encounters, while Allegheny has triumphed in both of its sectional frays.

Today Perry goes after its fourth triumph at the expense of South Hills at South Hills, while Allegheny seeks victory No. 3 in its battle with Oliver at Allegheny.

Connelley plays at Fifth Avenue in the other Section I duel, while Allegheny Vocational at Carrick is the third battle carded in Section II.

If Perry and Allegheny manage to keep their records untarnished this afternoon, these two quintets will come together Friday at Perry with unbroken strings of victories.

PERRY SEEKS TITLE

Judging from the records compiled by the Section II quintets to date, the championship rests between Allegheny, the defending titleholder, and Perry, which is making its first bid for the crown. If Perry succeeds in winning the toga it will have captured the two major City League crowns, the North Siders having won the football laurels in a post-season game with Westinghouse last fall.

Rankin and Braddock, tied for the lead in Section VIII, each showing two victories, both will see league action tonight. Rankin, which stopped the winning streak of Scott High last Friday, invades Turtle Creek Union High, while Ed Paulie brings his Swissvale quintet to Braddock for a battle with Ham Hudson's 1932 W. P. I. A. L. champions.

LEADERS TO CLASH

New Castle and Beaver Falls, deadlocked for first place in Section III, clash at New Castle tonight. New Castle has beaten Rochester and New Brighton, while Beaver Falls owns triumphs over Ellwood City and Rochester.

BABE REFUSES NEW CONTRACT

By LES CONKLIN,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—With a hey nonnie-nonnie and a hot cha-cha, the almost-annual salary battle between the New York Yankees and Babe Ruth was on in earnest today.

The first salvo was fired by the home-run maestro when he received the club's 1933 offer, believed to call for a healthy salary slash of $15,000 or $20,000.

Quicker than you could say "Helen Maria," the Big Bam thrust the contract, unsigned, into an envelope and hurled it down a mail chute. Before going to a movie to cool off in a balcony seat, he fired his first ultimatum as follows:

"I'd rather let the club announce the figures, but I'll say their offer wasn't enough by a long shot. And what's more, they'll have to send for me if they want to talk turkey. I'm not going to run down to the office to beg for more dough."

The Babe's ultimatum failed to disturb the serene composure of Ed Barrow, the club's business manager. He said:

"Ruth has returned almost every contract we've sent him, so there's nothing to worry about. We may make a statement later today."

Col. Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yanks, wasn't so sure everything would be hotsy-totsy. Jake said:

"Babe is a business man, and I hope he will listen to reason."

Although Ruppert and Barrow declined to reveal what the Bam was offered, it is generally believed he was asked to accept a working wage of $60,000, or possibly $55,000. Last season he received—and earned—$75,000. His high water mark was in 1930 and 1931, when he got $80,000 per annum.

CHARITY GAMES TONIGHT

Three charity basketball games will be played on the St. Philomena's Church floor in Squirrel Hill tonight. St. Ann's of Homestead meets the St. Philomena team, Sharpsburg Y Panthers play the reserves and the juniors engage the Taylor Allerdice juniors.

HIGHLAND SET TO EXPAND

By TOM BIRKS

Taking time by the forelock and apparently laughing at Old Man Depression himself, the executive committee of the Highland Country Club, headed by President H. F. Hetzel, called a special meeting of the entire membership of the club and last night laid plans for the induction of 150 new members into the club.

Evidently the thriving club on the Wellington Heights, West View, does not intend to wail along with hundreds of golf clubs in the United States which apparently are having a tough time weathering the storm.

It was an enthusiastic gathering that attended the meeting. President Hetzel, Vice President G. W. Forney, Secretary L. H. Dick and Samuel M. Parks, chairman of the golf committee, all spoke in inspiring terms of the progress made by the club.

It was voted to cut the membership fee to meet present-day standards.

One hundred and fifty names of new members was submitted. Golf Chairman Parks lauded the play of the members in competitive golf over the 1932 season. Vincent Eldred, Highland's popular professional, now at Bradenton, Fla., won the Pennsylvania open championship, Maurice Le Bosquet, had a great season climaxing his play in the Lesley Cup matches, and in the team matches, Highland colors were to the front.

Many of the members who remembered Gene Sarazen when he was pro at Highland, commented upon the story coming out of the West, regarding Sarazen's idea of enlarging the cups, but failed to become enthused over the idea.

CHAMPS UNDEFEATED

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 17.—Defending champions in three W. P. I. A. L. sections in Washington County are still among the undefeated. East Pike Run is the only school with a clean slate in Section XVI, Canonsburg has an undiminished record in Section XV, and Burgettstown shares a three-way tie in Section XIV with Cecil and McDonald, all undefeated to date.

HAINES TAKES CUT

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 17. — (AP.) — Jess Haines, pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, has signed a contract for 1933 and voluntarily accepted a substantial cut in salary.

Craig Wood Leads In Winter Golf Earnings

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Craig Wood, the surprising shotmaker from Deal, N. J., failed to annex his fourth consecutive championship in the rich Agua Caliente Open last week, but he picked up enough cash to go bouncing ahead of Denny Shute, Hudson, O., star, in the winter gold rush of professional golf.

Wood's "loot" at Agua Caliente totaled $750 to give him the lead with a combined purse of $3,906.75 in the campaign which started with the St. Louis Open last October. Shute, who captured the Miami-Biltmore and placed second in the National City and Miami Opens, has won a total of $3,400 for an exceptional average of $1,133.33 for each of the three tournaments he entered during the campaign. Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y., first prize winner in the Agua Caliente Open, ranks third with a total of $2,284.50.

THIL BEATEN BY TUNERO

PARIS, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Marcel Thil, of France, recognized by the National Boxing Association of the United States as the world middleweight champion, last night dropped a 12-round decision to Kid Tunero, of Cuba. Thil weighed 161 pounds and Tunero 159.

Tunero's clever footwork kept him out of reach of Thil's attack in the early part of the fight. In the closing rounds, the Cuban scored freely to clinch the decision.

DONORA STAR THROUGH

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 17.—Coach Jerry Wunderlich will lose the services of Charles Glennon to the Donora High basketball team after mid-year examinations. Glennon, leading scorer of Section V to date, will play his last game for Donora against California High Tuesday night. He will not be available for the all-important clash with Monessen Friday night when the sectional lead will be at stake.

CHAMP LOSES IN CUE PLAY

CHICAGO, Jan. 17. — (AP.) — With the world three-cushion billiards championship tournament only in its second day, the defending titleholder, Augie Kieckhefer, of Chicago, already was making comeback plans today.

The Chicago southpaw started off at a great clip in the opening match last night, but broke down and lost a 50-to-48 decision to Clarence Jackson, Canadian veteran who calls Detroit home, in 58 innings.

Kieckhefer, who had a high run of four, led Jackson by 25 to 9, at the twenty-fifth inning, but from there on in, the Detroit representative staged a brilliant uphill battle to gain the lead and win. He had high runs of seven and six.

Two matches were scheduled for this afternoon with one more tonight. In the opening afternoon contest, two veterans, Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, and Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, were matched, to be followed by an engagement between two younger players, Arthur Thurnbald, of Chicago, and J. N. Bozeman, Jr., of Vallejo, Cal.

Caras, Rudolph Split Cue Match

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Jimmy Caras, Wilmington (Del.) youngster, and Erwin Rudolph, of Cleveland, split the first two blocks of a 1,750-point pocket billiard match yesterday.

Caras won the afternoon block, 125 to 85, in 10 innings, but Rudolph came back to take the evening session, 165 to 122, in 12 innings. Caras had a high run of 85 in the afternoon and 32 at night. Rudolph's best clusters were 31 and 56.

REDS BAN RADIO

CINCINNATI, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Officials of the Cincinnati baseball team have announced there would be no broadcasting of Saturday and Sunday National League games played here in the coming baseball season. Broadcasting of the opening game here also will be banned.

TITANS MEET JACKETS IN CONFERENCE GAMES TONIGHT

Waynesburg vs. Westminster at New Wilmington.
Wash-Jeff vs. Bethany at Bethany.
Indiana vs. Slippery Rock at Slippery Rock.

By JESS CARVER

It has been a long time since Carnegie Tech defeated Pitt in basketball (last time, 1927, Tech, 25; Pitt, 24), but the supporters of the Plaid are looking forward with more than usual hope to tomorrow night's tussle in the Tartan gym. The boys think the Tartans have a swell chance and maybe they know whereof they figger.

Last year was supposed to be Carnegie's year. The Panthers were not so hot, and Carnegie appeared to have a powerful team. The Tartans were good, too, but cagy Doc Carlson, who has a habit of bringing a team "up" for games supposed to be lost, turned the trick twice and added to the woes of the Skibos.

The wise ones of the sport will tell you that Carnegie's chief weakness last year was its defense. The Plaid could score a bag full of points, but so could the opposition. Pitt won the first game, 33 to 22, and took the second, 33 to 26.

DEFENSE STRONGER

This year the new coach, Maxie Hannum, appears to have strengthened the defensive play of the Plaid and has not apparently weakened its attack. Tech isn't as formidable as it will be later on when the team gains in speed, but right now, it appears to be equally as strong as the Panthers, especially the Panthers minus Claire Cribbs, star sophomore center. Cribbs, who twisted an ankle against Temple and was out of the game with the Dukes last week, will not be in shape for duty tomorrow.

Coach Carlson will keep Russ Ochsenhirt at center while Cribbs is out, start Skippy Hughes at forward and Charley Hughes at Ochsenhirt's guard. This means that Slim Wainio (what is this chap's given name, anyway?), the best shot on the team, will be on the bench for the start of the contest at least.

With Red Silverman also hors de combat as far as tomorrow night is concerned, it looks like Rigg will be back in at guard for the Plaid, paired off with Red Fergus. Smith and Jagnow, of course, are fixtures at the forwards and Ed Stentz at center.

JACKETS MEET TITANS

There is a worthwhile, a very much worthwhile ball game booked in the good old Tristate Conference tonight at New Wilmington, where Waynesburg's astonishing Yellow Jackets open a three-game road trip by taking on Westminster. The Jackets may not win the Conference title this year, but they are bound to be a tough team to beat. They always have been, in years when they were weaker in point of material than they are this.

Wash-Jeff plays Bethany in a return game at Bethany tonight. The Bisons walloped the Presidents on the latters' floor last week. Slippery Rock is at home to Indiana Teachers at Slippery Rock.

Boxers Prepping

The Eastern Intercollegiate Conference boxing campaign pops this week, with two matches on the books, the Dukes facing Wash-Jeff here Friday night and Pitt tackling Temple in Philadelphia Saturday.

Coach Joe Miller, the former Penn State football star, who is serving as ring coach on the Bluff, is building his team around Freddie Moore, the Conference 145-pound champion; Johnny Chapella, of Ambridge, a promising 147-pounder and Speedy Vitulla, a good enough 115-pound star. Led by Capt. Al Demedowitz, the Conference 175-pound star, the Presidents will toss a slightly more experienced team against the Dukes, but you'd be surprised, nay, even shocked, at what a good, well-placed right cross will do to all the experience in the world.

The match, by the way, will be the Dukes first and only appearance of the season in their own gym. All other matches are booked for other rings.

Joe Orsini, Pitt's ring mentor, is planning a series of elimination matches this week to assist him in selecting the team that will meet Temple. The Pitt team will be built around Francis (Cowboy) Seigal, the Little Tough Guy, of the football team, and Jack Shriker, Conference 160-pound champion.

135-pound class—George Gambateese defeated Roman Laplea; Bill Evans defeated Howard Finkel; Noel Emanuel defeated Fuller Hogsett; George Gambateese defeated Noel Emanuel.
125-pound class—Fabian Mihelic defeated Henry Torchia.
165-pound class—James Loughran defeated Edward Horowicz.

CHICAGO BOUT REFEREE IS PROBLEM

SYNOPSIS

Jimmy Maloney having been knocked out by Jack Sharkey, and the latter meeting a like fate via Dempsey's fists in heavyweight eliminations during the summer of 1927, Jack and Gene are again signed to fight, this time at Chicago. Ugly rumors assail Tunney's Philadelphia victory; and even more sinister stories spread about the return match as Gene starts training for the big show in Al Capone's bailiwick.

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

Word reached me at Speculator that some gamblers and crooked politicians were attempting to get an edge in the fight for Dempsey. I knew that the underworld, its politicians and the boxing elements in Chicago fraternized. There was apparently little distinction between a gangster and a manager; both had rackets, it was thought.

Gene Tunney

When Billy Gibson came to me and asked if I did not think it time for him to go out and select a training camp site, I told him I did, but that he must be very careful with whom he associated in Chicago. I advised him that in no circumstances should he have anything to do with known racketeers. I asked him to try to see a certain well-known Chicago newspaper man whom I knew could be depended upon.

GETS TRAINING QUARTERS

When Billy arrived in Chicago he saw this journalist and through mutual friends met Mayor Anton J. Cermak, then chairman of the Board of Cook County Commissioners. Mr. Cermak told Billy he knew of a newly organized country club up at Lake Villa that would make a wonderful training camp for me. Billy drove up with Mr. Cermak, and, after looking the place over, decided it would make a splendid headquarters and training camp. After the lease was signed, Billy came East with pictures of the club house and grounds, and lots of information about the chiseling going on in Chicago.

I knew that to protect myself against this situation was as important as protecting myself in the ring. Before every important heavyweight title fight, there are as many sure-thing gamblers snooping around looking for an edge as you will find on all the racetracks together. These sure-thing fellows go the limit to get an advantage. Sometimes they have the effrontery to go to the principals with a proposition. Personally, I never have received a proposition before a fight from anyone. Dempsey, in a recent article, said he was approached in Chicago by a person who assured him that for the payment of $125,000 he would be declared winner. Natrally, Dempsey turned it down. I am positive Jack was not interested in winning unless he could do it fairly.

KEEPS OUT RACKETEERS

These fellows who came to Dempsey undoubtedly were a few of those sure-thing boys. They probably would have taken Dempsey's $125,000 and with it attempted to buy the referee and judges. If they were successful all the money they could borrow or steal would be on Dempsey. What a killing! If they were not successful, they stood to lose nothing.

It was not long after my arrival in Illinois that I knew how the racketeers stood. According to Sergt. Smith, of the Chicago Police Department, who was appointed my bodyguard, not one visited my camp during the whole period of my training.

Chicago was rife with rumors, some that Dempsey was going to lie down, and others that I had sold out. Capt. Grady, who had met me at the station in Chicago and drove our party out to the training camp, had heard these rumors before I arrived. When we got to the camp he called me into a private room and said:

"Gene, there is a rumor around Chicago that you are going to take a dive for Dempsey. I have bet my money on you and want to know if this is true."

LAWYERS PLAY PART

I replied:

"It is purely rumor. Though I think I am going to lick Dempsey, I am not positive that I will. But, no matter what happens, I will be in there trying to win until the finish. I never advise anyone to bet on me, however."

He said:

Leo Flynn, manager for Dempsey, upon arriving in Chicago naively engaged as his lawyer the brother of John Righeimer, chairman of the Illinois Boxing Commission. There were many legal and incidental matters to be argued before the fight took place, so Leo foresightedly provided himself with an able lawyer. Lawyer Righeimer remained Flynn's attorney until after the fight.

One day, after a workout, Bronson, Gibson and I sat down to discuss who might prove a competent and square referee; one who would remain fair in the face of any threats from sure-thing gamblers or racketeers. Bronson said he thought Dave Miller would make an honest referee, as Miller was a brother Shriner, and Jimmy felt Miller would not double-cross a lodge brother.

WARNED AGAINST BARRY

Gibson said he was not so confident of Miller; whereupon Bronson turned to me and said:

"Gene, there is no use in your worrying about this thing. I think any Chicago referee will be on the square. There is too much at stake for any crookedness in front of all those people. It would be professional suicide. There is but one Chicago referee that I hope is not appointed to referee this fight, and I would hold out against him if I were you."

I asked:

"Who is he?"

"Dave Barry. Dave is honest, but I know he doesn't like me. I would feel more comfortable if he were not the third man."

I had never seen or met Dave Barry, but decided it might be wise to follow Jimmy Bronson's advice in objecting to him as a referee.

Things got so hot and beyond our control about a week before the fight that I sent word to a close friend, and my personal attorney, George Whiteside, to exert every effort to come to Chicago a few days before the fight. When they arrived I informed them what was going on. My friend went to see the publishers of several Chicago newspapers. He told these men how I felt and of the frame of mind I was in because of the ugly rumors. They were anxious to avoid a new scandal in Chicago and the accompanying bad publicity.

FAIR PLAY ASKED

Whiteside also paid a visit to Tex Rickard's headquarters in the Blackstone Hotel. Getting Rickard alone in a room, George said:

"Tex, there is a strong report that a plot has been perpetrated to steal the title from Tunney. You have as much at stake in seeing that this fight is being contested honestly as Tunney. In protecting Tunney from any plot to steal his title, you are protecting your own interests. Unless I am able to track down this plot I am going to advise Tunney not to enter the ring. We will stand on the terms of the contract."

Tex replied:

"I am doing all that I can. The commission has taken the thing out of my hands and will appoint its own officials."

Cermak, who was living in a summer home close to our camp, hearing that the gangsters and sure-thing gamblers had fixed the contest, left a sickbed to come to our camp and discussed the situation. He then drove into Chicago to speak with Edward Kelly, who was chairman of the South Park Board of Commissioners.

It was through Commissioner Kelly that Tex Rickard received permission to use Soldier Field. It was under the jurisdiction of the board, of which he was chairman, and still is. Without his consent the match never would have been held there. His board had power to rescind its permission. Cermak thought that, rather than have a scandal, it would be better for Chicago not to have the fight. Kelly had heard many rumors, but was unable to trace any of them. He had, however, ascertained that Al Capone had bet in the neighborhood of $50,000 that Dempsey would win. He also heard that one of Capone's lieutenants had said that Dave Miller was going to be appointed referee. It was discovered that Miller's brother had bet $50,000 on Dempsey.

The next chapter will describe further moves to assure an honest contest at Chicago. Dempsey's fight manager (the late Leo Flynn) and Jimmy Bronson insist on that knockdown-neutral corner rule. Fight powers declare "no hoodlum will referee."

BODY ATTACK DEFEATS BOJARSKI

FRANKIE BOJARSKI — HARRY DUBLINSKY

Bojarski, rugged southpaw lightweight of Erie, lost by a technical knockout to Harry Dublinsky, of Chicago, in the eighth round of their scheduled 10-round bout at Motor Square Garden last night. A drumfire body attack weakened Bojarski after the first few rounds and the referee called a halt after Dublinsky shifted his attack to the head and opened cuts on both eyes. Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture above shows the victor punching away to the body in typical fashion midway in the battle. Dublinsky registered a big hit with the local fans.

UNION SWIMMERS WIN

The Turtle Creek Union High School swimmers defeated Westinghouse High in a dual meet at Westinghouse yesterday, 34-21.

YANKEES FARM SALTZGAVER

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Otto (Jack) Saltzgaver, second baseman who finished the 1932 season with the Newark Internationals after a sensational start as a Yankee freshman, will have to wait at least another season before he gets his next chance with the world champions.

The Yankees yesterday announced Saltzgaver's return to Newark for another season on option.

RED SOX SIGN FOUR

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—President Bob Quinn, of the Boston Red Sox, today was prepared to start making out his 1933 contracts. Before tackling that job he did a bit of house-cleaning, releasing two young batterymen, Pitcher Larry Boerner and Henry Patterson, a catcher, and signing four pitching rookies.

Boerner was released outright to the Nashville Club of the Southern Association, and Patterson was sent to Hollywood in the Pacific Coast League, his home town.

The pitching youngsters added to the Red Sox roster for the spring training trip were Mark MacComisky, of Lawrence, Mass., who had a few weeks service with Erie in the Central League last season; Arthur Mahoney at Taunton, Mass., recently Holy Cross graduate; Mike Neola, a 24-year-old product of the New York City playgrounds, and Harley McNeal, of Akewood, O., late of the University of Michigan.

Transfers Expected In Hockey League

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The Kansas City Star says that a change in the present set-up of the American Hockey Association, involving the Duluth and St. Paul clubs, is expected to be announced officially within a few days.

The newspaper said the franchise of Duluth would be transferred to Wichita, Kan., and that of St. Paul would be moved to Tulsa, Okla., a former member of the circuit.

William Grant, president of the association, refused to comment.

Immediately after the transfers are made, the Star said, the season will be split, and the 1933 championship will be up between the winners of the first and last halves.

Rain May Spoil Long Beach Play

LONG BEACH, Cal., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The players were ready, but weather conditions made uncertain the start today of the Long Beach $500 amateur-pro golf tournament, the last of the California winter championships.

Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y., winner of the Agua Caliente tournament, was among the entrants. Leo Diegel, of Agua Caliente, was scheduled to play with Erwin Goddard; Horton Smith, of Oak Park, Ill., with George Shaw, and Olin Dutra, of Santa Monica, Cal., with Church Ward.

SPITZ CANCELS ENTRY

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The injured ankle which kept George Spitz from winning a place in the high jump at the Olympic Games in Los Angeles, after he had set a new indoor world record of 6 feet 8½ inches, today caused his withdrawal from the Jefferson Club indoor track and field games Saturday.

SCORES QUICK KAYO

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—Abe Feldman, local heavyweight, knocked out Charley (Red) Boyette in 42 seconds here last night, one of the quickest knockouts in local history.

When two Poles meet, the Dublinsky of the species is more deadly than the Bojarski. At least such was the case last night, when Motor Square Garden put on its most pleasing show of the season to date, topped off by an eight-round technical knockout victory for Harry Dublinsky, of Chicago, over Frankie Bojarski, of Erie.

Referee Red Robinson halted the battle as Dublinsky ripped open a bad cut on his opponent's right eye, which joined the left in bleeding badly. He was butchering the rugged Bojarski in a savage manner, with a driving two-fisted attack to the body and smashing rights flush on the jaw, and Bojarski, for several rounds, had been wilting under the bombardment, holding desperately in the clinches. His left eye had been cut in the fourth round.

BATTLE BECOMES ROUT

Dublinsky, a tall, rangy, pleasant-looking 22-year-old veteran, with a boyish appearance, registered a hit with the crowd after getting off to a slow start, due to difficulty in solving Bojarski's southpaw stance. Frankie kept crowding and pawing with his right and hooking his left. Dublinsky finally got into the running in the third round, in which he held his own by beginning his body attack. From then on it was a rout and just a question on how badly he would beat his man.

The fight was stopped after 1 minutes 7 seconds of the eighth round, and Dublinsky's showing was such that he ought to pack 'em in the next time he appears here against a good opponent.

ALABAMA KID WINS

Alabama Kid, Dover (O.) Negro, who recently knocked out Jimmy Belmont and Davy Grove, floored Red Bush, of Cumberland, for counts of eight, nine and seven in the fifth round, for no count in the eighth and for one in the ninth, but couldn't add him to his list of kayo victims in the first 10-round bout. Bush put up a rattling good fight, carried the first two rounds and held his own in a head-to-head slugging rally in the final session, during which he suffered a badly cut eye.

Johnny Riske, of the South Hills, did too much posing with his right hand cocked and not enough leading, and saw Red Bruce, Hill Negro middleweight, outbox him for the decision in the second six-rounder. It was Bruce's fight all of the way, an upset of the dope. However, one of the judges, Frank Ferris, voted for Riske, and it took the referee's decision to make the award.

HAROSZ-WOLFE NEXT

Jerry Clements, Jeannette lightweight, won handily over Steve Senich, of Homestead, in the six-round opener. He had Steve on the verge of a knockout from a right to the jaw that shook him to his heels in the fourth round.

The crowd was fair in size. It was announced that Ted Yarosz and Eddie (Kid) Wolfe will meet a third time in the main bout next Monday night. Wolfe held the undefeated Monaco welter to a draw in their second bout, in Madison Square Garden, New York, a few months ago, and Yarosz won the decision in their first meeting, in Detroit, shortly before.

Between Rounds

Jim McGirr, the new promoter at the Moose Temple, where he will offer Billy Hoit and Manuel Quintero as his headliners in a return bout Wednesday night of next week, announces he has decided on a further revision of ticket prices to give the customers a break. Instead of selling the pasteboards at 75 cents and $1.50, tax inclusive, the following scale will prevail: Balcony, 60 cents, state and federal taxes inclusive, and main floor and stage, $1.15 and $1.75, taxes inclusive. The idea of having the intermediate price is to give the customers who come late and find the balcony crowded a chance to get tickets at a moderate price.

The Johnny Jadick-Kid Chocolate featherweight championship bout in Havana, Cuba, has blown up in smoke. It seems it never was anything but a press agent's pipe dream in the first place.

A dinner for boxing writers will be tossed by Jack Kennard, athletic director of the Keystone A. C., at the club this evening, when plans will be made for the staging of the A. M. A. junior championships to be held in the club's gymnasium, February 2, 3, 4 and 6.

Being unable to land a better opponent than Ray Lyle, of Akron, O., for Billy Holt, the Arena has decided to relegate this match to the semi-final position on its card Friday night, and Mose Butch, of Oakland, and Ross Fields, of Weirton, W. Va., bantam, will battle on top. Walter Ketchel and Billy Clair are in the second bout and Gus Pace and Joe Salino in the opener.

Battling Gizzy is recovering from his attack of influenza and has been matched by his manager, Able Witz, to box Jimmy Columbo at Clarksburg, W. Va., February 1, and Roger Bernard at Flint, Mich., February 6.

AMHERST, Mass., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Paul W. Critchlow, of Sewickley, Pa., who did not play prep school basketball, has been elected a co-captain of the Amherst College freshman basketball team for the season which opens tomorrow against Williston Academy. He came to Amherst from Mercersburg Academy.

NEW SOUTHPAW ADDED TO BUC ROSTER

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The lad is a total stranger to Western Pennsylvanians but when he is seen in battle togs he is likely to make a marked impression for his weight is announced at 213 pounds. His name is Ralph J. Birkhofer and he proved a willing worker in the Tulsa vineyard before he gazed upon a big league contract.

Hinchman's protege apparently will make the fans think of Big Jim Vaughan, of the Cubs, or perhaps he is a reminder of Jumbo Jim Elliott who displaces about the same amount of water in the bath tub.

WINS 17 GAMES

Birkhofer has been pitching professional baseball since 1929. He made his start with the Burlington club, of the Mississippi Valley League. Des Moines, of the Western League, also saw him in action that year. The Western League city featured the Herculean lefthander through 1930 and 1931, but he was obtained by Tulsa last season and his work there until purchased by Kansas City, was of a very high order.

Birkhofer won 15 and lost 10 games for Tulsa and his pitching and batting in the pennant playoff were high spots in the resultant victory of the Tulsa team.

Near the close of the regular season in the Western League, Kansas City secured an option on the big lefthander. Ralph proceeded to the class AA town and there he won two out of three games. But the option was canceled and Bikhofer automatically reverted to Tulsa.

PITCHER WITH PUNCH

The Pittsburgh owners had to put out a snug sum to land their latest recruit. Although Tulsa is owned by the Pittsburgh club, there were other considerations which could not be negotiated successfully with cash only.

Like Charley Wood, the other Tulsa lefthander who has been brought into the Pirate fold, Birkhofer is a fine batter; he compiled a mark of .316 last season and was sometimes used as an emergency man at the plate.

OK'D BY HINCHMAN

Manager Gibson now has three clever lefthanders in Larry French, Wood and Birkhofer. French is certain to be a member of the slab staff and there would be nothing to hold back the other two portsiders were they to show the required skill.

Scout Hinchman followed Birkhofer for some time and became convinced he had a big future. Hinchman caused another giant to land with the Buccos when he recommended the purchase of Hal Smith, late of the Kansas City club.

Risher Funeral Services Tomorrow

Funeral services for Howard Risher, former well-known local baseball player and manager, credited with having discovered the famous Rube Waddell, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Gillen & Coulter chapel, Homestead. The former star died yesterday at the home of his sister, Mrs. George Weckesser, in Ben Avon, at the age of 70.

Risher was the manager of the Homestead Library and Athletic Club between 1900 and 1905. During that time, he discovered Waddell working on a farm near Butler. He tried to place him in the major leagues, but no one appeared willing to take a chance on him. Later he joined the old Franklin team and then pitcher for Homestead, developing into a great star.

Kerr Sees Greater Use of Passes

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Andy Kerr, coach of the undefeated and unscored on Colgate University eleven of 1932, predicts greater development of the aerial game as a weapon in football during the coming season.

Kerr passed through Tucson en route home after a visit in Southern California. He said:

"The 1933 season will see development of the lateral and forward passes into a more potent offensive threat than ever before. Heretofore defense has been stressed more than offense, but the situation should be the reverse next season."

Jack Still Barred, Association Warns

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The National Boxing Association has called attention to its membership that Jack Dempsey still is under suspension in N. B. A. territory because of his disagreement with the Mississippi commission.

Dempsey was suspended on March 13, 1931, on the charge by the Mississippi commission that he acted as a co-promoter of a boxing card at Columbus, Miss., and failed to pay accumulated bills. Dempsey denies that he acted as a promoter, insisting he attended as a referee only.

BIRKIE, COBB DRAW

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Hans Birkie, German heavyweight, and Walter Cobb, of Baltimore, fought 10 rounds to a draw at the St. Nicholas Arena last night. Birkie floored Cobb for no count in the eighth round and seemed to have earned a decision in the opinion of many ringsiders. He weighed 200 pounds, Cobb 223.

TARZAN STOPPED

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

By GIB MARSH

The salesmen of sportsmen's equipment have made their rounds, and, with a few exceptions, there is nothing included in their new line of wares which differs much from the guns, fishing tackle and other articles for outdoors use offered last year. However, it is pleasing to note that the price lists of these wares have been reduced. The models of shotguns have not been changed. Some changes have been made with the anglers' equipment.

One of the oldest and largest manufacturing firms of shotguns and rifles has on the market this year a splendid double-barrel shotgun, which was designed for skeet shooting, but also is an ideal field gun. It is one of the best devised guns now being produced by American gun-makers. It has a barrel length of 26 inches, bored for brush shooting, and the stock dimensions and pitch of the barrels are as nearly perfect as a combination gun can be made for ground shooting, rabbits, and for rising targets, such as grouse, quail and ringneck pheasants.

This writer never has been convinced that a gun constructed for wing-shooting can be used with the same percentage of efficiency on ground targets, such as rabbits rting through the tall grass or bounding ahead with speed. However, the gunner who will measure his time when shooting this new skeet and field gun can use it for both purposes.

Some new casting rods are offered this year, both steel and bamboo, for bait casting, and the market list also includes some splendid fly rods at attractive values.

A well-known manufacturing bait-casting rods has a steel rod with a permanent reel attached. The reel includes a pillar of about 1⅞ inches, which can be easily thumbed and may appeal to many anglers.

There will be a tendency this season among the bait-casters anglers seeking bass, to use smaller plugs and metal lures, also lighter test lines. For the troller, angler seeking muskalonge, there are some improved large reels and splendid trolling rods.

ENGLAND PADS CRICKET LEAD

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Runs came freely for players on the English cricket team today as they continued their second innings against Australia in the third test match and they had scored 296 for six wickets at close of play for the day.

Verdict Due Today On Seaman Watson

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The New York State Athletic Commission will decide today whether Seaman Watson is a suitable opponent for Kid Chocolate, recognized in this state as featherweight champion of the world, here January 27.

While a jury of three of the commission's deputy commissioners looked on, Watson, British champion at the weight, gave a demonstration of his boxing prowess against three tough young preliminary boys in the St. Nicholas gym yesterday. The Briton looked none too impressive, but it was expected the "jury" would put its formal stamp of approval on him.

PENN BID DECLINED

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The University of Pennsylvania's invitation to the M. I. T. crew to participate in a dual meet at Philadelphia on April 8 has been declined with thanks by the Engineers' athletic board. It explained that its crew would be unable to get in condition that early.

LOCAL HANDBALL RULES BOARD PLANNED

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Formation of a local handball governing body patterned after the successful district tennis and squash racquets groups is very definitely in the wind, according to statement of J. Rogers Flannery, chairman of the A. A. U. national glove committee and leading figure in the pastime hereabouts. Organization of a Pittsburgh Handball Association was broached at a meeting of directors of the lately revived City Inter-Club League at the Y. M. H. A. last Sunday and will be put before an open meeting of circuit players within the next fortnight or so.

Tentative plans for the new outfit provide that, as in the cases of the racquet associations, affiliation will be by clubs, rather than by individuals. Naturally enough, the first array of members will be comprised of the present entrants in the City loop, these being P. A. A., Y. M. H. A., Keystone Athletic Club and Downtown Y. M. C. A. The association would probably establish connection with the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U. and would sponsor, in addition to the present program of bi-divisional team contesting, a definite movement to expand the scope of the game here and to increase the schedule of tournaments.

The constitution and by-laws, including rules of inter-team competition, of the projected P. H. A. will be passed in general on the recently submitted code of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association. Flannery will go over the net regulations this week and will cull therefrom such portions as the glovesters may best utilize in running their affairs. Initial draft of the proposed handball document will be ready by Friday, it is hoped, and a date for the above-noted open conclave will then be selected.

The 24 members of the team who played in the Navy game also received gold star awards, an old custom revived with the official resumption of Army-Navy athletic relations.

CALVIN COOLIDGE'S LIFE STORY

to have a good working knowledge of the practical side of government. I understood that it consisted of restraints which the people had imposed upon themselves in order to promote the common welfare.

As I went about with my father when he collected taxes, I knew that when taxes were laid some one had to work to earn the money to pay them. I saw that a public debt was a burden on all the people in a community, and while it was necessary to meet the needs of a disaster it cost much in interest and ought to be retired as soon as possible.

Work on Farm

After the winter work of laying in a supply of wood had been done, the farm year began about the first of April with the opening of the maple sugar season. This was the most interesting of all the farm operations to me.

With the coming of the first warm days we broke a road through the deep snow into the sugar lot, tapped the trees, set the buckets, and brought the sap to the sugar house, where in a heater and pans it was boiled down into syrup to be taken to the house for sugaring off. We made 800 to 2,000 pounds, according to the season.

After that the fences had to be repaired where they had been broken down by the snow, the cattle turned out to pasture, and the spring planting done. Then came sheep-shearing time, which was followed by getting in the hay, harvesting and threshing of the grain, cutting and husking the corn, digging the potatoes and picking the apples. Just before Thanksgiving the poultry had to be dressed for market, and a little later the fattened hogs were butchered and the meat salted down. Early in the winter a beef creature was slaughtered.

The work of the farm was done by the oxen, except running the mowing machine and horse rake. I early learned to drive oxen and used to plow with them alone when I was 12 years old. Of course, there was the constant care of the domestic animals, the milking of the cows, and taking them to and from pasture, which was especially my responsibility.

Holiday's Celebrated

We had husking bees, apple-paring bees and singing schools in the winter. There were parties for the young folks and an occasional dramatic exhibition by local talent. Not far away there were some public dances, which I was never permitted to attend.

Some time during the summer we usually went to the circus, often rising by 3 o'clock so as to get there early. In the autumn we visited the county fair. The holidays were all celebrated in some fashion.

Of course, the Fourth of July meant a great deal to me, because it was my birthday. The first one I can remember was when I was four years old. My father took me fishing in the meadow brook in the morning. I recall that I fell in the water, after which we had a heavy thundershower, so that we both came home very wet. Usually there was a picnic celebration on that day.

Thanksgiving was a feast day for family reunions at the home of the grandparents. Christmas was a sacrament observed with the exchange of gifts; when the stockings were hung, and the spruce tree was lighted in the symbol of Christian faith and love. While there was plenty of hard work, there was no lack of pleasurable diversion.

When the work was done for the day, it was customary to drop into the store to get the evening mail and exchange views on topics of interest. A few times I saw there Attorney General John G. Sargent with his father, who was a much respected man.

A number of those who came had followed Sheridan, been with Meade at Gettysburg, and served under Grant, but they seldom volunteered any information about it. They were not talkative and took their military service in a matter of fact way, not as anything to brag about but merely as something they did because it ought to be done.

Early Impressions

They drew no class distinctions except towards those who assumed superior airs. Those they held in contempt. They held strongly to the doctrine of equality. Whenever the hired man or the hired girl wanted to go anywhere they were always understood to be entitled to my place in the wagon, in which case I remained at home. This gave me a very early training in democratic ideas and impressed upon me very forcibly the dignity and power, if not the superiority of labor.

It was all a fine atmosphere in which to raise a boy. As I look back on it I constantly think how clean it was. There was little about it that was artificial. It was all close to nature and in accordance with the ways of nature. The streams ran clear. The roads, the woods, the fields, the people—all were clean. Even when I try to divest it of the halo which I know always surrounds the past, I am unable to create any other impression than that it was fresh and clean.

We had some books, but not many. Mother liked poetry and read some novels. Father had no taste for books, but always took and read a daily paper. My grandfather Moor read books and papers, so that he was a well-informed man.

My grandmother Coolidge liked books and besides a daily Chapter in the Bible read aloud to me "The Rangers or the Tory's Daughter" and "The Green Mountain Boys," which were both stories of the early settlers of Vermont during the Revolutionary period. She also had two volumes entitled "Washington and His Generals," and other biographies which I read myself at an early age with a great deal of interest.

Start of Education

At home there were numerous law books. In this way I grew up with a working knowledge of the foundations of my state and nation and a taste for history.

My education began with a set of blocks which had on them the Roman numerals and the letters of the alphabet. It is not yet finished. As I played with them and asked my mother what they were, I came to know them all when I was 3 years old. I started to school when I was 5.

The little stone school house which had unpainted benches and desks wide enough to seat two was attended by about 25 scholars. Few, if any, of my teachers reached the standard now required by all public schools. They qualified by examination before the town superintendent. I first took this examination and passed it at the age of 13 and my sister Abbie passed it and taught a term of school in a neighboring town when she was 12 years old.

My teachers were young women from neighboring communities, except sometimes when a man was employed for the winter term. They were all intelligent, of good character, and interested in their work. I do not feel that the quality of their instruction was in any way inferior. The common school subjects were taught, with grammar and United States history, so that when I was 13 I had mastered them all and went to Black River Academy, at Ludlow.

That was one of the greatest events of my life. The packing and preparation for it required more time and attention than collecting my belongings in preparation for leaving the White House. I counted the hours until it was time to go.

My whole outfit went easily into two small handbags, which lay on the straw in the back of the traverse sleigh beside the fatted calf that was starting to market. The winter snow lay on the ground. The weather was well below freezing. But in my eagerness these counted for nothing.

Preferred Country

I was going where I would be mostly my own master. I was casting off what I thought was the drudgery of farm life, symbolized by the cowhide boots and every-day clothing which I was leaving behind, not realizing what a relief it would be to return to them in future years. I had on my best clothes and wore shoes with rubbers, because the village had sidewalks.

I did not know that there were mental and moral atmospheres more monotonous and more contaminating than anything in the physical atmosphere of country life. No one could have made me believe that I should ever be so innocent or so happy again.

As we rounded the brow of the hill the first rays of the morning sun streamed over our backs and lighted up the glistening snow ahead. I was perfectly certain that I was traveling out of the darkness into the light.

We have much speculation over whether the city or the country is the better place to bring up boys. I am prejudiced in behalf of the country, but I should have to admit that much depends on the parents and the surrounding neighborhood. We felt the cold in winter and had many inconveniences, but we did not mind them because we supposed they were the inevitable burdens of existence.

It would be hard to imagine better surroundings for the development of a boy than those which I had. While a wider breadth of training and knowledge could have been presented to me, there was a daily contact with many new ideas, and the mind was given sufficient opportunity thoroughly to digest all that came to it.

Country life does not always have breadth, but it has depth. It is neither artificial nor superficial, but is kept close to the realities.

While I can think of many pleasures we did not have, and many niceties of culture with which we were unfamiliar, yet if I had the power to order my life anew I would not dare to change that period of it. If it did not afford me the best that there was, it abundantly provided the best that there was for me.

European Sugar Consumption Up

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Statistics of 12 European countries for the first three months of their 1932-33 crop, show the following results, according to B. W. Dyer & Co.: Consumption is higher by 42,236 long tons, or 2.3 per cent, compared with the same period in the previous year. Production is behind last year by 681,171 tons, a decrease of 15.2 per cent and stocks on December 1, 1932, were 594,045 tons less than on December 1, 1931.

St. Paul Railway Loadings Better

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—During the week ended January 14, the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad handled 20,065 revenue freight cars as against 17,277 in the preceding week and 23,476 in the like period in 1932.

FARMER CREDIT UNIFICATION SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—A direct saving of more than $16,000,000 annually to the American farmer is proposed by the bill recently introduced by Senator Robinson (Dem.), of Arkansas, for unification of the federal farm loan systems.

Unification would be effected through the absorption of liquidation of Joint Stock Land banks by the Federal Land Bank system. The Federal Land banks, under the new set-up, would call in outstanding bonded indebtedness and issue new government-secured obligations bearing 3 per cent.

Existing mortgages of both Federal Land banks and of Joint Stock Land banks would be rewritten at a reduced rate of interest, not to exceed 4½ per cent, payment of such mortgages to be amortized over a period of 40 years.

SEE INTEREST SAVING

The Federal Land banks would purchase the mortgages of the Joint Stock Land banks whenever 80 per cent of bondholders have agreed to turn in their bonds for the new 3 per cent guaranteed consolidated bonds of the Federal Land banks. No principal payments would be required for three years.

The bill in effect would cut down mortgage interest by 1 per cent on federal land bank mortgages, and 1½ per cent on those held by joint stock land banks. The average rates now in effect are 5 2-5 per cent on federal land bank mortgages, and 6 per cent on joint stock land banks. The reduction in bond interest would scale upward from 1 per cent as the lowest rate on the bonded indebtedness now is 4 per cent.

MORTGAGE VOLUME

Federal land bank mortgages outstanding at the close of November amounted to $1,131,762,000, the Federal Farm Loan Bureau reports, carrying annual interest charges of $61,115,148. Under the proposed bill the annual interest charges would be $50,929,290, representing a saving of $10,185,858.

Joint stock land bank mortgages outstanding on November 30 were $418,542,000, carrying annual interest charges of $25,112,530. Under the proposed bill these charges would be reduced to $18,834,390, a saving of $6,278,130 per year.

French Reported Delaying Payment Until Hoover Quits

By B. C. FORBES

THIS IS good news for American taxpayers:

The French intend to pay their overdue war debts to us after President Hoover leaves the White House.

Mr. Forbes

THAT COMES from the innermost of inside sources.

Chagrined, disgusted by what they interpreted as "double-crossing" by President Hoover, they decided to do everything within their power to put him in a hole—just as they felt very strongly that he had put them in a hole.

Their tale of woe was, briefly, this:

President Hoover insisted upon his historic war debt moratorium against the free will of the French. He told Germany that it need not—so the French claim—pay France the sums stipulated by the Young plan. After they, reluctantly and somewhat resentfully, fell into line, President Hoover led Premier Laval to believe—again giving the French version, please understand—that if the leading European nations would agree to cut down very drastically their reparation demands upon Germany, then the United States would take similar action towards their war debtors.

The Lausanne pact, regarded by France as one of her noblest, most self-sacrificing acts, was duly entered into, abolishing the Young plan, with its war-debt tolls dragged out over two generations.

THEN FRANCE turned to President Hoover expectantly, confidently, proudly. France had been wonderful, magnanimous, idealistic—according to her light. President Hoover could not think of doing anything less generous than France had done at Lausanne.

In the eyes of France he proved a four-flusher, a misleader, a false friend. "A bas le President de les etats-unis."

BUT FRANCE, having done her utmost to confound the friend who played her false, is not at all proud of having been a defaulter. She has foreign investments. She is wealthy. She does not desire all-around repudiation of a solemn obligation.

Therefore, when there comes into power at Washington a new President, an official against whom she has no grudge, an official whose good will she is eagerly anxious to cultivate, she will make the grand gesture of expressing her infinite pleasure in remitting to him the money she refused to remit when her false friend was in power.

THAT'S THE situation as I have it from what should be thoroughly-informed sources.

Low Winter Wheat Crop Aids Outlook

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 17.—The Saskatchewan wheat pool has turned mildly optimistic over the wheat situation. George W. Robertson, secretary, forecasting an easing of the pressure that is forcing prices down, says one feature of importance is the outlook for the United States winter wheat crop. He stresses the lower acreage and probable lower yield as a bullish factor.

WORLD WHEAT TRAFFIC UP

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—World traffic in wheat picked up sharply during the past week, with North America and Australia clearing the major share of the 16,632,000 bushels in the period. During the first six months of the current crop season weekly shipments averaged only 10,800,000 bushels.

World clearances for the season to January 16 included 310,026,000 bushels against 418,811,000 bushels in the like time last year and 416,309,000 bushels two seasons ago.

Broomhall believes the world will import 704,000,000 bushels during the entire crop season or 394,000,000 more than has been cleared to date, the 1931-32 shipments were 770,000,000 bushels, while those during 1930-31 were 787,000,000 bushels.

Daily Oil Output Shows Small Drop

TULSA, Jan. 17.—Daily average production of crude oil in the United States during the week ended January 14 totaled 2,037,970 barrels, a decrease of 397 barrels daily from the preceding week, according to the Oil and Gas Journal.

Ships accomplish the actual physical transfer of goods from country to country in international trade. Banks, with their world-wide connections, make possible the transfer of money, always an essential factor in modern commerce . . . Through the established channels of communication, cable, radio and mail, the banks of the world provide a rapid, safe means of financing such transactions . . . Without this service, foreign trade would be reduced to the primitive system of barter.

STOCK MARKET PRICES TURN FIRMER

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Stocks took a somewhat firmer stand in today's market, after the rather sharp selloff late yesterday.

Trading remained at low ebb, however. Failure of the setback of the previous session to bring out important liquidation was regarded as encouraging, but there was nothing constructive enough in the day's news to inspire fresh bullish activity. Price changes were largely limited to minor fractions.

Yesterday's setback in the market left an aftermath of bearishness in some brokerage circles, where it was pointed out that the early January rally, induced in part by the strength of bonds, as year-end interest and dividend disbursements were reinvested, seemed to be over, and that it would presumably require constructive developments in Washington, or convincing indications of a fair seasonal pickup in business activity, to put the market on the upward track once more.

Business news was meager, although the early reports of last week's freight movement by individual carriers were satisfactory, indicating that normal January influences toward expansion were at work.

The American Telephone Company reported that the Bell System lost 102,000 stations in December, which was virtually unchanged from the losses of November. The company will consider maintenance of its $9 annual dividend rate at its meeting in February. No information, in advance of the appearance of the annual report, was given this year as to fourth-quarter earnings, so Wall street has little on which to base its judgment as to the dividend probability. United States Steel directors are slated to consider the preferred dividend January 31, and one prominent statistical service lists this with "reduction or omission indicated."

COTTON PRICES HOLD STEADY

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Cotton futures opened steady, 1 higher to 3 lower in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables and trade buying which was offset by moderate liquidation. March, 6.04; May, 6.15; July, 6.28; October, 6.47; December, 6.59.

The late months were relatively easy under scattering liquidation and southern selling at the start, but offerings were readily absorbed by a continuance of trade buying and a moderate commission house demand. By the end of the first half hour March had sold up from 6.03 to 6.07, while July had advanced to 6.33, and active months showed net gains of about 2 to 6 points.

Trading continued quiet later in the morning. There was some Liverpool selling here up to the hour of the close abroad and after the early advance, prices sagged to 6.02 for March, or back to about yesterday's final quotation. Later the market steadied on further trade buying and prices at midday were net unchanged to 5 points higher.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 17.—Cotton, 15,000 bales, all American. Spot increased demand; prices 6 points lower; quotations in pence: Strict good middling, 5.88; good middling, 5.58; strict middling, 5.33; middling, 5.18; strict low middling, 5.03; low middling, 4.88; strict good ordinary, 4.68; good ordinary, 4.35. Futures closed quiet and steady. January, 4.93; March, 4.94; May, 4.96; July, 4.98; October, 5.02; December, 5.06.

RADIO PATENT POOL SUIT SETTLED

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—A $30,000,000 suit brought in Federal Court here in June, 1930, by the Grigsby-Grunow Company, of Chicago, against the Radio Corporation of America and affiliated organizations, was dismissed today by Judge Albert L. Reeves.

The dismissal followed the filing of a stipulation based on a settlement made December 30 in Westchester County, New York. The terms of the settlement were not revealed by the stipulation.

The suit, filed by former Senator James A. Reed, alleged that the Radio Corporation of America and its affiliated companies, named as the General Electric Company, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, and others, had formed a patent pool, resulting in world wide control of radio manufacturing.

The petition alleged a conspiracy in restraint of trade on the part of the several organizations named as defendants, as defined by the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

A statement issued today by David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, said an amicable agreement had been reached "in order to avoid further economic waste and business disorganization."

GUN VICTIM'S UNCLE HELD

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—John Porello, 38, uncle of Angelo Porello, 25, former Clevelander, who was shot and killed in a gun fight here Friday night, pleaded not guilty when arraigned today on a charge of assault, first degree.

Porello is accused by police of participating in a shooting affray together with his nephew and Samuel Varisco, 32, Buffalo politician, who is charged with murder, first degree, in connection with the killing. Varisco, police said, admitted shooting the younger Porello, but said he fired in self-defense after being shot at by the other two men.

The Porellos are members of a once wealthy and powerful Cleveland family, four of whom have been killed in an alleged feud with another family over control of the corn sugar racket in the Ohio city. Seven other persons have died as a result of the feud.

Bail for Porello was set at $5,000 and he was returned to jail when the amount was not immediately provided. His case was set for Friday, the same day Varisco will get a hearing on the murder charge.

SENATE PUSHES FARM BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Full speed ahead in preparing the emergency farm relief bill for Senate consideration was ordered today after the Senate Agriculture Committe had marked time for 24 hours so that the views of President-elect Roosevelt might be obtained by Democratic members.

Returning from New York, where he conferred with Mr. Roosevelt, the ranking Democrat on the committee—Senator Smith, of South Carolina—took into the executive session a good idea of the principles which the head of his party has in mind for helping the farmer.

While it was emphasized anew that Mr. Roosevelt has no desire to appear to be directing details of legislation in advance of his assumption of office, he is keeping a close watch on the progress of agricultural measures and is letting his followers in Congress know that he regards the enactment of farm relief at this session as imperative.

RETAIL TRADE FAIR; SOME PRICES DROP

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics New York University

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Little change was evident in the business picture last week.

The weekly business statistics available are still under the influence of irregularities in holidays, which makes comparisons difficult, but it seems that business in most lines has been just about holding its own.

Car loadings showed about the expected seasonal gain. The last two weeks taken together, however, ran only about 52 per cent of the 10-year average for the period.

STEEL GAINS SOME

Activity in the steel industry crept up a little, as is to be expected in January. There is really little indication of expanding demand among the chief steel-consuming industries.

In fact, automobile production has receded somewhat. But that was expected, since the December spurt was for the purpose of supplying dealers with new models.

Some of the weekly commodity price averages declined to new lows last week. This evidence as to wholesale price trends, however, is not conclusive, and a considerable number of important items gained on the week.

It is interesting to note that the passage of the farm allotment plan bill by the House seemed to affect prices unfavorably, most markets tending to react on the news.

The news pertaining to business that is most discussed is political, the general idea being that the period of uncertainty is to be prolonged by the present state of politics.

INFLATION ISSUE

The big question continues to concern "inflation." The struggle is on between those who seek to boost prices back to higher levels by doing things to money or credit, and those who desire merely to facilitate the adjustments to the present levels which are now being made. As long as this struggle goes on, there will probable be unsettlement. Which is the easier? Which is the sounder?

The inflationists, in their desire to boost prices, propose silver remonetization, dollar devaluation, or the issuance of large amounts of paper money. They favor letting down the bars for more R. F. C. loans or almost any scheme to increase government debt.

Their opponents believe that the deflation of the past has been necessary, and that price levels are down to stay. The existing price level may be low enough, but they contend that further adjustments are required to enable business to operate at these levels.

FAVOR DEBT CUTS

Accordingly, they favor the reduction of debts by adjustments between debtor and creditor, including loan interest charges. To this end they would improve our laws concerning bankruptcy and receivership, and such measures are pending in Congress.

They would favor a moderation of tariffs for the purpose of restoring foreign markets for farm products.

They would stick to the gold standard, but revise our banking system to make credit sounder.

The inflationists would relieve debtors by reducing the value of the dollar, and try to get back to the old inflated condition by government borrowing, thus maintaining or increasing the total debt burden.

The readjustment school would settle debts by facilitating adjustments in the amount of the debts, and seek to restore confidence by sound money and credit. They want the total debt burden of the country reduced.

Which way is the easier? Which would be better in the long run?

MARY FAITH

Mary Faith Worries About Her Husband's Interest In Another Girl

CHAPTER XXXIII.

She took exquisite care of herself. She had never let herself grow careless about her appearance as so many young wives do when the babies start coming and the household cares increase. Every night before she went to bed she burnished her dark hair with a hundred strokes of her hairbrush. She carefully manicured her nails, and she always saw to it that her clothes were spotless.

She was propped up among the snowy pillows of the bed, deep in the second chapter of her book, when she heard Kim unlock the front door of the flat and come down the little hallway to the bedroom.

After a year and eight months of married life, her heart still beat faster at the sound of his footsteps. Lately she never knew what mood he would be in when he stepped into the flat. The night before he had hardly a word for her, and this morning he had forgotten to kiss her when he left for the office. She had been thinking of it all day, telling herself that he was worried about something at the office.

As he came through the doorway now, she smiled up at him and held out a hand. His own fell slackly away from hers as soon as he had touched it. "Still awake?" he asked tonelessly.

"Of course, I'm awake, Kim." She closed her book and laid it on the bedside table. "I want to hear all about the clam bake. I've never been to one, and I've been wondering if they're anything like corn roasts. What do they do? Build big fires on the beach and have supper there?"

RESENTS QUESTIONS

Kim turned his back to her and began to take off his necktie.

"Yeah, that's the way they do it," he answered.

He took off his coat and Mary Faith got out of bed to hang it over the back of the chair. Then she took the pajamas from their hook in the clothes closet and handed them to him. She always waited on him as if she were his servant.

"I was sure I saw you tonight," she said presently, by way of making conversation. "I felt lonesome, so I took the baby up to Mrs. Puckett's and had dinner there. On the way home, I was positive that I saw you come out of the drug store."

He swung around then and looked at her. "Oh, you're crazy!" he said roughly. "So that's why you were cross-questioning me about the clam bake? Trying to find out whether I really went to one, or not—"

"Why, Kim, I was not," Mary Faith's voice was full of indignation. "I thought it was you only for a minute or two . . . And if I asked about the clam bake, it's only because I wanted to know what kind of an evening you'd had. Kim, you know I'm not the kind of woman who suspects her husband of lying and cheating—"

"Well, all right, I'll take your word for it. Right now I'm too tired to do much talking."

MOTHER RETURNS

He was tired. He staggered like a drunken man as he walked across the room to his bed, and he was sound asleep a moment after his handsome blond head touched the pillow.

On Sunday afternoon Mrs. Farrell came home from Hampden Ledges in Dr. Thatcher's car. She looked better than Mary Faith had ever seen her.

"I had a beautiful time," she said at supper. "Lucy waited on me, hand, foot and finger all the time I was there. She just couldn't do enough for me, it seemed. Every morning she brought me my breakfast in bed and once or twice a week she'd have friends in to lunch, just for my entertainment."

This was her way of making Mary Faith feel that she was neglected at home, and Mary Faith knew it. She knew, too, that she did not neglect her, but she felt a bit guilty anyhow.

"Perhaps we ought not leave your mother," she said to Kim that night when he suggested a drive through the park. "If we go out, she'll have to sit here alone with the baby, and she won't like that after the gay life she's had at Lucy's all summer."

Kim's only answer was, "Well, suit yourself about going." He started for the front door, and she suddenly decided to go, too. After all, he was more important than Mother Farrell, and they wouldn't be gone long.

ANOTHER GIRL

On the way back to the flat Mary Faith suggested that they stop at the drug store on the corner for a soda. Afterward she remembered that Kim had not looked exactly pleased at the suggestion.

They were sitting at the marble counter when she saw him turn his head and look at someone on the other side of the store. Mary Faith turned her own head after a minute to find out whom he was looking at so steadily.

Behind the perfume and cosmetics counter stood a tall girl in a green linen dress. Her eyes, from that distance, looked as if they were green, too, and her ash-blonde hair was braided around her head. She was extremely pretty. And she was smiling at Kim.

As soon as Mary Faith turned, she stopped smiling and Kim looked away.

"Kim, why should you turn your head and grin at her, even if she is pretty?" asked Mary Faith.

Kim laughed and shrugged his broad shoulders. "You know what they say, Mary Faith. A woman is as old as she looks, but a man is old when he stops looking."

Mary Faith could not see any humor in that. "I never think of noticing any man but you, Kim. I never really see anybody but you anywhere."

He patted her hand.

Two or three times the next day or two Mary Faith found herself thinking of the girl in the drug store and of the man whom she had seen coming out of the store on the night of the Shore Club clam bake.

Was it possible . . . ?

LIES TO WIFE

Beyond this point Mary Faith's mind refused to go. She was so honest and straightforward herself that it was easy for her to believe that everybody else was straightforward and honest too. Her instinct was to trust people in general, and Kim in particular.

However, she was neither stupid nor blind. And as the bright chilly weeks of the autumn went by, she knew that Kim no longer belonged to her as he had during the summer. She knew it by a dozen signs. He began to have late afternoon appointments that kept him from home until 8 or 9 o'clock. Now and then he had to see somebody on Sunday about some legal business, or so he said.

"I'm driving down to Steubenville on Sunday to see a client of ours," he would say to Mary Faith in a frank, offhand way, exactly as if he had nothing to hide. "McIntrae asked me to go, and I couldn't very well refuse him."

On his return, he would tell her how lovely the country had looked, how his client had asked him to stay to dinner, and how he had refused.

"I wish he wouldn't tell me all those stories," Mary Faith sometimes thought as she listened to them. They did not deceive her for an instant, and it filled her with shame to know that Kim could tell her such palpable lies. That feeling of shame was harder to bear somehow than the knowledge that Kim had spent those hours away from home with another woman.

That there was another woman in his life, she knew—the blonde girl who worked in the drug store at the corner. Sometimes, on the nights when Kim came home for dinner, he would decide suddenly to run down to the drug store for a book from the rack of popular fiction on display there.

"I'll be back in a little while," he would tell her, as he picked up his hat and made for the door. "I'm just going to get something to read."

He might come back in a few minutes with a book in his hand. But the chances were that he would be gone for an hour or two. Mary Faith never asked him where he had been. Sometimes she pretended to be asleep when he returned, so that he would have no opportunity to tell her any more of his elaborate and unconvincing stories.

She often asked herself what another wife would do in her place. Would she make a scene? Burst into tears and tell Kim that he would have to choose between her and the girl? Threaten him with a divorce?

She knew that she never could do any of those things. Thinking about them would be as far as she would go. Thinking and worrying and watching the slow hands of the clock on the nights when Kim stayed out until eleven or twelve.

"And I suppose that's what most women do," she thought, "when their husbands find some interest outside their own homes. They shut their eyes to the whole thing, just as I do, and wait for it to come to an end."

And then, without warning, she found herself at the place where she could no longer shut her eyes to Kim's extraordinary behavior.

One Saturday evening, early in November, she had come into the flat at six after a trip to the market for the food for Sunday dinner.

As she fitted her key into the lock, the door was pulled open and Mrs. Farrell's frightened face appeared.

"The baby!" she gasped. "He's in a convulsion—The phone's out of order, and nobody's home in the building. I rang all the bells—You call the doctor. I'll get the hot water."

Synopsis

Mary Faith, secretary to Mark Nesbit, wealthy businessman, gives up her position to marry Kimberley Farrell, shiftless young lawyer. She realizes he has an eye for every girl, but hopes that married life will sober him and make him successful in his profession. Instead, Kim is annoyed at Mary Faith's "Puritanism," and his friends, Claire and Jack Maldon, find her a dull companion. Learning that she is to become a mother, Mary Faith, for the first time, visits Kim's office. Kim is furious when Mary Faith finds him flirting with his blonde secretary. That night he informs his mother and Mary Faith that he is leaving. Heartbroken, Mary Faith decides not to tell him of her approaching motherhood. She gets a temporary job as a stenographer. Kim returns after a son is born. Months of happiness follow before Kim shows signs again of his old restlessness.

Now Go On

So that's why you were cross-questioning me," he said.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

As usual the McKeesport Memorial Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theater Junior Komic Club had an enthusiastic meeting Saturday, with an attendance of something more than 400. It was in charge of Manager Louis Gilbert and the program included 23 snappy numbers. These included vocal selections by Elsie Mae Clark, Blanche and Jeanne Davis in a duet, Helen, Eleanore and Irene Mathes in a vocal trio, accompanied by "Uke," Jackie Russell and Dorothy Ringer, Magdalene Curtis, Richard Fetters, Beverly Marz and Marion Duffy, Abe Urvanski, Margaret Kados, Margie Firden and Grace Sykes, Dollie Livingston, Lillian Paule, Dorothy Goyolier and Yvonne Olson. There were dances by May, Edward and Gertrude Usko; songs and dances by Evelyn Usko, Stella Barton and Ruth Anderson; song and recitation by Lois Devine Compson.

These McKeesport Saturday morning meetings are developing a lot of talent that bids fair to be seen and heard on "big time" in the near future.

BELMAR CHAPTER

The members of the Belmar Chapter enjoyed some fast stepping entertainment at the meeting last Saturday. With an array of junior stars, such as David Jeffrey, the "Rhythm Sisters" and Anna Johnson—the show seemed to be part of a professional revue.

Dave Jeffrey acted as master of ceremonies—starting the ball a-rolling by introducing little Rosemary Griffen, who did a tap dance. Rosemary certainly showed the members what a little girl could do, and received a big round of applause at the conclusion of her act. The "Rhythm Sisters" were next, and proved to the club that Rhythm was not only their name, but their nature, too. They gave a perfect exhibition of tap dancing, together and singly. Long and loud applause was given the girls at the conclusion of their dance. Dave Jeffrey then sang "Everything But You"—singing it in his own inimitable manner. Anna Margaret Johnson entertained with a tap dance on roller skates. The novelty of tap dancing on skates caught the fancy of the club and Anna received bursts of applause for every step. Dave next introduced the Rhythm Sisters, who further showed their expertness by going through exceedingly clever dance maneuvers together and singly. As formerly, they received a big round of applause. The master of ceremonies again sang, this time a little tune entitled "Cutest Kid in Town." Dave is a local boy and very well known and appreciated.

The final number on the program was an acrobatic dance by that versatile little miss, Anna Margaret Johnson and what a dance it was! Anna received plenty of plaudits for her splendid work.

ROWLAND CHAPTER

The Rowland Theater Chapter at the Saturday meeting enjoyed the novelty of a 5-year-old youngster—David Stanley—officiating as director of the orchestra.

Miss Mildred Rathoff then introduced Prof. Mayer, the "Punch and Judy" man. The professor made a short talk in which he told the children how this old-time entertainment originated, after which he gave an amusing and laugh-provoking "Punch and Judy" performance. Miss Rathoff promised the kiddies another great show for next Saturday.

The Law Is Always Dignified

That case in Brooklyn alimony jail would make Blackstone do a head stand on a broken bottle.

A man and otherwise husband was cooped in 1930 for failure to validate his alimony. At that time he owed a few hundred dollars of matrimonial ransom.

He stayed there two years rotating his thumbs while the law beat its wings against the speakeasy bars.

During that time he earned no more than a crow on Stone Mountain. In the meantime the back alimony put on speed until it was way out in front.

Instead of neat hundreds it became streamline thousands. Every week the poor man did another stroll on the diving plank. He learned to read and write English while in the coopgow. At the start of the third year he could talk to a judge in his own language. Which is always contempt of court.

He wanted to know if defection in alimony was a lifetime offense. That's a long time between drinks. The judge blazed a trail around his head with his index fingers and figured it out.

The longer he kept the mugg in the cooler the worse he got. Alimony, like the mail, stops for neither time, tide nor storm. It is a self-winding wrist watch.

From thousands it would bloom into millions. Should they keep the lad in the shade? Or should they spring him?

Should he be punished according to the letter of the law? Or should they skip a few pages and put him on the curb? We have not yet acquired the judge's decision. It is a decision for a Solomon and a thousand kibitzers.

While the man was in jail his wife was not drawing down any alimony. All the stuff did was to accumulate without dividends.

Our decision would be to free the young fellow. For even alimony in the first degree has extenuating circumstances. There are four sides to every packing case. You can't put a man in jail for life because his wife is mad at him.

At the end of 50 years he would be deeper in debt than ever. No one would have benefited by the incarceration. The majesty of the law alone would have been appeased.

And like the ringmaster at the circus, the law is always dignified, no matter what the clowns and the monkeys do.

The Lamar girls' basketball team had quite an experience at Jasper Friday evening. The girls won their game. They won it with a vengeance. Lamar scored 53 and Jasper 4. The Jasper girls had planned a little entertainment for their friends from Lamar, after the game was over. But that score put a quietus on the entertainment. The Jasper girls, when the game was over, merely put on their wraps and went home. All there was left for Lamar to do was to file down to the station where they cooled their heels in a box car until the coming of the northbound passenger.

He hopes soon to make an announcement which he says is "the most advanced step toward nation-wide economy since the invention of the automatic bridge dealing table." In short, Mr. Frisby, in co-operation with prominent Belgian glass blowers, has perfected the Frisby Double Necked Technocratic bottle. "This bottle," says Frisby, "makes one bottle do the work of two — thus releasing the equivalent of 10,000 square miles of shelf room in medicine cabinets, and saving millions of dollars to home builders who otherwise would have to excavate for larger cellars."

Congress Must Protect American Market by Emergency Legislation

ONE OF La Fontaine's fables is about the insect which expired believing that it had afforded a life-long protection to the lion in whose hide its life was spent.

A very similar degree of protection, — and certainly no greater—is that which the American home market is receiving, under the conditions which exist today, from our vaunted protective tariff.

With reference to a long and steadily lengthening category of goods and articles in common use among us, OUR HOME MARKET IS NOT A PROTECTED MARKET AT ALL.

On the contrary, it is virtually a FREE MARKET and as to such goods as are flowing in quantities into this country at prices, including the ineffectual duties which we impose, far less than our cost of production, the United States is to all intents and purposes on a FREE TRADE basis.

With the average factory wage which prevails in the United States of sixty cents an hour, our tariff means nothing to the manufacturer in Japan, for instance, who pays his labor seven cents an hour; or to the Italian and French producers whose wage costs are respectively nine and twelve cents per hour.

Such differences in relative costs of production are not bridged by the highest rates of duty assessed by the tariff act now in force.

WHEN, in addition to the advantage which the foreign manufacturer enjoys in the matter of labor costs, we take into consideration the further advantage which his depreciated currency gives him in competing with our prices reckoned in gold, it will be only too apparent that the American system of protection has, in large measure, been OVERTHROWN.

THE PROTECTED AMERICAN HOME MARKET becomes merely an ironical expression. It is an empty phrase.

Let us take for illustration the cheap Japanese rugs which we mentioned a few days ago. They are landed in this country for six cents each, wholesale, including the payment of a duty of seventy-five per cent upon their foreign cost.

This means that their total cost in Japan is a little less than three-and-one-half cents, including the wholesaler's profit and the cost of transportation to this country. Adding to this a seventy-five per cent duty, imposed by the American tariff, the rug costs at wholesale, laid down in this country and inside our tariff barriers—SIX CENTS.

The production cost of a similar rug in this country is TWENTY-NINE CENTS.

This amazing discrepancy is explained by the fact that the factory wage in Japan is seven cents an hour,—little more than ten per cent of the average factory wage in this country.

But it must be borne in mind that Japan MEETS ALL HER COSTS IN A CURRENCY WHICH HAS DEPRECIATED sixty per cent in its ratio to American currency.

This two-fold advantage simply eliminates the United States as even a COMPETITOR IN ITS OWN MARKET.

But this is only one of numberless instances. Similar illustrations of the unguarded and defenseless position of the American home market could be multiplied without end.

WHEN one reflects that such facts as these are at the bottom of our unemployment problem; that they explain our idle mills and factories, our diminishing domestic trade and the widespread suffering of our people — it is easy to understand the demand which is sweeping the country that AN END shall be put to such an INTOLERABLE CONDITION OF AFFAIRS.

Other nations confronted by the same conditions, although in a far less aggravated degree, have acted swiftly and effectively to protect their domestic workmen and their home market.

There is absolutely no justification for further delay on the part of the United States, to recognize the true nature of its plight and to act with promptness and decision in overcoming it.

The problem is not recondite. It contains no element of difficulty. It is not complicated.

The remedy involves two simple measures which are easy to formulate and apply.

With a flexible power to lay imposts in the form of tariff duties, coupled with a specific power to levy compensatory exchange duties, we can make certain that all foreign merchandise seeking entry into the United States pays a duty, which will make its cost at least equal to the domestic cost of production for similar goods.

We should go further in respect to all commodities whose exclusion would be preferable to any dislocation they might cause to our home market.

The protection of our home market must always be regarded as a primary duty. Its preservation,—in ITS FUNDAMENTAL ENTIRETY—is the foundation of our hope of economic recovery.

WHY DO DAYS PASS WITHOUT ACTION BY CONGRESS?

Is the national legislature so engrossed in its filibusters, disputes about patronage and the confirmation of nominations, that it must disregard its major responsibilities?

Here is a problem—not of great importance only — but of ABSOLUTELY THE FIRST IMPORTANCE TO THE WHOLE NATION.

Here is a condition which is undermining the nation's business,—every department of it, every branch of it, every aspect of it!

Every day's neglect of the problem aggravates it and adds to the suffering and distress of our people.

The case for immediate congressional action is complete. The data needed for the emergency legislation, so imperativly demanded, is all assembled. It is readily procurable from the Treasury and the Department of Commerce.

IT IS INCONCEIVABLE that CONGRESS should NOT BE ALIVE to its RESPONSIBILITY in this VITAL matter!

Senate Should Vote To Uphold President's Philippine Bill Veto

Senators in Congress who vote to sustain the President's wise and courageous veto of the infamous bill backed by the sugar lobby and its subsidiaries to scuttle the Philippine Islands will share with him the verdict of history.

And no Senator in Congress who votes to override this veto can escape the opprobrium that history will rightly attach to AN ACT OF TREACHERY that would bring upon the Congress and the nation it misrepresents THE SCORN AND REPROACH OF CIVILIZATION.

Ignorance of the cowardly and crooked provisions with which this scuttle scheme reeks, will not excuse any vote in either House of Congress to override the veto, because the reasons why this legislative monstrosity should not become a law are clearly set forth in the statesmanlike message and cabinet correspondence accompanying the veto.

As the President so truly says in his earnest and patriotic appeal to the Congress to reconsider its enactment of this indefensible legislation—"the United States has a triple responsibility in this vital matter—"responsibility to the Philippine people, responsibility to the American people and responsibility to the world at large."

This scuttle-scheme of the sugar lobby betrays the 13,000,000 of the Philippines by violating every pledge ever made to them under Democratic or Republican administrations.

It betrays the 120,000,000 people of the United States by pillorying them before the world as a nation of pledge-breakers and by alienating American territory purchased with their blood and treasure without the semblance of constitutional authority.

It betrays also American responsibility "to the world at large" by aiding and abetting civil war in the Philippines and inviting, if not compelling, the occupation of the Philippines by a hostile power and the consequent international disorders in the Far East that may involve the world at large in another war.

As Secretary Stimson points out in a letter to the President that is unanswerable in its argument in support of his veto, this bill is open to the following most serious objections:

"It finally and totally abandons the opportunity for a constructive solution of the Philippine problem which would preserve for future generations of Americans and Filipinos the benefit of this remarkable and successful experiment in cooperation between these two peoples.

"It terminates our relationship to the Philippines in a way which will inevitably increase economic distress and provoke resentment and unrest in the islands.

"It will thus tend to disturb the equilibrium of the Far East and also to greatly damage the prestige and material interests of the United States in that region.

"It will cause these evils unnecessarily and without any commensurate benefits to the agricultural interests of the United States."

Senators in Congress, "choose you this day whom ye will serve"—the honor of the United States, the welfare of the Philippine Islands and the peace of the world, or the sordid coalition of special interests which has lobbied the Philippine bill through both Houses and is now attempting to pass it over the President's veto in the Senate.

A Matter of Conscience

How Can Public Officials Reduce Subordinates' Pay Without Taking a Cut Themselves?

Judge Erwin Cummins, of the Common Pleas Court of Washington County, and Judge J. Boyd Crumrine, of the Orphans' Court, have voluntarily taken a 10 per cent cut in their $12,000 salaries.

The pay of minor officials of the court had been reduced, and Judge Cummins explained that he did not "have the conscience" to accept full pay for himself while the attaches were required to make a sacrifice.

Judges in Beaver and other counties have also taken a voluntary cut in their pay.

Allegheny County has 17 judges—14 in Common Pleas Court and three in the Orphans' Court—who draw salaries of $14,000 a year. There are 37 county officials with salaries of at least $10,000 a year.

None of them has volunteered to take a cut in pay.

The taxpayers are groaning for relief. Nearly all subordinate public officials and public employes have had to take pay cuts. The workers in every sort of private business have had their salaries and wages reduced as much as 50 per cent.

Do the consciences of the judges and other high-salaried officials permit them to continue to accept the pay of 1929?

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Discouraged?

Feel that life is a shallow, futile performance?

Ready to quit, in disgust?

Once there were three men who felt like that—Simon, James and John. Three fishermen who lived by the shores of Galilee. And there came a night when, hard though they worked, they caught nothing. With the morning, their spirits were as empty as their nets. So, in disgust, they spread their nets to dry and sat down, idle-handed.

Presently a man came by, a young man who was wise about tides and men and the dark, secret places of the sea. He sat and talked in a friendly way with them, quietly observing their idle hands, their empty spirits, their drying nets. He listened to their grumbling story of their fruitless night.

Then simply, but with such force that his words ran through them in a quickening fire, Jesus said: "Launch out into the deep and let down your nets for a draught."

They must have stared at each other when he said that, thinking how foolish and unreasonable people could be who knew nothing of fishing. But there was something in His manner which forbade much argument. So presently Simon said, sighing a little, at the hopelessness of the thing:

"Master, we have toiled all night and taken nothing. Nevertheless, at thy word I will let down the net."

So they left the shallows in which they had been wont to fish, and they launched out into the deep, which they had avoided.

"AND WHEN THEY HAD DONE, THEY ENCLOSED A GREAT MULTITUDE OF FISH, AND THEIR NET BROKE."

Leave the shallows of your laziness and fear.

Gather up the idle nets of your energy and imagination, your courage and initiative.

Launch out into the deep—into that sea of life from which your food must come.

Into the rough adventures of love and pain, of labor and sacrifice, of danger and death.

Dare the wind and the rain, the thunder, the lightning and the ruthless currents.

Launch forth! Cast your nets into the deep!

THERE IS ABUNDANCE, IF YOU HAVE THE COURAGE TO TAKE IT!

MARRY-GO-ROUND

Skidding Husbands

The old-fashioned wife was often accused of tying her husband to her apron strings—but, nowadays, a girl can't even be sure that she can hold a man by her purse-strings.

* * *

And it requires the technique of a skilled acrobat, for a woman to hang onto a job with one hand and to hang onto the average skidding husband with the other.

* * *

To most men, pulling out of a love-affair that has gone stale or become tiresome is as refreshing as pulling out of a long, dark, stuffy tunnel into the sunlight and air.

Real love ends in a sigh of regret—infatuation ends in a yawn of relief. But, by the time you have found out which it was, it's usually all over.

To forgive your enemies is no feat beside the effort to forgive the dear old pal, who carelessly lets the Boy Friend know the original color of your hair, gives away your reducing secrets and cheerfully airs your early history, under the impression that she is "boosting your game."

Unlike a girl, the average man never cares to keep a diary. He can trust to his memory to recall all the worthy or brilliant things he has done—and he fervently hopes that other people will forget all the rest of them.

The "10 most beautiful words" to the average girl are "I-love-you-Will-you-marry-me-you - beautiful-thing?" A few years later, the 10 may have been reduced to two—"Divorce-granted."

A woman may not be sure that a man has done all the things of which she suspects him—but she is always perfectly sure that he WILL, if she'll give him the time and the chance.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Among the vast army turning, as Gilbert Gabriel puts it, from "ducats to dreams," are innumerable who found a content they never imagined in this surprising simplicity. They thought the sudden disproportions of life would be unbearable, but find them not half bad.

I have, for example, a friend who reached his downtown office three years ago to realize, in a swift flood of horror, he had not only lost all material possessions but inherited huge debts. His remaining fear was he would have to leave the city he loved.

He did have to do this. For the only haven in the hurricane was a humble clerkship in a small store in an Indiana town of 4,000. The store was owned by a college mate, a class failure. Of the New Yorker's supposed friends, the Hoosier was the only one to extend the helping hand.

He moved into a $16-a-month cottage, put his children in public school and went to work. Natural aptitude in even such barren ground bore fruit. Six months ago he became a partner and his name, once gilded on an expensive frosted door, is now crudely daubed on a cheap wooden sign.

Some time ago he came to New York to straighten a few tangles. A creditor, impressed by his pluck in starting anew, offered him an $8,000-a-year post, $6,500 more, plus greater possibilities, than he could expect where he is. But he turned it down.

The Sealyham is in deserved disgrace after a wanton unraveling of the seat of a chair. Instead of freedom of the house, he was imprisoned by a detachable latticed gate in a back hall. At first he stretched on the floor, statuelike, gazing in optative mood through the criss-cross. After a day of abject contrition, he was released and celebrated his liberty by grabbing Harry Silvey's silk muffler off a bench and ripping it to tatters. So what's the use. He can have the house. I'm packing.

A turn through the Bowery today emphasized the chronic curdle of adolescence there. The pale, thin boys sit in doorways or lean out windows, chins cupped in hands dreaming perhaps of swords, ambuscades and other romanticisms. They rarely play, yet among that pallid mass of parental poignancy, history records many who, with imagination blazing like fired straw, suddenly illuminate the world with spectacular careers. After all, Al Smith is a Bowery boy!

Three old Bowery burlesque houses are empty blotches along the thoroughfare. Old-timers can not gaze upon the desolation without remembrance of that exciting moment when the overture finished and a gallery bouncer, rapping for attention, boomed: "Hats off!"

A young lady caller babbled a curiosity over the lively whirr in a box between her and a strange gentleman on a Harlem subway seat today. "It was something alive," she was certain. I didn't tell her, but Raymond Ditmars, in a naturalist book, revealed how he and others of his guild often carried snakes in innocent-looking grips on elevated trains and subways. On a Bronx express, years ago, a diamond rattler slithered out of a package across the floor. The owner retrieved it quickly and alighted at the next station, while guards revived two fainting ladies.

Show stuff: Hap Ward originated the stage term "hokum"... Judith Anderson leads two dachshunds on a bright red leash . . . Guthrie McClintic calls his wife, Katharine Cornell, "Kit" ... Fred Keating, the illusionist, began his career as a ship news reporter.

A minor thrill for yaps, watching the New York parade, is in what Henry James calls: "Emotion of recognition." In the dark, at a desultory play, I watched a lady a row ahead. A cyclonic coiffure powdered with gray, steel spectacles, and a rapt attention made her an especial magnet. So much so that when I suddenly realized she was the great Nazimova I snapped my fingers out loud. And did I gather a setting of glances!
